RATH BROTHERS MUST PLAY OUT CONTRACT WITH THE SHUBERTS

Option on Services Not Properly Exercised, Raths Held,

But Judge Manton Finds in Favor of the Shuberts

Decision of Importance to Theatrical Profession

New York, Sept. 22.—Yesterday in the U. S. District Court of the Southern District of New York Judge Manton handed down his decision in the case of the Shuberts vs. Rath Bros. By its terms the Raths will have to play out their contract with the Shuberts, Judge Manton holding that they were properly notified of the exercise of the option on their services contained in their contract. It was the contention of the Raths that the option was not properly exercised, and because of this they went to work on the Ziegfeld Roof. While working there the Shuberts applied for a restraining order and injunction to compel the Rath Brothers to live up to their contract with them.

The decision, which is printed in full below, contains important matter for the theatrical profession at large. The Billboard recommends a careful reading of it by all managers, agents, and particularly all artists:

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
Southern District of New York

Shubert Theatrical Co., Plaintiff, against No. 277
GEORGE RATH and RICHARD RATH, &c, Defendants.

WILLIAM KLEIN, Esq.,
CHARLES H. TUTTLE, Esq.
Counsel for Plaintiff.

NATHAN BURKAN, Esq.,
Counsel for Defendants.

When this application was presented on the motion for an injunction pending the trial of the action, I granted an injunction upon the ground (first) that the option permitting the renewal of the contract for another year was exercised by the plaintiff and (second) that the defendants' services were unique and unusual, and of such a character as to warrant a court of equity prohibiting them from working for another and performing the same services

It has been announced that the Rice-Dorman Shows, at the close of the 1920 season, on November 20, will be sold as a going enterprise, and if not sold will be auctioned, piecemeal, on November 22. It is understood that the management of the shows has secured one of the best circus titles and a complete circus, which it will operate next season.

In response to a wire to W. H. Rice, asking for details of the deal, he sent the following reply: "Account business reason can not give details regarding show until later."

A. E. A. WILL HOLD MEETINGS TO DISCUSS "EQUITY SHOP"

Seek Thoro Understanding Before Referendum Is Taken

First Meeting October 3 at Equity Headquarters

Similar Meetings May Be Held In Other Cities

New York, Sept. 25.—That the Actors' Equity Association intends to start a series of meetings to bring the subject of the "Equity Shop" before its members for discussion, preparatory to taking the referendum vote on the matter, was announced today by Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary of the organization.

The first of these meetings will be held at the Equity Headquarters in this city on Sunday evening, October 3, at 8 o'clock. At the meetings the members will have the "Equity Shop" explained to them, and they will be given an opportunity to ask questions and discuss the matter in order that they may thoroly understand the question before they cast their ballot for or against the proposition.

It is also proposed that similar meetings be held in the big theatrical centers, and if this is done President John Emerson will preside at the meetings in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago.

The meetings are looked on by Equity as a form of educational talks and by the time the referendum is held it is believed that the membership will be fully informed on the question of "Equity Shop."

The official Equity announcement telling of the plan is as follows:

"The Equity Shop is a subject about which there is a variety of opinion. Before the referendum vote is taken it is desirable that all our members understand the subject, and so for educational purposes the Council has decided to commence a series of meetings in New York at the Headquarters, 115 West 47th street, commencing Sunday evening, October 3, at 8 o'clock. This will give all players who happen to be in the metropolis an opportunity to come, to listen and to ask questions.

SOUTHERN FAIRS' PROSPECTS GOOD

The fair season in the South is just now getting into its stride, and prospects are good for a record-breaking year. Leading off the larger Southern fairs, the Tennessee State Fair at Nashville opened with 100 per cent greater attendance than on the opening day last year, and the record attendance held up thruout the week.

From practically all of the State and district fairs come reports that every indication points to phenomenal attendance. The reason is not far to seek. Crops are fine, factories are busy, and, despite the occasional cry of the pessimist, the business outlook is encouraging. For all of which showmen are duly thankful.

ANOTHER NEW THEATER PLANNED FOR CLEVELAND

Is Sixth To Be Started or Contemplated Within Year—Drew & Campbell To Build House Seating 2,000—Form of Entertainment Not Decided Upon

Cleveland, O., Sept. 24.—Another new theater for Cleveland, the sixth to be started or contemplated during the year, is announced this week from the offices of Drew & Campbell, one of the oldest theatrical enterprises in the United States. The new house, which will include a 20-story office building, will rise at Euclid avenue and East Eighteenth street. This project, combined with the theaters already under way in the upper Euclid avenue section, will make for Cleveland what Times Square already is for New York City, amusement interests believe.

The theater contemplated by Drew & Campbell will seat about 2,000 persons on one floor. There will be no balconies. The structure will be built to accommodate either burlesque, vaudeville or legitimate, neither form of entertainment having yet been decided upon. It is expected to start the building of the theater first next summer, according to present plans. The Allen, the Ohio, the State, the Hanna and the new Keith Theater are the other five big projects started this year.

F. M. Drew and W. T. Campbell are among the best known theater men in the business today. They are best known in this section of the country for their work in burlesque promotion. Their Star Theater, destined to fall with the march of building progress uptown in Cleveland, is a landmark to oldtimers and a Mecca for theater patrons. The work of Mr. Drew and Mr. Campbell will not rest upon their latest enterprise, but will move to the present Colonial Theater when the Shubert enterprises move into their new home farther uptown. Mr. Drew has been a figure in Cleveland amusement circles since 1884, when he came here to take over management of a theater. Mr. Campbell has been associated with him for a quarter of a century. They are not only familiar to the industry from the box-office side, but from the stage as well, having appeared in every form of amusement from dime museums to circuses and legitimate.

"THE SYMPATHIZER"

To Be Produced by Dillingham

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 24.—"The Sympathizer," Schertzinger's opera, is to be produced by Charles Dillingham, it is announced. This is the first thing of a musical nature that Schertzinger has done since Thos. H. Ince called on him to write a score for "Civilization." Ince saw his talents and made a director of him, and, since then some of the best pictures of Charles Ray, Dorothy Dalton and Mabel Normand have been made by him.

Chas. Dillingham will produce "The Sympathizer" some time this fall. The book was written by Luther Reed, another Californian, who also wrote "Dear Me" and a number of screen successes.

LARGER SALARIES

Demanded by Syndicate of Lyric Artists in Paris

New York, Sept. 26.—A cable dispatch to The World, printed today, states that a syndicate of lyric artists in Paris has presented demands to the managers for larger salaries.

They demand a minimum salary of 1,000 francs a month and that a jury be composed of an artiste not a member of the syndicate, two composers, two musical critics, a theater director and six singers who are members of the syndicate. A strike of the artists in the Opera Comique is said to be imminent, and this movement is calculated to add strength to it. The Opera Comique artists want more salary. The chorus singers are now only paid 15 francs a day, and the smaller artists get from 300 to 600 francs a month. The chorus asks for 23 francs a day, and the artists an increase of 200 to 400 francs monthly. M. Carre, the director, wants them to take a raise of 2½ francs a day, which they refuse. Unless Carre yields a strike may be called, and it is feared that it will spread to the other theaters and opera houses. The artists threaten to emigrate to America if they do not get what they regard as living salaries.

Injured While Championing the Lambs

New York, Sept. 25.—Wilton Lackaye, the actor, is recovering at a local hospital from injuries he claims to have received at the apartments of John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants. He favored letting the Lambs matter drop, he told reporters in explaining the affair, and counseled McGraw to cease talking about his recent expulsion from the Lambs.

It is not known whether Lackaye contemplates any legal action against McGraw. In a signed statement issued to the newspapers, McGraw denied that he struck Lackaye or any time.

LOEW'S UP-TOWN THEATER

In Toronto Opens to Packed House—Movie Stars Present in Person—Marcus Loew Also Attends

Toronto, Can., Sept. 22.—Magnificent from the shining new marble of its foyer to the richly tinted stage decorations, Loew's Uptown Theater, at the corner of Bloor and Yonge streets, was formally introduced to the public Monday night. This latest addition to this city's entertainment places was greeted by a throng which made the manner of its introduction a distinct triumph from every standpoint.

The opening ceremonies consisted principally of the presentation to the audience of a number of celebrated film stars. Particularly warm was the reception accorded Bert Lytell.

Other film stars introduced were Herbert Rawlinson, Montagu Love, Mlle. Dolores Cassinelli and Carl Dempster. The presence of these stars for the opening was D. W. Griffith's "The Love Flower," in which Miss Dempster is the star.

Too much cannot be said about the musical part of the program. Under Nat Wagg, a talented orchestra of exceptional ability has been gathered together, and in a most pleasing overture and also in the incidental music provided during the running of the pictures, they made a thoroly favorable impression on the audience. In addition, several delightful vocal numbers were given by Grace Soward, soprano; Avrilla Clark, mezzo-soprano; Charles Troxell, tenor, and Willard Andelin, basso.

The theater itself is the last word in playhouse construction. Its appointments are all that could be desired to give the maximum of comfort and pleasure for the 3,300 patrons for which accommodation is provided. The decorations are pleasing in every detail, pinks and grays and golds blending into a delightful whole. Especially charming is the scenic setting on the stage, in which A. S. Howard, chief scenic artist for Loew's Canadian Theaters, has achieved a real artistic triumph. Another feature which is deserving of no little praise is the lighting system.

Besides the musical numbers and the feature picture there was a Christie special production, entitled "Miss Me, Caroline," starring Bobby Vernon.

Marcus Loew, head of the chain of theaters bearing his name, was present for the opening and was prevailed upon to make a short speech. Mr. Loew and his party were the guests at luncheon Monday of Mayor T. L. Church, who, with a number of other members of the City Council and various public bodies, was present at the opening.

CLINTON-MEYERS

Opening Two New Theaters In Superior, Wis.—Things Theatrical at Head of the Lakes Continue Lively

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 23.—The Clinton-Meyers Company, of Duluth, will open two theaters during the next few days. These are the Plaza and Rialto, in Superior, Wis., which are to be operated with their theaters in Duluth and other cities in the Northwest.

The Plaza will be opened under their management Saturday night, with Charlotte Greenwood in "Linger Longer Lety," and will be followed next week by "The Girl in the Limousine," an A. H. Woods production. The Rialto will open Sunday with a Paramount program, headed by Bill Hart in "Sand."

A big fight is to be staged at the Head of the Lakes between the First National Exhibitors' Circuit and Paramount, which is starting already in great advantage to the theatre-going public. Paramount is backing the Clinton-Meyers Company, and the F. & L. interests are building up a formidable line of theaters at which First National pictures are being exhibited.

The F. & L. interests control the New Garrick, New Lyric, New Astor and New Grand theaters, and the New Palace in Superior. All but the Palace and Grand are picture houses, and the latter show vaudeville and pictures. The New Palace is showing First National pictures with a bumper vaudeville bill, making a big show at popular prices.

The Lyceum here will soon open with Paramount pictures and legitimate attractions, and will run with the Rialto in Superior and the Strand and New Sunbeam in Duluth. As the battle begins to wax hotter the playhouses are increasing the merit and size of their programs.

ARONSON RESIGNS

As General Manager of Stanley Company Interests—Has Received Many Flattering Offers, But May Continue His Activities in Atlantic City

Atlantic City, Sept. 22.—Jules E. Aronson, general manager of the Stanley Company interests in Atlantic City, last Sunday presented his resignation, to take effect not later than November 1. As Mr. Aronson has been identified with the Stanley Company of America since its inception, and with the Stanley Company for the past years prior thereto, his action created surprise in theatrical circles in this city.

It is reported that Mr. Aronson has a number of flattering offers from New York City, Philadelphia and in Atlantic City, but he has not yet announced his acceptance of any of them.

A. Sabloky, managing director of the Stanley Company of America, stated that it is with deep regret he accepts the resignation of Mr. Aronson, who for many years had proved himself one of the most valuable attributes of that company, and Mr. Sabloky added that as Mr. Aronson had provided such efficient managers at the various Stanley Theaters at Atlantic City there is no present idea of continuing a general supervisor in the resort.

It is generally hoped by Mr. Aronson's many friends here that he may decide to continue his activities in Atlantic City.

INSURANCE AGAINST RAIN

Minnie Bronson Explains Unique Form of Protection Against Loss Designed for Outdoor Showmen

New York, Sept. 24.—Unique forms of insurance are not uncommon to Lloyds of London, which is said to insure anything and everything, but in this country Henry W. Ives & Co. are the pioneers in offering insurance against rain. The company was represented at the I. A. L. C. A. convention at Waterloo, Ia., early this month by Miss Minnie Bronson. On her return from Waterloo she was interviewed by a Billboard man. She said that her company met with considerable success at the convention, the managers she spoke to being apparently quite favorable to the new form of insurance which would protect chautauquas, fairs, circuses, carnivals and other forms of the show business against that hoodoo of the showman—rain. Miss Bronson explains that Mr. Ives had a force of men at work for a period of eighteen months, going over weather reports of the past ten years in order to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion as to the percentage of risk involved.

The reports covered all sections of this country, as necessarily different rates are in force for different sections, there being a large continuous rain in some parts of the South at certain seasons, whereas at the same season there might be almost perpetual drought in another section. The rates were then compiled personally by Mr. Ives. The propaganda of the company is done almost entirely thru advertising mediums, and is only one department of a company that issues general insurance. It is stipulated in the advertising that all applications must be made about seven days prior to the event.

He has secured the engagement to play at the Florida State Fair at Jacksonville, Fla., November 18 to 27, coming there from Saratoga Springs, and will tour the State for four weeks prior to the opening of the St. Augustine season if he secures that contract.

MASONIC TEMPLE.

In Louisville, Ky., Is Center of Fight—Present Lessees Seek To Retain Possession of Theater

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 22.—Edward M. Flexner, who recently purchased the Masonic Temple, Chestnut, between Third and Fourth avenues, now occupied by the Strand Theater, from the Masonic Widows' and Orphans' Home for $300,000, has brought a legal action before Judge Krieger seeking possession of the property.

The proceedings were in the form of a request for a writ of forcible detainer filed in the County Court.

Joseph Seligman, representing the amusement company, said the writ would be contested on the grounds that the terms of the lease gave them the right to retain possession. He said he could not give any exact points which he would raise. Transfer of the theater can be delayed two or three months, even tho the present lessees lose out in the first hearing.

The Masonic interests want to open up a vaudeville house in the theater, it is said. The building was given to the Masonic Widows and Orphans' Home by the Grand Lodge of Masons of Kentucky.

THE VALUE OF ORGANIZATION

Vaudeville actors who are groaning under the cost of living on the road, and the extortionate grabbing of hotel keepers, may read the following clipping from The Performer, published by the Variety Artistes' Federation of Great Britain, and learn that even landlords realize that nothing is accomplished in this day of the world without mass action and organization:

"The dire difficulty, like a good many other disagreeable things in modern life, is always with us. Generally speaking, lack of accommodation is the excuse advanced by landladies for refusal to let pros. have rooms, but the landladies of Earlestown, Lancashire, have a new reason for denying pros. admittance. Acts who, on their arrival, have just received from an artiste, one landlady he visited after some hours of digs hunting admitted that she had accommodation for one or fifteen, but she was 'on strike.' her reasons being that she did not get all the turns appearing at the hall every week. This was not an isolated incident either, for, writes our correspondent, he walked around in the rain and knocked at half the doors of the town, only to be met with the same refusal. Apparently each and every one of the landladies in the town was 'on strike' because each did not get a full house every week. Our correspondent asks when will it be made compulsory for proprietors when building halls to provide at the same time accommodation for the pros.?"

The Latest News and This Week's Reviews This Week

NEW YORK'S THIRD LARGEST THEATER, THE COLISEUM, OPENS

Eddie Foy Heads Big Time Bill—Albee, Pat Casey and Sam Scribner Among Theatrical Notables Occupying Box—Theater Seats 3,500

New York, Sept. 24.—One of the big theatrical events of the week was the opening last evening of the new B. S. Moss Coliseum Theater, at Broadway and 181st street. It was a gala invitation performance and a capacity audience was present, every one of the 3,500 seats being filled and many being disappointed in not being able to gain admittance. Seated in the boxes were staffs of both the B. S. Moss and the B. F. Keith enterprises, which jointly control the house, the third largest in the city. B. F. Albee, Martin Beck, J. J. Murdock, J. J. Maloney, Pat Casey, Maurice Goodman, Reid Albee, E. G. Lauder and Sam Scribner were some of the box occupants.

The lobby was filled with floral pieces sent by motion picture and vaudeville stars and managers. The hall was headed by Eddie Foy and Family in a new act, followed by Yvette Rugel, Morris and Campbell, Patricola and Myers, Donald Sisters and Ed Janis and company. Norma Talmadge in "The Branded Woman" was the feature picture, and there was also a Harold Lloyd comedy.

The theater was started by B. S. Moss prior to the amalgamation of the Keith and Moss interests and completed under the Keith supervision. Eugene De Rosa was the architect. The color scheme in the new theater is ivory, gray, French gold and the American Beauty Rose red. There are elaborate furnishings of both the women's and men's lounging rooms and the Coliseum has most up to date appointments. It is equipped with a large built-in organ and an orchestra of twenty-five pieces. The vaudeville will run a full week. The Hippodrome and Capitol are the only two theaters in New York that exceed the seating capacity of the Coliseum.

MURDOCK VISITS CINCINNATI

Expresses Optimism Over Outlook for Season Just Opening

J. J. Murdock, general manager of the Keith interests, was in Cincinnati last week conferring with local theatrical men in regard to an adjustment of wage scales for certain classes of theater employees. In talking to Cincinnati newspaper men Mr. Murdock was quite optimistic over the outlook for the season just opening.

"The return to normal," he said, "guarantees first of all a steady supply of new forms of vaudeville entertainment. The sources from which original vaudeville acts spring are again in full operation. With our new system of trying out these acts 'on the dog' the public in the large cities is required to take no chances. All acts before being booked on the circuit are tried out in the small towns around New York. If they succeed they are given a trial in some of our suburban theaters in New York. That is the acid test, and if they make good there they are put on the circuit.

"Business in general is good, and it looks like a successful theatrical season in most of the cities. We can scarcely hope to duplicate last season's record. But a combination of reasons the 1919-1920 season was an abnormal one, and I doubt if we shall ever see another one as prosperous. But if the return to normal conditions proceeds in the present orderly way there is no reason why we should not continue to be optimistic."

JACK ANDERSON

Quits Road To Manage Youngstown (O.) Theater

Youngstown, O., Sept. 23.—Jolly Jack Anderson, well known as a funmaker in burlesque and musical comedy, has quit the road to take charge of the new Regent Theater here. PACKED HOUSE

Greets Opening of Louisiana Theater

New Orleans, Sept. 27.—The Louisiana Theater, playing Pantage vaudeville, opened yesterday afternoon to a house packed from pit to dome, matinee and night, and many who had neglected to obtain reservations in advance were disappointed. The Louisiana is being used temporarily till the new structure, costing over a million dollars, on Canal street, is erected. Arthur B. Leopold, the lessee, has spent upward of $50,000 in remodeling the old Dauphine, and it now stands as one of the prettiest houses in the city. The stage has been extended back, the dressing rooms enlarged and fitted with all the modern improvements for the comfort of the visiting artists. The interior, as well as exterior, has been redecorated. In addition 200 logge seats have been added, which is a new feature in this city. Unlike the other houses playing vaudeville, the prices will be slightly higher, an admission fee of 50 cents being charged against 40 in the other houses.

The opening bill included Weaver and Weaver, "The Arkansas Travelers," Little Pipifax and Company, Miller and Cofman, Seven Bell Tones, Abrams and John, and "Fashions de Vogue," together with a six-reel feature picture, William Faversham's "The Man Who Lost Himself."

Arthur B. Leopold is lessee of the house; L. S. Edmonton, manager; W. J. Dinkel, leader of orchestra; Wm. Huxen, stage carpenter; George Ottman, treasurer.

Taken all in all, the audience seemed to be satisfied with the still remained on the opening date, and it is the opinion in New Orleans theatrical circles that the Louisiana has struck the popular fancy.

Denver, Col., Sept. 22.—Celebrating the first anniversary of the establishment of the William Fox Circuit of theaters in Denver, officials of that organization have arranged elaborate programs for the benefit of the Fox patrons, and this week is to be a gala affair, according to the Fox representatives.

All of the Fox houses—the Rivoli, Strand, Isis and Plaza theaters—have been "dressed up" in holiday attire and the theaters have been decorated for the occasion from pit to dome.

Louis K. Sidney, manager of the chain of houses, came to Denver from the East, where he had long been associated with the picture theaters of New York City. Just previous to his transfer to Denver Mr. Sidney was manager of a chain of fifteen theaters in St. Louis.

ABOUT AN OLD JOKE

As the vaudeville and musical comedy season begins, it would be well for the Amalgamated Order of Producers—or whatever it is these friends of art call themselves—to pass a resolution that shall read somewhat as follows:

Resolved, That during the theatrical season of 1920-1921 and forever thereafter jokes about prohibition shall be strictly prohibited in all productions under our control.

Such a rule will give the comedians a pain, but will delight the public, of which some wans something new to laugh at, while others regard prohibition as no laughing matter, and still others decide it rude to laugh at the dead.

No doubt comedy teams at present are busily engaged in dusting off and remodeling last season's oversupply of prohibition jokes, thinking the forgetful and generous public won't recognize them in their disguise.

But let them be assured in advance that during the coming season no prohibition joke will get more than one-half of one per cent of the laugh it got last year. On the contrary, loud applause is in store for the comedy team that on making its entrance gives its audience a solemn pledge that it will not attempt one prohibition joke throughout the performance. Such an act should be hailed in the program as "a novelty act of striking originality."

Even the political platforms, which, according to some, are full of jokes and jokers, fail to say a thing about prohibition.—DES MOINES (IA.) EXCHANGE.

FRIENDSHIPS RENEWED

Philadelphia, Sept. 25.—The Six Brown Brothers, with Fred Stone's Tip-Top Musical Comedy show, renewed oldtime friendships last week at the Forrest Theater with Fred Ullrich, Philadelphia representative of The Billboard. It was a number of years ago that Mr. Ullrich did a single vaudeville act on the same bill with the Brown boys, under the name of "Ernac." Many pleasant and amusing recollections were gone over again. The Six Brown Brothers are making their usual big Philadelphia hit at every performance.

HERE'S A TIMELY ACT

New York, Sept. 23.—"The Independent Party" is the title of a new Billie Burke act of a timely nature which is now trying out for the big time. The Four Hippie Girls are featured, with Pat Cooney taking the part of a comedy fireman. The act runs about twenty minutes and has a barber shop set.

MARINELLI ACT HERE DEC. 20

New York, Sept. 25.—The Russian Cathedral Singers, under the management and direction of H. B. Marinelli, start their vaudeville tour in Albany Monday, October 4. The singers will be in New York later, opening at the Colonial Theater December 20, and will play around New York for seven weeks. It is expected the nature of the act will make it an especially attractive holiday offering. The act has been booked for the entire vaudeville season. Members of the quartet are Nicholas Wasilensky, tenor; Nicholas Vahlieff, tenor; Nicholas Antonoff, bass; Michael Dataeff, bass.

HAROLD WEST WITH "PINKIE"

New York, Sept. 23.—Harold West, who has for the past three years been a featured juvenile with Charles Dillingham's "Jack-o'-Lantern," the Fred Stone show, has been released by Dillingham and will appear in a new Billie Burke vaudeville act, "Pinkie." Gladys Relin will also be seen in the "Pinkie" act. The act was out four years ago and scored on the big time, but was taken off the road when West went with the Dillingham production. It stopped the show in several houses, including the Palace of this city.

CONTINUOUS FOR BROADWAY

New York, Sept. 23.—Leon Errol, in "The Guest," will head the Regent Theater bill next week. Starting Monday, September 27, the B. S. Moss Broadway Theater will inaugurate a continuous performance policy, with weekly change of bill. James C. Morton and Company, Glaran and Marguerite and Mel Klee will be some of the acts.

MAY CLOSE KEITH BOSTON OFFICE

New York, Sept. 26.—It is said here in responsible quarters that the B. F. Keith Vaudeville Exchange Boston office will be closed shortly and all the booking done from New York. It is stated that at present there is so little time booked in Boston that it does not warrant the maintenance of a booking office there.

MARX BROTHERS "MOP UP"

New York, Sept. 23.—The Four Marx Brothers, who appear this week at the Proctor (Newark) Theater, were forced to respond to so many encores at last night's performance that the act, which ordinarily runs about forty-five minutes, ran over an hour. Arthur Marx's harp solo and Leo Marx's piano solo were two strong features of the performance. In the act, as it now appears, are: The Marx Brothers, Richard Bennett, Ruth Lattell, Mary Orth and Betty Obera.

AMERICA'S FOREMOST THEATER DEVOTED TO VAUDEVILLE

Matinee 2:00—Two Performances Daily—Evening 8:00

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, September 27)

The weather was anything but propitious for indoor entertainment, hot and sultry all thru the afternoon, with a slight, drizzling rain intermingling with the sunshine.

According to the box-office time, the overture was played at 2 o'clock, before the lightest assemblage the writer has ever seen at this house, and it was slow in filling.

During the Sylvester Schaffer act they still were coming in, and before he was half thru many were standing. No programs, other than some sheets informing the patrons that for the order of program they must see stage cards, and that next week's attraction will be another epoch-making program, presenting by this, we suppose, this this one was going to be a "knockout," as far as vaudeville is concerned. To this we cannot agree. The headline act scored by reason of the popularity of its stars.

2:02—Kinograms, to the music of Frederick F. Daab's Orchestra, were very badly edited, and showed many repeaters, among which was the arrival of Tom Burke, the Irish tenor, on the Carmania, accompanied by Mrs. Burke. One of the features was scenes of the Elks' Carnival held in Omaha, Neb., recently.

2:13—Monroe and Grant wheeled onto full stage their autotruck trampoline bed. One is the driver and the other is the helper, both in overalls. They delivered the greatest bounding acrobatics yet seen at this house, but for comedy they will have to make another trip. They got off in fine style with a whirlwind routine, aided at by many in this line, but only accomplished by this team, which, from voice and gestures, is either English or Australian.

2:20—In one appeared Jack Lexey and Celia O'Connor, opening with a trial at song, followed by a dance. Both are guilty of not singing in accord with their ability as dancers, which is exceptional in many instances. They do a Chinese number, and finish in a semi-eccentric acrobatic style, in which the woman proves the better of the two. The house liked them, partly due to the fact that they worked and tried to please.

2:30—"Jo Song Shop," a conception of Pat Rooney's. Full stage, special set and most attractive girls, who in number, who were costumed appropriate to the period in which they were called on to interpret the songs, "Past and Present." Warren Jackson and Harold Whalen, two likeable chaps, sang and danced as the scenes were revealed. This is one of last season's offerings and was not new to this house. It scored a hit despite the fault of being a bit too long on view.

2:38—EXTRA ADDED ATTRACTION. Robert Emmett Keane walked out in front of a house drop attired in a business suit. He opened with a crackerjack comic ditty, told stories mostly about Englishmen, did a Scotch recitation, and finished with one of Kipling's poems, wherein he gives advice thru a Sergeant-Major to his troops before going into battle. Mr. Keane has a style of delivery all his own, and it is not many minutes after his appearance that it is apparent that a real entertainer is bidding for approval—tho at no time does he consciously approach this fact. He stopped the show in face of a husky voice which handicapped his efforts.

3:09—FEATURE EXTRAORDINARY—Sylvester Schaffer, the man who lived up to his billing as "The Protean Marvel." He held rapt attention in one or full stage, as his versatility required. "This artist does magnificent juggling, lightning painting, acrobatics, violin playing, sharpshooting, foot work, feats of horsemanship, while balancing, and heavy object manipulations, and in all proves himself a master showman. Each division of his artistry requires special mention, but space allots to the production caliber. During his time on view he employed two male assistants, a charming Miss, a deer, rabbits and three charging steeds groomed to perfection, with befitting trappings. His closing feat of balancing a Roman chariot on his chin, while performing cannon balls, permitted no doubt almost exhausted, for it must be borne in mind that he works every minute on-and off. If the powers so decide this offering can appear next week, and Sylvester Schaffer will change his act, as he is fully equipped to do.

3:40—Intermission, with music of the "See-Saw" variety.

3:45—"Topics of the Day," with a tune, got some laughs when the folk were seated.

3:50—Phil Baker walked on with his Italian piano-accordion in front of a most familiar drop. He camped until all were seated, then he lit out with quips, playing, and diddling his masterpiece. Everything was his own, even to letting the "Piant" in the box sing, which, in our opinion, does not belong in the same class with Phil Baker. Charley King was seated in the box for the sake of oldtime shipmate sake and sang "How're You Going To Keep Them Down on the Farm," while he accompanied with a silent orchestra. The performance was stopped here again.

4:10—ENGAGEMENT DE LUXE. George Whiting and Sadie Burt and Company played in one full set, "Little Miss Melody," book and lyrics by Jack Lait and music from the pen and brain of Gus Edwards. This is a fantasy, which employs comparisons between the relative merits of melody and jazz. Two male dancers that lean on the acrobatic for strength, and five attractively gowned young ladies assist. Dialog and dialog, and more dialog, and then singing and singing and singing. Whiting and Burt are all there is to it, from the rise to the fall of the curtain. They scored on individual popularity and merit, but not thru any particular value of their vehicle.

4:53—EXTRA ADDED ATTRACTION. Joe Santley and Jack Norton opened singing to each other over a telephone. Santley went to the piano and Norton started to sing. This is their first Palace showing since reuniting. As soon as they work out properly there is no doubt that they will return to their former popularity in vaudeville.

After Five—Marino Brothers again billed to present their airplane acrobatics.—WILLIAM JUDKINS HEWITT.

Keith's, Cincinnati

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, September 27)

Rather rainy outside; fine business inside; a very entertaining and well-balanced bill. Charles King's musical fantasy, "Love Letters," with Clarence Nordstrom and Ona Munson and octavia of artists, Kelley's wheelthe-kat stunt and Barbette, are noticeably made good in the honor position, about comprises condensified comment on the matinee at Keith's this afternoon, unless it be that special mention should be made on the pleasing abundance of very beautiful drape settings and wardrobe used in the show as a whole and the difficulty of picking either special winners.

Barbette, with neat apparatus, grace and sensations, started the show on wire and combination rings and traps. Nine minutes on full stage, and, on doffing the wig during the second bow, left many still guessing.

James F. Kelley and Emma Pollack, in their Milling act of "Vaudeville, Past and Present," went over nicely, their individual and combined efforts being well appreciated. Kelley's wheelthe-kat stunt stopped the act for a full minute. Sixteen minutes, in one; two bows, encore; another bow.

"The Fall of Eve," with Mabel Cameron, Alan Devitt and C. Carroll Cluss. A neat comedy playlet, presented in draped interior, with refined humor interspersed with clever acting and commendable wardrobe. Seventeen minutes, in three-fourths; four curtains.

Marion Weeks and Henri Barron, with special drapes, introducing single and team operatic selections, and the "Doll Song," from "Tales of Hoffman," by Miss Weeks. Each offering registered. The program informed the patrons that Barron is formerly of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, also that the coloratura soprano, Marion Weeks, hits "G" above "C," which she did the afternoon in question in clear tones and to the eminent satisfaction of the audience. In three; fifteen minutes; four bows.

"Love Letters," Charles King's unique musical offering, with Clarence Nordstrom, assisted by Ona Munson, Kate Pullman, Emma Nicles, Maude Potter and May Gerald. An excellent story, written around a mail carrier, who habits great riches, and the various type of feminine "proffered" of their hand in marriage. The act is entertaining in scenery and quality of scenic production, costuming and remarkable singing and characterization. The act opened in one, then there are several full, special sets used in the production, the majority of which are, cleverly announced by "love letters" thrown on a screen, in two, thereby eliminating waits in their erection. The song and action are in accord with the character presented. All of the act did well, but Nordstrom, Miss Munson and Miss Pullman drew special notice. The final ensemble was particularly well costumed. Forty-two minutes, one continuous, individual bow, each receiving a hearty hand on appearance, Nordstrom opening and closing the acceptance.

Harry Breen went big. It remained for Harry to put spirited pep in the show with his "nuttiness" and extemporaneousness. He talked "squirrel food," acted it and owned up he would stick at it until he got at the "nut." Eighteen minutes, in one; two bows.

Hubert H. Kinney and Corrinne Danced and kicked themselves into attentive interest and favor in the closing numbers, and held them in until the finish. Both double and single endeavors received well-earned applause. Kinney's dance-kick specialty scored, as did the artistry and personality of Corrinne. Full stage, with drapes; fourteen minutes; one curtain.—CHAS. BLUE.

SPECTACLE CLOSES; MANAGER MISSING

A fireworks spectacle, "Europe in Battle and Flies," which was to open here and forth in Boston, Mass., from September 11 to 25, was closed after two performances. It was understood that the spectacle was to be put on by the Phillips Amusement Co. In response to an inquiry the Boston representative of The Billboard wired: "No one connected with the Phillips Amusement Co. could be located in Boston. Mr. Marie Pappollo, who furnished the ballet, told the writer that she had a contract signed by a Mr. Lamb, and is looking for someone to collect from. The show was booked for a week, but only two performances were given—Saturday and Monday night. Tuesday the managers did not show up and the show was called off, leaving the people without being paid. The two shows given played to good business at $1 top."

FARBER GIRLS CHANGE

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Chicago friends of Irene and Constance Farber, militant Equity workers, have been notified that the girls have joined the cast of "The Greenwich Village Follies."

Majestic, Chicago

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, September 27)

The quality of the bill this afternoon deserved a better audience than that which only half filled the theater.

Kinograms and Topics of the Day were given their usual places.

Lazier and Worth open with a classy act in which balancing stunts and hand-to-hand acrobatics were featured. Superfine act.

Nell O'Connell appeared in place of the act announced for second place. Nell has looks, dresses well and has a "single" that opens weak, but closes strong with the singing of "Buddha."

Tim and Kitty O'Meara have an act of considerable originality in "Memoirs of the Dance." They are swift and clever steppers, but the act would be improved if Huston Ray would get a little more finish in his part of the act. Six minutes, six bows.

Bruce Morgan and Franklin Gates are will billed as "The Impossibilities of Nonsense." Their mit business is the acme of nonsensical artistry; they are the ant team par excellence. Seventeen minutes.

Valeria Bergere and her company presented "The Moth," a comedy-drama of interesting situations and clever dialogs. Miss Berger, in spite of rather weak support, did a splendid and convincing bit of acting and easily dominated the situation for better than a half hour. Numerous bows.

Jack Benny gave nineteen minutes of monolog, punctured with a few strains of violin melody. Jack has reserve, poise and personality. Ned Miller assisted in a serio-comic singing or "I'm in Heaven When I'm in My Mother's Arms."

Harry Watson, Jr., as usual, stopped the show in "Kid Battling Dugan," and the inimitable telephone scene. There is just one Watson, and he always has the goods. His impersonations never grow old. His assistants deserve commendation.

Olson and Johnson are a hilarious pair whose opening was marred by a noisy rush for the exits. These boys have barrels of ability, but their act needs some reconstruction. Twelve minutes, several bows.

Herbert and Dare was another hand-balancing act of the first rank, which was well worth waiting for. After eight minutes they were given several bows.—M. L. DAGGY.

Orpheum, San Francisco

(Reviewed Sunday Matinee, Sept. 26)

The bill this week provided general satisfaction.

Lawton opened with his unique line of juggling, bouncing balls on a snare drum set on legs. He kept up a staccato tempo with orchestra accompaniment that went over big. His finish was cannon ball juggling.

Marie and Mary McFarland, holdovers, with a new program, gave a stronger reception than on their first week.

Dan Healey and Al Brines lurched thru an eccentric dance, depicting a couple of drunks on their way home from the club, followed by a burlesque of Ruth St. Denis. San Francisco bowled with joy at the burlesque and enjoyed the drunks.

Frank Wilcox and Company held over well in next spot.

Bob Carleton and Julia Ballew sang Carleton's songs, with Carleton remaining closely at the piano. Miss Ballew proved to be an attractive bit of femininity.

"Bits and Pieces," with Jack Patton and Loretta Marks, the big act of the show, was next, with the Western audience getting most of the clever satire on a number of recent New York dramas and musical pieces.

Neal Abel closed up well in next to closing spot. His dirty comedy material and facial contortions added much to his cleverly told stories.

The Bryants did the phenomenal by holding the audience in their position. Loose jointed acrobatics and the ability of one member of the team to take falls gripped the audience's interest.—STUART B. DUNBAR.

The agency is now contracting fairs in the South.

EARLY START

To Be Made on New Keith Theater Building in Cincinnati

A temporary entrance will be constructed for the present B. F. Keith Theater, and the erection of the office building will proceed over and around the temporary entrance, which will be used until the permanent entrance is completed.

The building will be either of polychrome terra cotta or Indiana free stone. The lobby walls will be of Italian marble and the superstructure will be re-enforced concrete.

CONTROVERSY UNSETTLED

Stage Crew and Musicians of Mobile House Still Out

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 23.—Union trouble is still manifest in Mobile. Stage crew and musicians walked out on Manager McKenzie, Strand Theater, two weeks ago and their disagreement is still unadjusted. It is reported that the union would require Mr. McKenzie to use a crew of four back stage and an orchestra of four, where he has been heretofore using two stage men and three musicians. The additional men, it is estimated, will cost the theater something like $5,000 a year more, and Mr. McKenzie contends that his bonus is not of the size to warrant such a large crew. It was at first thought that the Strand would go to a picture, but the show people assured Mr. McKenzie that they would back him up, and have, in fact, been working his stage. This is to keep bookings intact in this territory. Local sympathy in this instance is with the management. The Strand is a tab. house. The old crew at the Lyric Theater were notified by Manager Walsh that he would not contract with them another year, and other bands are working the house.

PLACE ECCENTRIC DANCER

New York, Sept. 22.—Billy Adams has joined Harry Sanber's vaudeville act in Cincinnati as an eccentric dancer. Adams was placed thru the Cordelia Tilden Agency in the Putnam Building.

DIES IN POORHOUSE

Frank Leslie, Nephew of the Publisher, Was Musician of Talent

New York, Sept. 26.—Word was received today of the death in the poorhouse at Murray, N.Y., of Frank Leslie. His widow and two children, also in the poorhouse, survive him.

Frank Leslie was a graduate of Harvard and the nephew of the publisher of Leslie's Weekly, and for fifteen years had been a musician in leading New York theaters. Giving up the life of a musician on account of his health, Leslie joined the band of the Ringling Bros." Circus, with which he played for five years. He later joined the Forepaugh Circus. Illness ended his career as a professional musician, and, broken in health and spirit, he settled in Kentucky two years ago. He could play almost any instrument, and he managed to eke out a bare living by occasional musical performances, but he recently became too ill to do even this, and he and his family had to go to the poorhouse. He suffered from cancer.

Leslie was a Canadian by birth and was a veteran of the Spanish-American War.

"KISSING TIME" OPENS

GUS SUN DENIES

Assertions in Regard to Salaries Paid Acts Playing Sun Theaters

Gus Sun, head of the Gus Sun Booking Exchange, makes a vigorous denial of assertions contained in an article in a recent issue of a theatrical paper, not The Billboard, regarding the salaries that are being paid acts playing the Sun houses.

"It is asserted," says Mr. Sun, "that increased salaries are being paid to acts playing the theaters served by the Gus Sun Booking Exchange since my cancellation by E. F. Albee of my booking contract with the B. F. Keith office. I do not wish to question the good faith of the declarations, but I do assert that nothing could be further removed from the facts.

"It is a known fact that the Gus Sun Booking Exchange, and the other so-called independent circuits, always have and even at this very time are paying less for acts than do the United Time. I have in mind a specific act which has just finished the Gus Sun Circuit. This act has just opened on the United for $100 more than was paid by this office and has been promised a route at $250 more than paid by the Gus Sun Circuit if the report is satisfactory. There are several other acts which also occur to me which now are receiving from $100 to $150 per week more than they were paid on the Sun Circuit.

"The booking managers of the various offices of the Gus Sun Circuit are all veterans of the business with a fundamental knowledge of the salaries of acts and vaudeville profession in detail and in general equaling any showmen in America. No agent of this circuit books an act blindfolded, or signs a contract with the eyes closed. These men are constantly on the alert to guard against any manner of deception as to the value of the salary of acts and in every other way to protect the interests of the clients of this organization. Furthermore their facilities for obtaining information as to acts, salaries, etc., and their records are just as comprehensive and complete as any organization in the United States. The truth is that Gus Sun booking managers are dealing not only with those agents known by them to be above suspicion of sharp practice. Even the most casual investigation will disclose that this office is obtaining better acts at less money than ever before in its history.

"Within the last week twelve new cities have been added to the Gus Sun circuit. This fact alone should be sufficient to convince anyone that neither agents nor acts are "taking advantage of Gus Sun."

"ACE O' HEARTS" CLEANS UP

New York, Sept. 23.—"Ace o' Hearts," the second big musical revue that has been written especially for Will King by James Madison, the writer, is said to have helped smash box-office records at Loew's Casino Theater, San Francisco. The revue is a burlesque on the chorus girls in the cast, which is headed by Will King. The company is playing musical comedy stock at the Loew theater in conjunction with a regular vaudeville bill of five acts. The house is under the direction of Ackerman & Harris. The prices at this theater are a 33-cent matinee and 50 cents flat top in the evening, with three shows a day. The house seats 3,000. James Madison is under contract to Mr. King to write all his shows.

NIESSE ACTS

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—Carl Niesse, the vaudeville writer, has completed new material for the following acts: Evelyn Carroll Company in an unusual originality. Miss Carroll will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Carroll. The act will open in Chicago shortly. Morton and Lee, the blackface humorists, in a novel talking and singing act, who are presently playing for Loew, Verge and Bickford, in a comedy turn. "Line vs. Lying." They will open on the Coast soon. Mr. Niesse has in preparation a new act for Kelly and Post, now playing the Keith houses in New York City.

REHEARSING PHIL LEWIS ACT

Mack and De Roever, a two-man act, are now rehearsing a new big time act, written especially for them by Philip J. Lewis. The boys will open the first week in October and will continue westward. Mack and De Roever are splendid singers, and the boys are said to be there with the comedy. Mr. Lewis is also writing several exclusive numbers for the act.

STAGE HANDS

(I. A. T. S. E. and M. P. M. O.)

Communications to our Cincinnati Office.

Throughout a number of the cities in the Central West, a general organizer is busily engaged in assisting local unions affected in the adjustments of differences.

Some of the members in Columbus, O., are experiencing some trouble, but it is expected that a general organizer will visit the city and straighten things out.

A dispute developed in Lawrence, Mass., last June between the Local Union 111 and the Elite management on account of the local insisting upon payment of the broken time in excess of the rate provided for in its present contract. This was finally brought to a successful termination, but subsequently new trouble cropped up, and one of the I. A. organizers will visit the city in the near future.

Bristol (Tenn.-Va.) Local 330 has contracts all signed up and everything is reported as moving along nicely. Bros. Chas. Mosale and Will Greene are on route with Hagenbeck-Wallace Advertising Car No. 2.

Fred Griesen, secretary of Defiance (O.) Local 371, writes that the strike in that city has not yet been settled, despite statements that have been sent out to the contrary.

M. P. M. O. Local 299, Fort Worth, Tex., reports contracts signed up satisfactorily and business very good. "One hundred per cent strong and every man at work," says Leon Friedman, press agent of the local.

News notes from Local Union 417, Arkansas City, Kan.—Brother John Fields has been elected treasurer and business agent of this local. Brother Don Richardson was elected president. He is now stage manager at the Rex Theater, and Brother Fields chief projectionist. A five-piece orchestra is now employed, in charge of Mr. Hadley. Many new improvements have been installed this last year on the stages and Pantages vaudeville is run. The old Fifth Avenue Opera House has opened up with pictures and tabloids, a new company each week, and is doing a record-breaking business. All help on the stage are members of Local 417. Brother Harold Dull has transferred into this local from Wichita (Local Union 414), and is operating two late type machines at Windield, Kan., at the Zimm Theater. The Grand Opera House at Arkansas City has opened up with pictures and vaudeville. It is managed by Mr. Zimman. Will play all large road attractions this year. All new equipment has been installed.

Quite a number of inquiries have been received at the I. A. office, asking about the old "Chief" and friend, Brother Charlie Shay. The correspondents one and all are anxious to know if his health is showing much improvement. The Billboard is very happy to state that Brother Shay is rapidly recuperating, and if the present progress keeps up, he will soon be entirely recovered.

Seth Barnes, the chief of projection at the Palace Theater, Wichita, Kan., is operating two late type Simplexes and reports that the projection is perfect. A new screen setting has just been installed lately, and a projection film review room has been built under the stage, where the manager can review his coming pictures. This has the very latest equipment and direct current, with plenty of large, roomy seats for the reviewers of the productions. Brother J. O. Buckles, past chief projectionist at the Palace, has transferred into the local at Hutchinson, Kan., and is in charge of the projection in the new $200,000 Midland Theater there.

The business will be conducted on the same lines as before, and it is believed that no reorganization plans are contemplated.

CABLES FROM LONDON TOWN

SEPT. 25

By "WESTCENT"

NO TRUTH IN STATEMENT THAT V. A. F. IS BARRING AMERICAN PERFORMERS

There is absolutely no truth in the statement that the Variety Artistes' Federation is barring American performers, as suggested in Variety of September 10. The Variety Artistes' Federation is affiliated with the American Artistes' Federation, and between them most cordial relations exist. Variety Artistes' Federation also is absolutely against acts of ex-enemy origin and also against having acts on account of the embargo on British acts in Switzerland. Variety's article is construed here as but another piece of its usual policy.

ATTEMPT TO ORGANIZE HOUSE MANAGERS CAUSES HEATED DISCUSSION

A full meeting of the Entertainments National Industrial Council was held September 21, attended by Sir Oswald Stoll, Charles Gulliver, R. H. Gillespie, Sayshun Brodbeil, Walter Payne, Mr. Vedrenne, Tom H. Davis, D. J. Clarke, R. Albarry, Monte Bayly, Fred Russell, Variety Artistes' Federation, and the A. M. U. and N. A. T. E., representing labor sections. Regret was expressed at the resignation of the Actors' Association, but the council appointed a delegation of six, representing employers and labor, headed by Mr. Vesedrenne, to act on the Actors' Association's behalf, with a view to continuance. Heated discussion arose over the action of N. A. T. E. in trying to organize house managers. Sir Oswald Stoll vehemently opposed managers joining the staff union. So did Goodwin, C. E. A., and all the other employers' representatives. William Johnson, president of N. A. T. E., fought hard in justifying his position, having his main objection on employers denying house managers the right to combine. The employers contented with the analogy that managers are not foremen, and drew attention to the fact that J. M. U. had recently to forego its claim to organize foremen in the recent national crisis in Sheffield. A vote was taken and was unanimously against N. A. T. E. on the employers' side, and six against four on the labor side, the A. M. U. delegates voting against N. A. T. E. Consequently the Variety Artistes' Federation remained neutral.

CONDEMNS FREE SINGING OF PUBLISHER SONGS

The Variety Artistes' Federation has sent out the following resolution: That this industrial council is of the opinion that the practice of singing free published songs and exploitation of vocal acts subsidized by publishers of free songs is detrimental to the financial interests of promoters of variety programs, and is inimical to the artistic progress of variety artistes, inasmuch as it monitizes competitive talent and encourages the growth of a stereotyped class of variety material. It was opposed by Charles Gulliver, Sayshun Brodbeil, Thos. Clarke, Hounsfield and Montgomery, and carried. The National Orchestral Union made application to join the council as a representative of two weeks' salary after receiving the application from the musicians' union by the Variety Artistes' Federation and C. E. A., receiving strong opposition from Mr. Williams and A. M. U. For some time past there have been attempts made for two rival factions, but council referred the matter to the labor section, with the object of arranging a working agreement between the musicians' unions, failure of which is to be referred to full council.

CAMERAMEN'S UNION NEARING COMPLETION

The cameramen's union is nearing completion under Monte Bayly's guidance, having modeled its constitution after the Variety Artistes' Federation, and now awaits ratification by members on October 15, prior to completing the legal formalities. The cinema section of the Variety Artistes' Federation is also considering a proposal to be put to the conference to discuss regulations of conditions, etc., to be called about the end of October.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST "SPONGERS" GAINING GROUND

Variety Artistes' Federation's campaign against vaudeville spongers, that is, nonmembers, looks likely to reforming vaudeville programs here a hundred per cent Variety Artistes' Federation by next January.

ETHEL IRVING PRODUCES "LA TOSCA"

Ethel Irving produced "La Tosca" at the Aldwych, September 23, giving, as usual, some very powerful emotional acting. Lyn Harding, as Scarpia, was convincing and effective. Gerald Lawrence made a gallant Mario Cavaradossi, but otherwise the production is not in the slow ribbon grade.

ENGLISH THEATRICAL MEN TO VISIT AMERICA

Charles B. Cochran, Albert DeCourville, Paul Murray, intend to rebuild or refitting the Comedy Theater at Christmas time, and was some time London manager for William Morris, and R. H. Gillespie, Moss-Empire chief, have all booked steamer tickets for America.

STROLLING PLAYERS!!

Critics and dramatic writers are people, and, like others, they have to eat, live and exist—even in the summer season. Consequently one must not be hard, but possibly forgiving when one reads such sentimental articles in the papers about things theatrical. Even the writer of these weekly effusions, the barren of ideas, has to live up to the "dog days, so S. R. Littlewood's effusion on "The Country Theater" is at least welcome.

In writing on the wane of the London theatrical season, and, by the way, we never have a close time here, he wonders why the country, where there is more light, more space, more leisure, more material and infinitely more inspiration for the most humane of the arts, be a place where the theater is for serious purposes a thing forgot. These lights are conjured up by remembrances of Stratford-on-Avon and the Glastonbury Players—all very well as far as they go—as a fresh craze for town-bred "high-brows." It is good for them and does no harm to anyone. But, question he, does it get us any nearer a genuine country theater? Does it really reach the rural folk? Does it create—discover that one be a part of their life? On this he opines sadly that even the jolly Warwickshire farmers who come trotting into Stratford-on-Avon on market days prefer very much more than Shakespeare himself was bred—so far from caring for the theater, have, as a rule, no consciousness of it. Glastonbury, reminiscent of the famed King Arthur and his Round Table, one has only to ramble thru the typical Somerset-shire Village around Glastonbury to find that the spirit of the Somerset folk is just about as far from the Purcell masque as that of Fielding Somerset's character—Wonder fully true to type—is far from a Watteau ambrosial. It is the rub, and most true, in fact, and, when read, it should be marked, learned and inwardly dige-sted. "What these country folk want is the theater in their own village, if they are really interested in, are the 'towny' things read about in the Sunday papers. The cinema is the thing, and, if they be a part of their life? On this he opines sadly that even the jolly Warwickshire farmers who come trotting into Stratford-on-Avon on market days prefer very much more than Shakespeare himself was bred—so far from caring for the theater, have, as a rule, no consciousness of it. "THE RUINED LADY" TRAVELS

Her tensney of the Comedy Theater having expired, Rosa Lynd perforce has to seek fresh fields and pastures new, and opens at the Royal Manchester with the same company as in London, with the exception of Ethel Davenport, who will succeed Miss Lynd in the title role, who goes to Canada with her husband, E. V. Esmond, in a series of plays. Notwithstanding her personal bookings, Rosa Lynd intends sending out two touring crowds of this show at Christmas.

"WEDDING BELLS" RINGING MERRILY

Gladys Cooper and Gerald Du Maurier are doing business with this show at the Playhouse, which may be attributable more to the personalities of the stars than to the play itself, which, by the way, praise has been awarded to the solidness of the scaffolding of this piece, inasmuch as the walls are of great thickness and the doors are practical in every sense of the word, and well suited. Likewise the walls are adorned with genuine oil paintings, one being "The Head of a Woman" and the other "Portrait of a Lady," painted by Sir Geoffrey Kneller. But the Playhouse management can not claim to be original in the matter of adorning some theater, for, did not John Lawson of "Humanity" fame out which "its said J. J. Corbett toured a version under the name of "Pals") make much of the idea in his sensational exposé of city life (vide program matter) that his oil paintings used on the stage, including "Sardanapalus and His Slave," were valued at over $10,000.

DEATH OF NEWMAN MAURICE

For many years resident manager of the Brixton Theater, and, consequently, in possession of the finest vaudeville and theatrical "free list," Maurice was well known amongst the performers. He died suddenly in the office at midnight on the 11th, having been engaged thereunt the Saturday with his usual managerial duties. He had been associated with the Moriviles, of the Gresham, now, and, also, responsible for the writing of the successive Brixton pantomimes, in which he also played "Dame." Before settling down to house management he was a touring

CHORUS EQUITY NEWS

Ninety-eight new members joined the Chorus Equity in the past week.

Ballots for the coming election for executive chairman, recording secretary and executive committee were sent to all our members on Monday, September 20. These ballots must be returned to this office before six p.m., November 1, if they are to be counted. Twenty-eight names are placed under each heading "executive committee." This is to give our members a wider choice for this committee. Do not forget to return your ballot. Unless ballot is returned, as the executive committee is to be composed of 21.

The ballots were sent to the addresses we have in the office. If you did not receive one write us immediately, as you have probably neglected to inform us of the change of address. Ballots for more than five hundred members have been placed in the mail box of the office, as we have incorrect addresses for those members.

The two weeks' salary was collected this week for one of our members who had rehearsed eleven days, and then was let out of a production. At first there was some difficulty about this case, as the young man could not remember on just what day he started rehearsing. Always make a note of the date on which you start rehearsals, and, if you are sent a written notification of the beginning of rehearsals, save that notification. It is the best proof you can have of when you started and should there be any question of pay for overtime rehearsals or of two weeks' salary because you were let out.

There are still a number of members delinquent since May first, 1920. Many of these people have profited thru the organization by the collection of two weeks' salary after rehearsing more than ten days and being let out, have collected for overtime rehearsals and for promoters and managers failing to pay them. These are only a few of the things the organization has done in this first year of its existence. It can do no more without your assistance—with your whole heart behind it, the organization it cannot do. We feel that a large part of this uselinquency is due either to carelessness of forgetfulness. You would not let your organization to be careless or forgetful if you were in trouble. Look at your membership card and see how far up you have paid it. If it reads either June or May then it owes you two dollars to November or four dollars to May first, 1921.

We are holding checks for Miss Bessie Jones and Miss Paulette Lorayne.

YOUNG WOMAN IS MANAGER OF STRING OF THEATERS

Mrs. J. L. Adams, an attractive young woman of Des Moines, Ia., is one of the two directing heads of a theatrical company incorporated for $500,000 and which takes an annual business of millions of dollars. A recent issue of The Des Moines Register carries an interesting story of Mrs. Adams' career.

The company of which Mrs. Adams is a director is the Adams Amusement Company. Her husband, J. L. Adams, is the other director. "But," says The Register, "Mrs. Adams does not, as this would imply, owe her position to him. She had won a place as a theatrical magnate before she met her husband. Approximately fifteen years ago she graduated from Indiana College and for five years taught school in Seattle, Wash. Then, believing that further education would improve her career, she became interested in the theatrical business, as she had always been interested in the stage. Starting in a small way on the Pacific Coast she invested her money in theaters and prospered. After her marriage to Mr. Adams they moved to Des Moines and have extended their activities to include all manner of theaters in which motion pictures, burlesque and legitimate plays by stock companies are shown. During the past two years a strong organization has been built up, controlling 26 theaters in Iowa.

Mrs. Adams is probably the only woman in the country holding an executive position in an organization of this sort. There are some whose work approximates that which I do," says Mrs. Adams, "but no woman, so far as I know, directs the work of this kind of an organization."

SCHUMANN-HEINK SINGS FOR IMMIGRANTS AT ELLIS ISLAND

New York, Sept. 27.—Over three thousand immigrants greeted Madame Schumann-Heink yesterday afternoon when she sang selections from her operatic successes on the lawn of Ellis Island. Several other singers of repute also took part in the program, which was one of the series of concerts arranged by Commissioner S. Backer Conroy for the immigrants.

PHILADELPHIA

By FRED ULLRICH

723 W. Sterner St. Phone, Tioga 3526.
Office Hours Until 1 P.M.

... the Garrick Theater "Mary" continues with big business, and it looks as tho this musical play will run indefinitely here.

"Dulcy" closed last week at the Broad. This delightful comedy was pronounced success during its stay here and Helen Hayes in the titular role most excellent.

Fred Stone, at the Forrest Theater, in "Tip-Top," closes this week and moves to New York. Mr. Stone's work and the surrounding well-balanced company success has been immense.

The "Broadway Frivolities of 1920," at the Lyric, and "Fortune," at the Shubert Theater, closed last week their final Philadelphia showing.

First named the Little Theater, then The Philadelphia and now the Delancey Theater, this house is now presenting Josephine Victor in a revue of the West Indies, "Martinique," and drawing large attendance.

William Parnum, in a film version of "If I Were King," to big business at the Stanley Theater, closed a two weeks' run last week.

Thomas Ross (in person) is appearing this week at the Keith-Allegheny in "Blue Flame." This will be Miss Ross's only Philadelphia appearance on the speaking stage.

The first touch of chilly nights has wonderfully increased business in the various burlesque, dramatic, minstrel and picture houses.

The Trocadero Theater, Robert B. Deady, manager, played Max Spiegel's "Social Follies" last week. This is the girl with the show's genial manager, Max Quitman, who reports a capacity week. Well explaining Jules Black and George Heather replacing Sam Howard.

Walt Leslie, manager of the Casino Theater, reports good business and he is as happy when at his post as when he is down on his farm.

The Gayety Stock Burlesque is putting on some mighty fine shows and dandy wrestling matches. When you see John Welsh and Lewis Martin in deep study in the office you bank on it something doing for next week.

Evans and Lawrence, "The Boys From Memphis," a hinckfoxe vaudeville act from the West, are here for an Eastern showing of their good act.

The New People's Theater, with Ben Lavene as its popular manager, reports business excellent and everybody happy.

Had a chat with Fred Wagner, manager of the Bijou Theater, one afternoon last week in front of the house, and inquiring how's business he said: "Sold out!" Glanche in found the house capacity. And that on a matinee.

Laura Kersey, the talented end pony of the "Big Sensation Show," who had a spat and quit the show last week, is back in the "show." Missed and made up and is back with the show again.

Marie Thelin, high diving act, who has been the big drawing card with the Quaker City Shows the past three seasons, and, by the way, has been replaced by "The Diving Ringens," whose performance created a sensation at their opening last week on the circus lot. They will finish out the season with the show.

The chilly nights are making the carnival boys spruce up their winter quarters around the town. But the carnival season here in Philly are all reporting excellent business and many fairs are running thruout Pennsylvania.

Laird's Buffet at Ninth and Filbert streets, the old "Turkey" stop for carnival, circus and other showmen, is no more. A large "for rent" sign is over the door. Knocked out by prohibition.

NEW PRINTING CONCERN

Darrell H. Lyall, who has been in the theatrical game for the past 25 years, the past six of which have been with "Freckles," both as manager and producer, has opened a printing establishment in Chicago, catering to the wants of the profession.

Mr. Lyall states that this move was caused by many of the large printing houses discontinuing the printing of this class of work. It is not his intention to quit the business entirely. He will continue handling the Western "Freckles" company, which is doing a fine business.

"PENDER'S ANIMALS" AT HIP.

New York, Sept. 23.—"Pender's Animals," as such, just arrived from London, where it is said to have been a sensation, was added last week to the Hippodrome bill. There are seven people in the act, which has a special appeal to children.

HIP.'S TIMETABLE

New York, Sept. 23.—The Hippodrome this week considered its acts all "set" for the season, and for health has erected its "Timetable" in front of the big theater, showing the time each act goes on both afternoon and evening, with the names of the acts. At the top is a clock which Manager Hendricks assures The Billboard is very, very accurate.

"HELLO, LITTLE GIRL"

Will Be Plugged Hard

"Hello, Little Girl," one-step and song, had its premiere at Proctor's Palace, Newark, N. J., week of September 12. It is a catchy one-step, with words and music by Fred J. Bendel, sporting editor of a Newark newspaper. The number is declared to be especially adapted for dancing and will be used quite a lot during the present season. It is being interpolated in some of the musical themes used for leading movies thruout the country. The number is being featured by Newark and New York dance orchestras and will be whipped over till they're all whistling it at the two big skating rinks grinds at Madison Square Garden, New York, by Joe Basile's famous Velodrome Band, which recently won first prize at the National Convention of the Eagles at Syracuse. Thru his sport connections Mr. Bendel has succeeded in having it introduced at lending sporting events, which will include world series games at Brooklyn.

JANE COWL TO CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Jane Cowl is headed for the Cort Theater, in "Smilin' Thru." She is due here October 18. Miss Cowl has been on the Coast, where it is reported she has been smashing some records on attendance and intake.

"THE HALF MOON" STARTING

New York, Sept. 25.—"The Half Moon," the musical comedy in which Charles Dillingham and Producing Joseph Cawthorn, will open in Wilmington, Del., next Monday. Cast of supporting company includes Joseph Santley, Ivy Sawyer, Oscar Shaw and Maude Ebsnre.

MUMME, MUSIC PUBLISHER

Mumme, Music Publisher, located at Quincy, Ill., reports an increasing demand for "You Always Wear 'Em," which is being strongly exploited by George Mumme, head of the concern. Many tabloid and several burlesque shows are using the number and think very favorably of it. It is said that the song will soon be recorded on music rolls.

Other numbers published by the concern are "When I Take You for a Moonlight Stroll," fox-trot, "Lord, I Want to Be Saved Thru You," a waltz. A new song to be published by Mumme in the near future is entitled "I Pretend Hell's Just Summer, But I Got Hell-in Winter, Too."

"COME BACK, MANDY"

The Riviera Music Company promises to have the "Come Back Mandy" number, by Walter Donovan, ready for the market October 1. Baker, one of the Leo Freidman melodies, which should be a guarantee of good quality. Baker, who has recently combined with Bert Hamilton, a high-class composer, is managing the band and his partner have several numbers in the company's hands for release.

TRACY'S NOVELTY ORCHESTRA

Tracy's Novelty Orchestra, which was selected from the pick of Cincinnati's many fine artists, has now been on the road over one solid year without losing a day's playing.

For the past ten months it has been introducing all the latest hits at the popular Tennessee resort, Signal Mt. Hotel, and is now playing in Atlanta, Ga., putting on an entire cabaret program on the roof garden of the clubhouse.

This orchestra is now booked solid thru the South for the next ten months, and is smashing all previous records for popularity.

SEATTLE OFFICE CLOSED

Feist Concern Has Only Local Representative

Seattle, Sept. 25.—Ed J. McKenzie, local manager for Feist and well-known pianist, has just returned from a trip to Portland in the interests of the firm. The local Feist office has been closed for the present, but the firm still maintains a representative here. Mac is a pianist at the Blanc cafe during the evening and does a lot of music arranging at odd times.

STORK COMPANY NOTES

The Stork Music Publishing Company, 1547 Broadway, New York, has just released a ballad, "Little Grey Lady," with an excellent lyric and melody, which has a waltz swing and is being demanded by orchestras and bands. The song is a reminder of the never-to-be-forgotten song, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and the company hopes to make it one of its greatest numbers. "Dear Little Mother of Mine" is still selling and is "Dream of Home." Professional numbers and orchestrations are ready on these three numbers and can be had by addressing the Stork Company.

COX PLACES NUMBERS

Is Winner in Song Contest

Seattle, Sept. 25.—L. Richard Cox, a local song writer, has been notified that he was one of the successful contestants in a song contest, which has just closed, by a large Eastern firm. Mr. Cox's "Pickaninny Rose" song was awarded a prize of a cash bonus, in addition to being accepted on the usual royalty contract. This writer has recently placed "Constantinople," an Oriental number, with the Martens-Spaulding Music Company, of this city, which firm has a roll factory, in addition to publishing popular music. "Dear Mummy, Here's My Boy," proved quite a hit during the war, and was the first song put over by Mr. Cox.

HELEN FREEMAN

Leaves the Wilkes Players

Popular Denver Leading Woman To Star in Her Own Vehicle—Will Appear in Los Angeles

Denver, Col., Sept. 25.—Helen Freeman, who has appeared as leading woman for the Wilkes Players of the Denham Theater for the past six weeks, will leave Denver Sunday for Los Angeles, where a new play upon which she has been working will be produced.

Miss Freeman has had the idea of her play in mind for some time and two years ago began the work of translating it to manuscript, collaborating with a writer to whom the idea also appeared worthy of dramatic exposition.

A tentative title for the piece has been selected, but will not be announced at this time. The play deals with the regeneration of a woman and is written in the style of modern romantic melodrama. Miss Freeman will appear in the leading role when the drama is presented in the Wilkes Theater. Later she will return to New York, where in the course of a year or two she hopes to crystallize her long-cherished ideals and conceptions of the fundamental repertoire theater.

MELODRAMA

Holds Stage at Shubert's, Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 27.—"Dawn o' the Mountains," a play of the Tennessee Mountains and the quaint people who inhabit them, is this week's offering by the Shubert Players. In spite of its extreme length and rather shopworn plot, it is wholly pleasing and affords some of the company an opportunity to do some splendid acting.

As the little mountain girl Frances McHenry is excellent. It is totally unlike anything we have ever seen her play and she seemed to actually live the part. Second only to Miss McHenry was the playing of Inck McNair by Oscar O'Shea. His characterization of the rugged old mountaineer was a work of art.

Helen Empton, as the boy, won very good indeed. This little lady has shown much versatility of late and is becoming a warm favorite. In the part of a most "villainous villain," John Marston worked hard and was rewarded by being most thoroly despised. James Blaine, as the "city chap," and Jerome Renner, as his friend, were pleasing, and Allen Mason, Bert Brown and Earl Jamison were most acceptable in their respective parts.

In spite of the remarkably warm weather for this time of the year business is very good, proving that melodrama, properly played, is as acceptable today as it was in the days of our fathers. "39 East" next week.—H. R.

LEWIS PLAYERS CLOSE

Company Will Return to Roanoke, Va., for Winter Season

Tampa, Fla., Sept. 28.—The Jack X. Lewis Players finished their engagement at the new Victory Theater in Tampa September 26, and Manager C. D. Cooley opened the house Monday night with Keith's vaudeville. Owing to train schedules, the trains leaving Jacksonville at 9:30 at night and leaving here enbonte back at the same hour, only four nights a week of vaudeville are available. On Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays the Victory will show the biggest feature pictures obtainable.

The Lewis Players plan to rest up for several weeks after which they will return to Roanoke, Va., where they will play a return engagement.

STOCK IN CAMDEN, N. J.

Two Bills a Week by Tivoli Stock Co., Under Management of Al Brandon

New York, Sept. 25.—The Tivoli Stock Company, under the management of Al Brandon, is scheduled to open the dramatic stock season in the Broadway Theater, Camden, N. J., October 4. Two bills a week will be presented, the opening attraction being "The Man with the Box." Mr. Brandon tells The Billboard that he intends showing all the latest royalty bills. Billy Cunningham will be leading man, and Anne Davis will be leading woman. Miss Davis is featured in the programs as "Anne Davis and Her Players." The company will have a drawing population of about 200,000. The theater has a capacity of 1,400. Al Brandon, who will manage the company, conducted a stock organization in the South last winter, and he was at one time prominent in vaudeville, touring the big Western time in a handicuff act, carrying a company of five people.

WIZARD GEORGE

Speaks Favorably of the Vees Stock, Zanesville, O.

Grover G. George, known more familiarly to his friends of the show world as the Wizard George, who has a magical wonder show en route, was a Cincinnati caller last week. George didn't have much to say about himself, or his activities (the he did entertain the editorial staff a bit with some clever card tricks), but was more interested in telling about the exceptional ability of the Vees Stock Company, which he says is enjoying a phenomenal run at Zanesville, O., and is now on its sixth week.

George says that only the best and latest royalty bills are receiving the attention of the management. "I was in the town recently and paid the company a visit," said he. "Capacity greeted the players nightly and only one bill a week is presented. When the company first opened it was met with discouraging remarks about how dead the town was for stock, but the company certainly fooled them. I could see Dorothy Dow and Al Vees play every night and enjoy it more each time. Tiley play the lands. And Evn Sargent—well, her prowess is going to make her as popular nationally some day as she is today in Zanesville, and that day isn't far off. In fact everything the company is expert in their individual line and I consider Zanesville theatergoers fortunate in having such a company."

MOVEMENTS OF ACTORS

Season's Approaching Close Causes Feverish Activity

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Lucille Lennon, well-known Chicago actress, who has been playing in "The Elixir of Youth," on chautauqua time, has closed the season and is back in Chicago.

"It Pays To Advertise" has closed on chautauqua time for the Redpath people, and the members of the company are back in Chicago. The Clara Vaughan Wales Company, which has also been on chautauqua time, has closed in "Regeneration," and the people are here.

Harry Duffey, prominent in Chicago, has closed and passed thru Chicago this week. His wife is Ann Nichols, the playwright. While here Mr. Duffey placed his production, "A Little Bit Old-Fashioned," with A. Milo Bennett. The play had a run in the Powers Theater two years ago.

The Charles Leskin, Fred Gordon and Chas. Rutchford & Parker repertoire companies closed their respective seasons this week.

Lester Bryant's "Business Before Pleasure" Company "opened cold" in the Victoria Theater, Chicago, Sunday at a matinee for a week's run to excellent business. Next week it goes to the Imperial Theater, then on the roads, booked solid for the whole season.

The "Jim's Girl" Company has been reorganized under the management of Fred Lorraine and opened September 20 in Joliet, Ill., to good business. The Aurora Stock Company, Aurora, Ill., has opened to fine patronage and will feature such plays as "Pollyanna," "Cheating Cheaters," "Mary's Ankle" and other productions. Earl Gilbert is the manager.

The "Little Women" Company, organized in Kansas City, under the management of Morris Quinzy, is showing this week in the American Theater, St. Louis. Leonora Ferrari, distinguished Chicago prima donna, is filling a special engagement with Sousa's Band, as a soloist, in and around New York.

E. Herman Nestell, of Nestell's Players, opened in Miami, Ok., this week. Owen Douglas has moved his stock from Elwood, Ind., to Anderson, Ind., where he will fill a permanent engagement.

Look thru the Letter List in this issue.

STARK WITH SHEA'S STOCK

C. Nick Stark, who is probably one of the best known character actors playing around New York in stock, has returned from his chautauqua tour. He was in New York for only a few hours when he was dispatched to Holyoke, Mass., opening with Shea's Stock Company on September 13 in "At 9:45." Nick says the only reason he doesn't work with Broadway productions is that the period of rehearsals is too long.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Peggy Lorraine, a popular little dancer and entertainer, was a Cincinnati visitor last week. She announced the engagement of her sister, Bernadette Lorraine, well known in dramatic stock circles, to John Francis Malloy, master carpenter with the "Robin Hood" Company.

"PARLOR, BEDROOM AND BATH"

Presented by MacLean Players, Akron, O.

Akron, O., Sept. 23.—The Pauline MacLean Players, now installed in Music Hall here for an indefinite winter and spring run, will offer for their third week "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," the comedy which A. H. Woods made such a big success in recent years. Miss MacLean is appearing in a role especially suited to her artistic talents and Edward Clarke Lilley is also well cast in this production. "Cross Cupid Alibi," last week's bill, was well received here and drew capacity audiences.

GOLD IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Irving Gold, well-known Chicago actor, who has just closed a twenty week's engagement with the Sherman Stock Company in Earlville, Ill., is back in Chicago.

"Mary's Ankle" was the offering of the Gilbert Stock Company, Aurora, Ill., week of September 20. Business continues exceptional with the company, as Aurora seems to like the spoken drama.

STRIKE STILL ON

Seattle Musicians Demand Release of Benedict and Marlotte—Both Dropped From Union

Seattle, Sept. 25.—The musicians' strike is still in progress at the Coliseum, Strand, Rex and Liberty theaters, which are the only houses in the Northwest, numbering about twenty-five. The orchestras at the Coliseum, Strand, Rex and Liberty theaters went out July 10 in sympathy with the operators and musicians employed in the houses controlled by Jensen & Von Herberg in Tacoma, Portland and Butte houses operated by this corporation are also out.

Edward Benedict, organist at the Rialto Theater, Tacoma, stuck to his post, as did Janet Hay Malotte, organist at the Coliseum Theater in this city. Oliver G. Wallace, organist at the Liberty here, and writer of "Illinois," "Louisiana," "Indiana Moon" and other hits, went out with the other musicians. According to officials of the musicians' union the strike reached a practical state of settlement, but for the fact that the theater corporation demanded that Benedict and Malotte be retained. The musicians would not accede to this demand and it is reported that both Benedict and Malotte were dropped from the union list in Tacoma and Seattle.

IMHOF OUT—TRUESDALE IN

New York, Sept. 25.—Howard Truesdale is taking Roger Imhof's place in "Jimmie," the musical comedy in which Frances White will be starred. Imhof's resignation was caused by his dissatisfaction with his part and arranged by the mutual consent of himself and Arthur Hammerstein.

MAX HOFFMAN WITH "FOLLIES"

New York, Sept. 25.—Max Hoffman is now conducting the orchestra for the "Ziegfeld Follies." Hoffman has conducted his wife's (Gertrude Hoffman) vaudeville act for many years. Besides his job with the "Follies" Max conducts the band for the Keith vaudeville shows on Sunday night at the New Amsterdam Theater.

"FOLLIES" TO FOLLOW

New York, Sept. 25.—When the "Ziegfeld Follies" leaves the New Amsterdam Theater on October 9 it will be followed by "Hitchy-Koo, 1920." The "Follies" goes to Boston and "Hitchy" comes into the Amsterdam. Reports from the latter city say it is a great show.

"MECCA" NEARLY READY

New York, Sept. 23.—The production of "Mecca," which is now in rehearsal, will open at the Century Theater on October 4. The complete cast includes Gladys Hanson, Hannah Toback, Kate Mayhew, Ida Mulle, Genevieve Delora, Andrey Anderson, Martha Lorber, May Poth, Margaret Brodnar and Elizabeth Talma, and Lionel Braham, Herbert Grimwood, John Doran, Orville Caldwell, John Nicholson, Thomas Leary, Harold Skinner, John Pierson, Robert Rhodes, Julian Winters, Richard Schwindler, Basil Smith and Lionel Chalmers.

There will also be a ballet of sixty dancers and a big ensemble. Scenic and dress rehearsals are taking place all this week, and, beginning next Monday, the rehearsals will be with orchestra. Altogether there are said to be 400 people in the company, and Morris Gest says the production will cost $400,000.

Gest has made arrangements with the Shuberts to occupy a floor of offices in the Century Building during the run of "Mecca."

WILD REVUE RUMORS

New York, Sept. 25.—All sorts of tales have been flying about Broadway as to who is going to be with the forthcoming Cohan revue. William Collier was said to be the star in connection with it, and now Elsie Janis says she won't be in it. Other names besides these have been mentioned and printed by irresponsible parties, but the leading players, as mentioned in last week's issue of The Billboard, are to be Sam Bernard, Joe Weber and Lew Fields.

BURROUGHS IN "JIMMIE"

New York, Sept. 25.—Arthur Hammerstein has put Dan Burroughs into "Jimmie." Hammerstein "discovered" Burroughs in a stock company playing Reading, Pa., last summer and placed him with his "Always Yon" Company, where he made a big hit on the road. He has been withdrawn from that piece and is now rehearsing with "Jimmie."

Actors, actresses, tists and performers, please note carefully: Our branch managers and all authorized solicitors have been expressly forbidden to even mention the subject of advertising to plays or artists for business. If, therefore, you are approached by anyone purporting to represent us in such capacity, he is a fraud and his allegations spurious. Denounce him. Don't be misled for large, expensive ads. O. E. Wee's "Shepherd of the Hills" Company closed last week and his "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" opened Friday.

Arthur Gorman goes ahead of "The Girl Who Came Back," sponsored by Harry City Blasey, opening in Binghamton, N. Y., September 30.

Charley Williams left New York City Sunday to join Gus Hill's California Minstrels at Toronto, Can., as company manager over the Trans-Canada Circuit.

Harry Taylor has just closed a very successful summer stock season at Contoocook Park, near Concord, N. H. This is Harry's second year in this popular park.

Bill Benedict will put out the Authentic War Films, under the auspices of the American Legion, opening at Cleveland, O. Walter Turner will be manager.

William J. (Bill) Guard, press representative of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who recently returned from Europe, says New York is the musical center of the world—and Bill ought to know.

Mike Cavanaugh goes in advance of Macklyn Arbuckle in "Daddy Dumpling," opening at Far Rockaway Friday, September 24. George Fitchett will be the company manager, and the production is under the banner of Earl Carroll.

Arthur S. Wenzel, well-known theatrical manager and press representative, will manage the new publicity bureau of Lichtig & Rothwell, theatrical and motion picture agency, of Los Angeles. Wenzel has had many years' experience in the theatrical business.

Col. "Ed" D. Salter, debonair and chipper as ever, paid The Billboard office at Cincinnati a visit prior to the opening of the Johnny J. Jones Exposition at the Tennessee State Fair. The Colonel apparently has discovered the fountain of youth. Long may he wave!

W. T. (Billy) Boyer writes that he is no longer connected with John W. Vogel's Minstrels, but is back on his old job with Charles W. Beemer's "Peck's Bad Boy" Company as general agent. The show, which will play the same route as last year, has all new scenery and is bigger and better than ever, says Billy.

Thos. Alton, ahead of Kibble's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Company, and F. W. Egner, who recently closed with the "Buster Brown" Company, were callers at the home office of The Billboard a few days ago. Mr. Alton reports that the "Tom" show is playing to good business. It will go as far west as Wisconsin, then return eastward. Mr. Egner goes ahead of Virginia Lewis and Company, opening November 1, and playing Ohio and Indiana.

The press agent is a pest and ought to be uradicated, according to E. O. Wickizer, of Pasadena, who read a paper on the subject before the Southern California Editorial Association, in which he advocated a central bureau to pass on free publicity. Nevertheless, Ben Wickizer is not likely to be gladdened by an early adoption of his views as to exterminating the species. In fact, the field of the press agent seems to be becoming broader every day. And whether he be known by the title of press agent, publicity man, "praise agent" or what not, the purveyor of free publicity will be long with us. Doubtless the methods of some members of the craft are open to criticism, but this should not condemn the craft as a whole.

W. Dixon Van Valkenberg, who has probably found his way into as many front-page newspapers as anyone else in the lightweight division, has returned to Hagerstown, Md., "Van" can occasionally be found in his palatial mansion, when not supervising in the rural districts his two big 700-acre fruit farms and an agricultural farm which keeps this youthful, fleetfooted disciple of Horace Greeley busy garnering the proceeds therefrom. The boy Wonder may be expected to greet "Farmer Van" when the crops are gathered in, and it is a safe bet that he will be found guiding the destiny of some luminary, or maybe making his own productions.

DELYSIA SAILING

New York, Sept. 25.—Alys Delysia will sail for this side from England next Wednesday. Morris Gest has engaged her to play in "Afgar." In which she will have the same part she has been playing for two years at the London Pavilion. "Afgar" will go to the Forty-fourth Street Theater following the run of "Way Down East" some time in November. Charles B. Cochran is coming with the same boat as Delysia to see the "Afgar" opening.

Comments on Prospects of Coming Season—Elaborate Plans Made—Show Goes Into Pennsylvania Soon

Harry Shannon, Jr., whose ability as a comedian is well known in repertoire circles and who is following in the footsteps of his father, Harry, Sr., was in Cincinnati the week on business. While here he visited the offices of The Billboard, commenting on the prospects of the coming season and the success of the summer season under canvas, which closed at Piqua, O., two weeks ago.

Harry has elaborate plans for the winter season and has an excellent line of houses which he will play. He stated that he has been handling the company this past season, as his father, mother and sister are taking it easy at their home at Wapakoneta, O., and touring the State in their new car visiting other repertoire companies and reserving old acquaintances. The trio is expected back on the show next week at Attica, O., where the company will play the last fair of the season.

Special stress was laid by Mr. Shannon on the class of bills the company is offering this year and the exceptional ability of the cast. "We have made a very careful selection of plays this season," he said, "and are trying hard to get several more late releases. About a carload of scenery is being carried, including furniture, a good deal of which I just bought here, and other effects."

The present roster of the company includes Harry Shannon, Jr.; Marjorie Southwell, Jessie Collier, Betty Rice, Lotta Maye Emerson, Mrs. Chester Youngs, Mrs. Chester Youngs, Dell M. Schrand, Guy Astor, Al W. Emerson, Paul Jackson, Chester Youngs, W. B. Palmore, William Yago, Kirk Marks, Norman H. Morey, Rex Keith, Ben Ware, Robert C. Smith, Reis H. Bandy, Dave M. Bailey, Sherman Wier and Jerry Prescott. The mascot is four months old Bett Jane Marks, whom Harry says is welcome excess baggage.

LIBERAL PRESS COMMENTS

On Wallace Bruce Players

The following is an unsolicited article from The Liberal Daily News, Liberal, Kan., dated September 4, showing the esteem for the Wallace Bruce Players:

"The Wallace Bruce Players, who are finishing up their engagement at the Majestic Theater tonight, must be recognized as one of the very best stock companies on the road in this section. Their repertoire is one of the most up-to-date and pleasing that the local theatregoers have had an opportunity of seeing down here for a good many years. Liberal, as well as all other towns of its size, manages to get at one time or another a one-night production that is good, but it is mighty seldom that we get a company with several good bills.

"The people of Liberal have enjoyed their every performance and especially the one last night, in which every member of the company starred. Their play for tonight is one of the greatest type, and will certainly be enjoyed by as many as can obtain seats. Every person in the company works in the specialties and their line is new and exceptionally clever.

CHASE-LISTER COMPANY

The present time finds the Chase-Lister Company wending its way thru Nebraska, leaving behind it a trail of good will and satisfied patronage. The show has been meeting with phenomenal success, and in many places new records have been established. Last week, at Neligh, it is said that the house record at the Auditorium was broken by nearly $300.

During the summer months a complete new scenic equipment has been added along with new electrical effects, new wardrobe, and new stage accessories in all departments. Nothing is lacking to make, as nearly as possible, a perfectly equipped and complete dramatic organization. A very refined list of plays is in use, and including "Broken Threads," "The Chimes of Normandy," "The Natural Law," "The Honeymoon Limited," "Cappy Ricks," "A Good-for-Nothing Husband" and "Hello, Baby." The cast is very capable and is under excellent direction. Taken all in all, it can be said that the Chase-Lister Company is one of the very best repertoire organizations on the road today.

MARGIE STEERS PASSES

Well-Known Character Actress Succumbs in Texas Sanitarium

Regrets are being expressed by the many friends of Margie Steers, well-known stock and repertoire character artiste and wife of Carl Bayard Steers author, whose death occurred at St. Mary's Sanitarium, San Antonio, Tex., September 20. For many years Mrs. Steers held a prominent spot in the repertoire activities of the South and West, appearing of late with the R. M. Marks Company, Metropolitan Stock Company and others.

Several years ago she appeared in vaudeville with her husband in a dramatic playlet entitled "When the Clock Strikes Eight." Surviving her are her husband and six-year-old son. Mr. Steers and his son returned to their home at Birch Tree, Mo., after the body was interred at Boerne, Tex.

C. W. COMPTON ILL

C. W. Compton, well-known agent who recently closed with the Princess Floating Theater and was about to take the trail for the Frank Gianivan Dramatic Company, is confined to bed at his home in Brazil, Ind. He was compelled to cancel the Gianivan engagement on short notice. "Doctors say that he will be able to get up in a few weeks. Friends can write him at Brazil, Lock Box 25.

FORREST ABBOTT PLAYERS

The Forrest Abbott Players, the first attraction to go out under the Abbott Amusement Company's management, opened its season September 6 at Newburyport, Mass., to large and enthusiastic audiences. Several popular stock releases are included in the list of new plays among them being "Playthings," "Cappy Ricks" and "Birds of Prey." Some well known stock people are in the cast, headed by Gladys McLeod and Gilbert B. Cartland. Others are Alma Blake and Ben Lumley, second leads; Florence Walsey, ingenues; W. Lee Tracy, juvenile; Russell Saxed, George Hasbrooke and James Flynn. Franklyn MacDonald is the director and Forrest Abbott owner and manager.

The company plays a circuit of eight towns, offering three plays a week, each play being mounted on special scenery with effects.

"THE CRIMSON NEMESIS"

"The Crimson Nemesis," the latest play by Robert J. Sherman, is making good as an opener for Mae Edwards' Players, playing Eastern Canada. Miss Edwards claims it to be the best opening bill the company has ever had. The play was first presented by the Frank Gianivan Company this season as "Just Mickey." The weak spots were rewritten and the play was given its present title. Mr. Sherman now has eleven plays in use by tent and house attractions.

OPERA HOUSE RENOVATED

For the past two years, Pittsburg, Tex., has been tied up theatrically, owing to the Mayor. Now a new regime is to power, and preparations to receive attractions are under way. The Opera House has been repainted, new scenery installed and a new front curtain added. It has gone thru an entire renovation. The seating capacity is 500. Only tent shows have played the town for over two years and the citizens are looking forward to a good road attraction.

Raymond Ketchum and wife (Sara Tresdwell) will soon begin their tenth successive year with the Cusse-Lister Company playing leads.

GINNIVAN DRAMATIC COMPANY

Closes Summer Season and Opens in Houses for Winter

Defiance, O., Sept. 25.—The Frank Gianivan Dramatic Company opened its winter season here in the Valentine Theater last Sunday. Angola, Ind., was the last stand under canvas, closing in that city on September 18. The Gianivan Company is the first repertoire outfit to play this city in years.

Beginning tomorrow (Wooster, O., will hold the company, which will occupy the K. & E. house during the fair week. The roster includes Frank H. Gianivan, Robert J. Sherman, Ward MacDonaugh, Armine Lamb, Lew Mathews, Orson Meyers, Harry Richards, F. L. Hone, Jessie V. Gianivan, Vivian Sloane, Inis Luce and Nellie Hoose.

A complete scenic production of flats for each play is carried. The repertoire includes "The Forgotten Son," "The Crimson Nemesis," "The Warning," "The Parasite," "The Awakening of Dean Kiyne," "The Naked Truth" and "The Lady He Mentioned." Special paper is carried for each play.

George Winslett, New York, is booking the show thru the Klaw & Erlanger offices.

WESTERN FRECKLES NOTES

Ebba Liaue, who has been playing the Angel with the Western "Freckles" Company, closed with that attraction last week. Miss Liaue will return to Chicago, where she is shortly to enter matrimonial bonds. She will be replaced temporarily by Judith Raeburn (Mrs. Darrell H. Lyall) until Mr. Lyall can secure some one suitable for the part. Miss Raeburn has played the part for the past five seasons.

Irving O'Dunne has been engaged by the Broadway Amusement Company for the part of "Freckles" with the company, and reports are that he is giving splendid satisfaction. Mr. O'Dunne has been in vaudeville the past couple of seasons, playing a similar part, and, with his size, auburn hair and a splendid singing voice, makes an ideal "Freckles."

"COWBOY" COMPANY IN EAST

"Au Arizona Cowboy" Company reports big business thru Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia, playing one-night stands. The company, headed by Herbert K. Betts and Dorothy Lull, has been playing thru Canada. New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont all summer and is now in its twenty-fifth week. William Gibney is ahead.

The roster holds, besides the leads, George Fisher, Hal Florence, Michael Moss, Harry Foster, Clarence Joyce, Elizabeth Lull, Leona Gero and Maude Rudell. A cowboy band is a feature on the streets during the day and an orchestra of five pieces entertains during the performance. After the November elections the company will head for the Coast for the balance of the season.

KINGSVILLE, TEX.,

Greets Bostwick Players

Kingsville, Tex., Sept. 24.—The Bostwick Players are giving an extraordinary line of good, clean entertainment here this week. The company is playing to its fast seating capacity and is living up to its past reputation of giving its patrons the best. It has been some time since this city has enjoyed the privilege of patronizing a show of the Bostwick standard. Attractions have been on the decline here since the advent of motion picture features. Mr. Bostwick and his cast will always be welcomed by Kingsville.—P. F. A.

EQUITY BOOKING

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Among recent bookings of the Equity Employment Bureau were the following: Mae DePorter and John Cotton, to the Mae-Taff Stock Company; Catharine Hall, to the Gifford-Young Stock; John Higgins and wife, to Jack Latts' "Indoor Sports" unit; O. A. Williamson, to the same set; George B. Watler and wife, to the Nestell Players' Stock; Muriel Richards, Hazel Harrison and Neae Vertch, to the "Week Girl" Company; Maxel Morley, Micky Major and Mae Van Lear, to Morris Greenwald's Revue de Vogue.

CORBIN-HASTING STOCK

The Corbin-Hasting Stock Company is now preparing for its opening at Mt. Hope, W. Va., October 21. Several performers have already been engaged, and rehearsals will begin about October 16. Mr. Corbin has purchased all new scenery for the coming season and is also putting out a new line of pictorial paper. A four-piece jazz band will be one of the big features. Hospitality bills and vaudeville will be the policy. A number of good towns have been booked thru the coal fields, after which the show will play Eastern Kentucky.

Have you looked thru the Letter List in this issue? There may be a letter advertised for you.

PRISON SHIP "SUCCESS"

Atlantic City, Sept. 22.—The prison ship "Success," the oldest vessel afloat, which proved to be a great attraction here all summer, put out to sea at high tide last Thursday afternoon shortly after four o'clock, crossed the bar without mishap and got away on its journey to Philadelphia, towed by a sea going tug.

Captain D. H. Smith, in command of the "Success," had anticipated that some difficulty might be experienced in crossing the bar, as there is only about a foot of water there at high tide, and the "Success" draws that much. The Government dredge "Absecon" was on hand to assist if the vessel had touched bottom, but her services were not needed.

Thousands of persons along the beach and Boardwalk watched the big vessel standing out towards the horizon, many of them armed with glasses. After a stay in Philadelphia the "Success" will go to Cuba for the winter. An effort has been made to have Captain Smith bring the historic convict ship back here next summer, but his plans are indefinite at the present time.

During its stay of two weeks thousands of persons boarded the vessel, and got some first-hand information how convicts were treated 300 years ago.

STRONG CLOSES

Chicago, Sept. 25.—The Elwin Strong Company closed its most successful season today. The stock will go into winter quarters in Fremont, Neb. Mr. and Mrs. Strong and Mrs. Strong (Violet Manning) will spend the winter in California on a pleasure jaunt.

Sam Fitzer will remain in Fremont in charge of winter quarters. Henry Budde, general agent, has signed for next season. He will spend the winter in vaudeville.

NOTES FROM BRUNK'S NO. 5

Business continues good with Brunk's Comedians No. 5, which is now on its way South, where it will remain during the winter playing under the specially constructed tent for winter touring. A new heating system, invented by Whitie Rose, boss canvasman, will be installed. There have been made in the cast since opening. A twelve-piece band and seven-piece orchestra (not Jazz) is carried. The show is managed by Pete Palmer.

"FRECKLES" GOING GOOD

Joseph Rith's Eastern "Freckles" Company is doing a big business thru New York State. The press and public have bestowed great praise on the players in every town played. Harry Dickerson, the stage director, is giving special attention to every detail and is deserving of much credit toward the success of the company. The lull for "Freckles" is being filled by one old friend Bill Beecher, well known agent, who gets the spots and showings in all towns played.

REPERTORY NOTES

Joyce LaVette, a favorite repertoire artist, recently closed with the Shannon Stock Company and joined Percy's Comedians, which is en route to Florida for the winter.

Leland and St. Clair closed with Horace Murphy's Comedians in California and motored thru the State, stopping over at the big cities along the Coast. The couple expect to be back in Chicago in the very near future.

Max Trendell has joined the Mason Stock Company after a couple of years' absence. Max states that it feels good to get back home. He is at the piano directing his orchestra.

"JEMS" POSTPONED AGAIN

New York, Sept. 25.—"Jim Jem Jems," which was to have opened at the Cort Theater next Monday, has been postponed again. Necessity for repairs is said to be the reason. John Cort called in Edgar McGregor last week, and he is busy whipping the show into shape for the New York opening, which is now slated to take place October 4.

INTERVIEWING

Gilda Varesi Is Just One Visitor After Another—Popular Actress Tells of Her Efforts That Finally Met Success

New York, Sept. 24.—There are certain things that must be taken into consideration when you start out to interview a star. Especially a woman. In the first place, you will experience the usual difficulty in seeing the star work. That was just what happened when we thought it advisable to assimilate a little of "Enter, Madame," at the Garrick Theater, to watch Gilda Varesi. We strolled jauntily up to the ticket window and expressed a desire for a good seats. Two seats, good or bad, weren't to be had at any price, it seemed. New York had decided to see just how, why and when Madame entered that night. The girl at the ticket window said that New York had been just as curious about Madame's entries on every week day night since the day of the opening, August 16. We accepted the ultimatum and stood up during the evening performance. First on one foot and then on the other. And it was worth it. "Enter, Madame" is moving up in the Times Square district soon, and it will probably be just as hard to get seats.

But to return to the interview. We enjoyed Gilda Varesi and it was thought best to interview her. Yesterday afternoon, after the matinee, I invaded Gilda Varesi's dressing room. She is a charming woman, with pleasing personality and a voice that sort of fascinates you. In fact, she is altogether too charming. For we soon found that she had a large following. And they all followed the trail to her dressing room.

"I have done tragedy all my life," began Miss Varesi, as her maid carefully put away the wonderful Maison Jaquelin gowns, incidentally the black and gold lounging robe.

"The sort of thing that appeals to me most is a dramatic effort that is set with diamonds of flashing laughter. Half tears and half laughter, I might say. There is nothing more wonderful, I think, than real tragedy. It is a state of mind and one is on the stage to express states of mind. Madame Lisa Della Robbia, the temperamental prima donna of 'Enter, Madame', expresses an extreme of the so-called artistic temperament. But I have made a careful study of such characters all my life, and, while I admit I have never known a cook who could play a flute like William Hallman, as Mademoiselle, the chef in our piece, does, at the same time, wouldn't it be possible? It wouldn't be impossible, would it?"

And right here came a knock at Miss Varesi's door. A trio of ladies had made their appearance. They just wanted to express their best wishes for the future of "Enter, Madame"; they had seen the show and they had enjoyed it SO much, and especially Miss Varesi's work, and wouldn't she take lunch with them some of these days? And following these visitors came others, one a young married couple, both of whom are in a Broadway musical comedy, and they just dropped around to say they had seen the show, and, oh, how they liked Miss Varesi's work. Miss Varesi gracefully acknowledged the friendly wishes; we waited patiently while New York trooped up to her dressing room to pay homage. Finally there was a lull. New York had seen the show and it had done the most good thing in the world—expressed its appreciation direct to the star—for New York insists on personal visits in such cases—and finally Miss Varesi was again at liberty to discuss the stage.

The fact that Gavin Muir, who plays the part of the son, John Fitzgerald, in the play, rather insinuated himself into his part is apparently to Miss Varesi's liking. That he bears no resemblance to his mother, the temperamental Madame Robbia, is, to Miss Varesi's mind, a most delightful thing. She said:

"How many people," she argues, "have sons that are almost like changelings? Sometimes you see a man who, like John Fitzgerald, has a mother like Madame Robbia, but his father, Fitzgerald, his father, the part assumed in such a distinguished way by Norman Trevor, is supposed to be a Southern gentleman. Lord bless us, he is tied by something or us inherent conservatism, and the whole thing is logically tied together. These same queer interlocking, half-suppressed tendencies, such as are expressed by Gerald Fitzgerald, are what help make our lives complex—and worth living."

Miss Varesi admitted that she had made several former efforts to write a successful play. "I've never quite succeeded before in my writing," she said, "altho I had a wonderful collaborator in my attempts, which we entitled 'Where the Butterfly Went'. I am afraid I didn't know the writing job from a technical standpoint well enough not to interfere with someone who did. Some day I mean to take that play up again and finish it. In another attempt I became all mixed up on my plot and lost heart in the middle of it. Judy Byrne and myself collaborated in 'Enter, Madame', which I think you will admit is a success. At any rate, the house has been sold out at practically every performance.

"If you insist on presenting my past life you might say I was born in Chicago and went to Loring Dramatic School people may want to hide their doubtful past in Chicago, but that's not my intention or desire. I have played in about every line of stage endeavor, including vaudeville, dramatic stock, and also appeared in motion pictures, and I took Nazimova's part in the second 'War Brides' Company. My work in pictures wasn't so successful, because my actions were too quick for proper showing on the screen. I was on and off the screen like a flash. In 1918 I worked in dramatic stock for eight weeks. I dislike that work very much. I hate to go on with a part learned hurriedly. I feel about my acting as you would about sitting down to a meal and only half chewing the food. It's indigestible unless proper time is taken in the learning of the part, rehearsing and polishing the fine details which are necessary for proper presentation."

Just then came another knock at the door. This time it was Ethel Taylor, an artist and great friend of Miss Varesi. She has just completed a cover design for Irving S. Cobb's latest book, "Abandoned Farms."

"Now," said Miss Varesi, "you must by this time have enough material to fill the whole issue of the next Billboard." We admitted that we had considerable of an interview. As we started out of the door two more people arrived.

"We just wanted to tell you how we enjoyed—" But these pass out of hearing. There is no end to interviewing it. Gilda Varesi has many friends! —CLIFFORD KNIGHT.

Miss Varesi, who with Norman Trevor is doing some admirable acting in a part that fits her perfectly in "Enter, Madame," which is playing at the Garrick Theater to an uptown house.

ACTORS' EQUITY ASSOCIATION NEWS

115 WEST FORTY-SEVENTH STREET, NEW YORK CITY

Ingratitude of humanity to the actor is deplorable. The audience that enjoys the work of a great actor, and then, when the best of him is gone, casts him aside for the next favorite that appears, is made up of the same people that visit an aviation meeting, filled with the subconscious hope that they will see a man killed; and these people are probably reincarnations of the Romans, who turned their thumbs down in answer to the appeals of helpless gladiators. A man who adopts the stage as a profession gives up, as a rule, much greater opportunities. Theatrical salaries sound fabulous to laymen, but in reality they are not. Consider any ordinary instance of a "leading man" with a standard show: In contract figures, he is remunerated exorbitantly; but what of his expenses and the outlays of his trade? He pays transportation, yet necessary, bills for living; hotels, sleepers, dining cars, tips—all that goes with traveling in decent style requires a large amount. He must wear good raiment; it is demanded of him. A man who has chosen the law or medicine as a profession would soon be independently wealthy on the same financial returns. The man who has located in one place lives on a much smaller outlay of cash than the man who must follow the interminable road. The man who builds his home in a city and remains there gains the respect and confidence of his fellow men, while the wanderer, no matter how much his art may be admired and praised, is an outcast to a great extent. His credit is doubtful, if not impossible. Of applause he may have a surfeit; praise rings in his ears and flattery is as free as the air to him; but the moment that age approaches, the day that ill health impairs his ability to amuse the rub, he is passed by coldly just the same as the ex-prize fighter. The actor, speaking broadly, possesses just as many faults as any other man and no more. When the bright beams of fame have faded, many a successful child of public approval has wasted the fruits of his talent, and he must retire to a twilight of oblivion to contemplate the days that were more brilliant. Because an actor is pampered and flattered by people of wealth in the height of his fame is no reason for him to attempt to live up to their level of waste, for when his short space of popularity is passed those who were so bountiful in their words of tribute will become misers with their gold.

We are dealing with frugality, economy and protection, and the greatest protection that the Actors' Equity Association can give to the men and women of the stage will be the "Equity Shop." We believe that the theatrical profession, as a whole, has awakened to a realization that with true organization will come the survival of real talent and ability. We believe that the "Equity Shop" will bring the theater back to what it was, and that a great deal of the commercialism that exists in it today will be brushed aside. We are hopeful that when the referendum vote is put to our people they will respond and vote intelligently. Therefore it is necessary and most essential that we have your correct address. Do not hesitate to send at once to the Actors' Equity Association, 115 West 47th street, New York City, your present address, no matter how well you are sure you may be that we have it. This is a request from the Council. A post card will do! for if you permit this question to be decided without your vote you are not loyal to your organization.

Deputies—Get busy! You have the right to ask every member of your company to see their paid-up card. Check up your delinquents, and send in their names to headquarters, point out to them the importance of their being paid up in the organization that has done and is doing, and will do, so much for them, and when the ballots reach you vote wisely and well. Vote for the protection of yourself, your fellow-players and vote so that those who come after you in the days ahead will thank God that such men and women lived and handed themselves together in the great cause of Equity, and brought about a condition that brought back all the oldtime glory and honor of the theatrical profession.

The association has appointed an official physician, Dr. Louis Stern is the man—a physician who cared our members well during the struggle of a year ago, a physician who is 100 per cent Equity, and who will treat our members with all that goes with that spirit. To those

THE EQUITY SHOP

J. Marcus Keyes, of the Chicago Branch of Equity, Discusses Progress

Chicago, Sept. 22.—The Equity Shop is a subject of growing interest to Chicago actors at the present time. J. Marcus Keyes, of the Chicago office of Equity, discussed the subject with The Billboard today.

"The expressions from Chicago actors are virtually unanimous in favor of the Equity Shop," said Mr. Keyes. "The idea took from the start, so far as that is concerned, but it has been cemented in a wonderful whole of late."

When Frank Gillmore, executive secretary, was in Chicago recently a Billboard representative was struck by the spontaneous response that followed in a meeting where Mr. Gillmore spoke on parasites. The speaker paid his respects to that element of actors who "accepted everything and gave nothing to the organization." He looked forward, he said, to the time when the barnacles that live off of the Equity structure will be removed. It was during a talk on the Equity Shop that this subject came up.

"Ninety per cent of the managers accepted the Equity Shop idea four months ago when it was first brought up," said Mr. Keyes. "Now they are practically all for it. They have reasons for this attitude. They feel that they are already getting good service out of Equity and that the service will improve with practice and usage, not to mention the maturing of pleasant relations. They feel that they already are getting increased efficiency."

Mr. Keyes discussed some potent features of the proposed Equity shop. "With Equity shop in action," he said, "no member of the Equity will even rehearse with any person not a member of the organization. There will be no chance for parasites to fatten on somebody else's work."

According to Mr. Keyes plans are now being matured by Equity headquarters in New York for a referendum on the Equity Shop. The matter will soon be put before the Equity members.

LUNT LEARNS TO TOOT

Denver, Col., Sept. 24.—Until he read the manuscript of Booth Tarkington's "Clarence," in which he is again essaying the leading role this season, Alfred Lunt was no musician, had not even an intention of being a musician. But the manuscript changed all that. He was to be Clarence on the stage, and Clarence played the piano, and, what was more awesome, the saxophone. Mr. Tarkington was insistent that the playing should not be "faked." To anyone who has seen the comedy, the reason for this is manifest. The saxophone incident closes the second act, and unless the audience of the title role is master of the instrument the scene can not be played.

Mr. Lunt, who knew absolutely nothing about music, was in Denver on tour with "The Country Cousin" when the manuscript on "Clarence" reached him. He decided forthwith to begin with the saxophone, letting the piano go until the following summer. He purchased an instrument and engaged an elderly teacher, who instructed him for two hours daily during his stay in Colorado's capital. For the next two months life was, he says, "just one darned search for a saxophone teacher after another."

The company played one-night stands and saxophone experts were few and far between, but by untiring patience and untiring energy the actor was ready by the final week of the season to toot with sureness.

PAGEANT PICTURES SHOWN IN SCHOOLS

New Orleans, Sept. 22.—A movement is on foot to make an annual event of the public school historical pageant held at the fair grounds last fall, in which 5,000 school children appeared. Motion pictures and stills of the pageant were used in schools in Boston, Chicago, New York, San Francisco and other cities to teach the history of the lower Mississippi Valley. Ben Hauley staged the affair.

STAGE WOMEN'S WAR RELIEF

251 Lexington Ave., New York City

Our cherished plan of taking the disabled soldiers on an outing to Lima Park has been abandoned owing to other important matters occupying the attention of the managers of the ocean resort. The plan likewise was impracticable on account of the variable weather, which is always odder at the shore. But instead we have another plan which will tend to bring gladness and good cheer to the boys at the Service Hospital. In our next issue we will discuss this proposition more at length. Many of our reliable standbys have not failed us this week, and we quote a few interesting letters from our generous contributors to the coupon.

Dear Friends—Enclosed please find my bit (25 cents) towards your wonderful work. More will follow from time to time. Best of luck. Yours, Frank X.

Another cheery line from dear Flo Rockwood, who has been playing over in England. Her letter is dated Wakefield, Eng., under date of August 25: "Dear Friends—Just another letter from the quaint, historical town of Wakefield, and also a good old Yankee dollar, to give a good Yankee boy ten smiles. In looking over the visitors' book at the Cathedral I came across the names of two American boys from Pittsburg, so thought I would drop my wounded boys a dollar bill. I go over to France next week, and then back home again. Good wishes ever, Flo Rockwood."

Leona Taylor, Venice, Cal., sends her register remittance. Edna C. Burnett, N. Y., 10 cents. Fred Martin, San Francisco, Cal., remits one crisp dollar bill. Francis Salzinl, Corning, N. Y., sends one dollar.

A brief note explains another greenback which made its appearance on the coupon: "A donation was brought into the office last Friday by a gentleman who is not a professional, but he reads The Billboard regularly, and is greatly interested in the good work being done for the soldiers."

From E. B. Barney, of Newark, N. J., comes a quarter; from C. T. Glasier, regular remittance. D. Arden sends one dollar for ten smiles.

From Staunton, Va., J. Henry Forbes writes: Enclosed you will find one dollar for your organization's splendid cause.

And today the mail brings ten coupons in one envelope, listed as follows: From Ida Chesver Goodwin, 1498 Broadway, New York City; Eileen Goodwin, K. Louise Goodwin, H. Nevina Goodwin, Dorothy Goodwin, Aunt Jessie, Aunt Georgie, Aunt Mary. From Chicago: Little Billie Grant and Rita Goodwin Grant.

Isn't that a splendid record for the Goodwin family? If more people would remember our boys there would be fewer heartaches among those who now face the realities of their heroic sacrifices. We can only relieve their burden a bit by giving them a little good cheer, and the money from the coupon sapplies many little pleasures they otherwise would be without. So, dear friends of the show world, don't neglect the duty you owe to our men who fought for us all.

BARNEY BERNARD

Made Deputy Sheriff at Atlantic City

Atlantic City, Sept. 22.—Barney Bernard, who claims to have acted "Abe Potash" so many times that he is more the character than himself, is now a "sure-enough" local deputy sheriff. To prove his statement he showed the necessary appointment and the credential badge to a visitor in his dressing room the other evening, when playing at the Apollo Theater here.

DRAMATIC NOTES

The Provincetown Players will reopen for the season November 1.

Langdon McCormick has completed the manuscript for "The Night Watch."

Richard Taber's work in "Blue Bonnet" has elicited much favorable comment.

"San Valley," starring Arthur Donaldson, will open in Worcester, Mass., November 15.

Tim Murphy has been engaged by John Golden for an important role in "The First Year."

Lois Alberni has been engaged for an important role in "The Outrageous Mrs. Palmer."

John Golden has engaged Roberta Arnold for a role in Frank Craven's new play, "The First Year."

Langdon McCormick, author of "The Storm," will soon place in rehearsal his newest effort, "The Night Watch."

Rehearsals of "The Shortcut," which Michael Gelabert is producing, have started under the stage direction of Harry McRae Webster.

George Sydney will from now on be a featured player of the cast of "Welcome, Stranger" at the Cohan & Harris Theater, New York.

The Selwyns have started rehearsals of George V. Hobart's new play, "Sonny," with Emma Dunn and Lillian Lorraine heading the cast.

"The Meanest Man in the World," a George M. Cohan production, opens at the Hudson Theater, New York, Monday night, October 11.

Next Monday, September 27, "The Merchants of Venice" will have its New York opening in the Punch and Judy Theater after an out-of-town tryout.

George Arliss' fame will suffer not the slightest diminution from the fate of "Poldekin." His study and rendition of the name part were both masterly.

Charlotte Walker never has appeared to poorer advantage than in "Call the Doctor." The role is one that no actress on earth could impart the slightest verity.

"San Toy," starring Arthur Donaldson, will open in Worcester, Mass., November 15.

Max Marcin will present "Three Live Ghosts," a comedy by Frederick Isham, at the Greenwich Village Theater, New York, starting Wednesday night, September 29.

The Selwyns announce that Florence Reed will open their new Times Square Theater, New York, Thursday night, September 30, in Edgar Selwyn's new play, "The Mirage."

Marc Klaw, who returned recently from abroad, says that the European dramatic world is looking hopefully to America for new plays. He says the English theatergoer wants fun and frivolity at present, but predicts a return to more serious form of entertainment.

Rachael Barton Butler has completed the cast for "The Lap Dog," which is scheduled for an early opening. She is author of "Mom," in which Minnie Dupree will have a leading part.

Adelina Thompson will be seen in the cast when the New York Theater Guild opens its season at the Garrick Theater. "The Treasure," by David Pinski, will be the first production of the Guild season, starting October 4.

The Shuberts have started rehearsals of "The Outrageous Mrs. Palmer," a comedy by Harry Wagstaff Gribble, which will open next at the Hubert Crescent Theater, Borough, October 4.

Robert Whittier's "An Enemy of the People" is concluding its engagement at the Manhattan Opera House, New York, and will open at the Lexington Theater Monday night, September 27, for a two weeks' engagement.

Herbert Lomas, English actor, has arrived from London and starts rehearsing in "The Skin Game." He appeared as "Lincoln" in the Drinkwater play by that name in London.

The title of Louis Mann's new starring vehicle will be "The Unwritten Chapter." The play is a comedy-drama in three acts, was written by Samuel Shipman and Victor Victor, and will open at the Astor Theater, New York, October 11.

Cohn Little, the manager, will have charge of Madge Kennedy and her company in "Cornered," in which she will return to the stage this season under the management of Henry W. Savage. "Cornered" will open in Bridgeport on October 4.

Oliver Morosco will start for another trip to the Coast soon to produce a number of new plays at the Morosco houses. "The Rainbow Ridge," by Paul Dickey and Charles Goddard; "Slippy McGee" and "The Rose of the Ghetto" are some of the productions.

Ben Hanley, of New Orleans, has in rehearsal several productions of his own, which will be presented some time in the early fall, participated in by New Orleans exclusive society, augmented by the cleverest amateur talent in the city.

At His Majesty's Theater, Montreal, next Monday, September 27, Lee Shubert will present William Faversham in a modern version of Mark Twain's famous story, "The Prince and the Pauper." The New York engagement will follow later.

The business given "Poldekin" (pronounced Pol-de-kin—accent on first syllable) at the Park was poor from the beginning and got utendily worse. That accorded "Call the Doctor" at the Bronx, held up remarkably despite the reviews, due doubtless to the fine showing of both Belasco and the famous Frohman house.

The complete cast of "Cornered," in which Madge Kennedy will be starred, is as follows: Madge Kennedy, Amelia Gardner, Ann Sutherland, Ruth Findlay, Elizabeth Hall, Hamilington, Theresa Quadri, Doris Chisholm, Morelia Abbe, Leslie Austen, Charles Brown, Morgan Comus, Sam Walsh, Robert Forsythe, George Tuller, Jerry Hart, Frederick Graham, Frank Patten.

who can pay he will charge a nominal fee of $2; to those who cannot pay, who may be out of an engagement and out of funds, and in need of a physician, a paid-up card in the Actors' Equity Association will be sufficient. To find such a man in New York, Louis Stern is a difficult thing, and a busy physician with his years of experience, who is willing to devote himself in helping those of Equity who are ill and in need of the best of care, such a man is indeed wonderful. We take this opportunity now to extend our personal thanks to Dr. Stern for accepting the office, and we feel that as time goes on he will receive the thanks and gratitude of hundreds of our members.

Again we repeat: Send in your permanent address, so that we can send you a ballot to vote on the question that is more vital to the actor than a national election.

FOLLY

Of Dirty Show Exemplified

By Protests Against "G. V. Follies" in Kansas City—Actors Should Stop Growing Evil

"Discriminating playgoers, who may have been hesitating in attending the Shubert Theater this week, where the 'Greenwich Village Follies of 1919' are on display, for the reason that the Sunday night's performance was replete with coarse and suggestive jokes on the part of certain comedians, now have the assurance of J. J. Glick, house manager, that nothing objectionable will mar the remaining performances this week. Reviewers who were amused by some of the daring dialog in the first night's performance attended the show again last night in view of a promise by Mr. Glick that the blotches on the escutcheon would be removed. They found the scouring had been fairly well done. The blackface comedian still seems a little rougher than the occasion warrants, but his jokes, for the most part, are so old that the audience seems inured to even the worst ones. 'Jimmy' Watts delves more into the realm of burlesque than straight comedy, but is an artist in his line and well received. The rest of the show is a little better than the average entertainment, too. The music is lilting and harmonious, and the scenic effects and general staging above the average.—E. B. G."

The above is from The Kansas City Star of September 24.

Could one want a better example of the folly of "dirtying up" a show than this? Here is a successful road attraction which is so dirty that even the case-hardened critics are amazed. They protest, and the house manager promises to have the show scrubbed up, and the critics return the next night to see that he has kept his word. Truly a delightful experience for the company and the theater.

There are several other shows playing in New York right now to which the same thing will happen when they go on tour if they are not deodorized. This is the sort of publicity that does the stage harm. Is it any wonder that many a theatergoer believes all the men on the stage are coarse and all the women frail when the ears of his women folk and himself are assailed with the phonographic utterances of an alleged comedian? (We say "alleged comedian" advisedly, for a real comedian does not have to resort to obscenity to be funny.) Many actors seem to forget that the playgoer continually associates the character an actor plays on the stage with his personal character off the boards. This isn't so bad. The shame of it is that his associates have to share his evil reputation with him. A primitive sense of decency should prevent an actor from saying things to a theater that he wouldn't say to a gathering of ladies and gentlemen elsewhere.

Actors who resort to filth keep decent people away from the theater and lower the standard of themselves and their profession in the eyes of the most important element of any community. The actor has to stand for a lot of things that he never does or says, but he will have a hard job convincing those outside of his profession that there are decent men and women in it when they hear him spouting obscenities from the stage.

There seem to be only two ways to stop the growing evils of the dirty comedian and the dirty play. The managers, judging by their past records, won't. The public and the actors can. The only question is, which will? If the actor is wise he will be the one. The self-respecting actor and actress will welcome the day when filth is driven from the stage, and the way to hasten that day is to give some forcible expression to their desire. A concerted movement of the acting profession in this direction would be welcomed by all decent playgoers and raise their estimate of the profession immeasurably. Certainly, this is better than having the public authorities step in. That they will most certainly do if the actor can not clean up the stage himself.

Doctor Johnson told David Garrick that he and his profession were mutually indebted to each other. "Your profession," said the Doctor, "has made you rich; and you have made your profession respectable." The time is here right now when some actors must compel other actors to emulate Garrick to the extent of becoming respectable, even if they do not get rich. If they don't, a less friendly hand is liable to do it for them.

NEW PLAYS

"THE ROSE GIRL"

"THE ROSE GIRL"—A musical comedy, with music by Anselm Goetzl; book and lyrics by William Carey Duncan; art director, Paul Irlbe; staged by Frank Stammers. Max Steiner, musical director. Presented at the Globe Theater, Atlantic City, September 20.

THE CAST (the characters in order of their appearance)—Billpord, David Andrade; Fleurette, Dorothy Mackaye; Mme. Donnay, Jo Intropidi; Elise, Beatrice Donald; Denise, Mildred Manley; Colette, Helen Lynch; Suzette, Virginia Wynn; Jellicot, Roy Atwell; Henri, Count de Gaine, Harold Crane; Nadine Bankoff, Flora Zabelle; Victor, Marquis de la Roche, Ray Raymond; Mignon Latour, Mabie Wilbur; Aerba, Christine Miller; Hilana, Rose Rolanda; Yasiman, May Kitchen; Franji, Frank Vrelli; Ambrose Peppino, Ben Linn; Gawain Pettigrew, Louis Simon; Tzyngia, Harry Desmond; Nolle Feuille, Ralph Lerner; Mon. de Montpesier, George L. Grafe. Personnel of the Ensemble—Irene Duffy, Karin Iverson, Lois Lauverne, Connie Madison, Betty Michaels, Carol Ray, Annette Weber and Elba Morris Woods.

Atlantic City, Sept. 22.—Those who witnessed, at the Globe Theater Monday night, the premiere of "The Rose Girl," had recalled most pleasantly their musical memories of that exquisite work by the same authors—"The Royal Vagabond"—for in "The Rose Girl" they had set before them a cleverly captivating musical novelty, full of French atmosphere, roses, perfume, song and dancing, all so extraordinarily interwoven that it did not really need the slight story premeditig the piece.

The first scene is laid in a romantic bit of the French Riviera, where a young Marquis, disowned by his father, falls in love with a pretty little rose maid, who, in the course of events discovers a perfume for each personality, and goes to Paris to escape the demonstrations of her guardian and to demonstrate her work. Of course, they are later reunited and everything turns out in the customary happy way; but during the process it serves as a background for some very charming music and dancing.

Little Mabie Wilbur, as Mignon, the Rose Girl, is excellently adapted for her part. Her voice, the not so powerful, is charmingly sweet, and she has a charming personality that made a very agreeable impression.

Harold Crane, as the Count; Flora Zabelle, as Nadine, the Russian Rose Girl twin, as Jellicot Ray Raymond, as Victor; Dorothy Mackaye, as Fleurette; Josie Intropidi, as Mme. Donnay, lent much humor to the piece.

The Jellicot was a very well-chosen cast, and should prove a success.—E. EDMUNDS FOSTER.

"MAID TO LOVE"

Given Creditable Mention by Cincinnati Dailies

Cincinnati newspapers commented favorably on the musical piece, "Maid To Love," which played in that city last week to excellent houses, despite the hot weather. Efforts are being made by the management to place the show into Broadway in the near future. It is a cleverly arranged vehicle, with a good book and music, and with more detailed direction and a few changes in the cast, should make good. Robert Woolsey and Tom Lewis bear the burden of the business. During the week Raymond W. Peck, manager of the house, and Percy Wenrich were on hand to offer suggestions and aid in smoothing out the rough spots.

MUSICAL COMEDY NOTES

Wendell Phillips Dodge will produce "Lorazyne" shortly.

Hazel Libby has been added to the cast of "The Girl in the Boat."

Johnny Dooley and Clifton Webb will be seen in "Piccadilly to Broadway."

Sonny Lee is staging the dances in Gus Edwards' "Revue of 1920." When that job is finished Sammy may go to Europe.

Alle. Jane Marnac, of Paris, said to have the most expensive wardrobe in France, will appear in the United States in musical comedy.

When George LeMaire's "Broadway Brevities" opens at the New York Winter Garden it will be the first production to play the house and not carry the Shuberts' name as producers in eight years. Stanley Sharpe is interested

"WEDDING BELLS"

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Harry McClintock, a newspaper man, and Mildred Evans, professional understudy to Margaret Lawrence, of the "Wedding Bells" Company, now playing in the Cort Theater, were married September 22 in St. Paul's Universalist Church.

Mr. McClintock formerly was with the A. E. F., and Miss Evans toured France with the entertainment bureau. They met in that country. Her home is in Cedar Rapids, Ia., and she was granted a two days' layoff when the manager learned of the forthcoming nuptials.

OPERA ON MISS MAYFIELD

New York, Sept. 25.—Max Spiegel announces a resumption of the tour of "Look Who's Here" this week, with Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield's sister, Georgia, playing Miss Mayfield's part. Miss Mayfield was stricken ill while playing Boston recently. The engagement at the Colonial Theater, Boston, was immediately terminated and Miss Mayfield returned to New York City. A consultation with physicians was held, following which a major operation was performed on Miss Mayfield at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, which was pronounced a success, and Miss Mayfield's early recovery is expected.

"Aphrodite" Certainly Set Some Paces According to the Auditorium

Chicago, Sept. 23.—"Aphrodite," the daring and more or less unclassified spectacle now current in the Auditorium, has been the one wild woman of the show world of the present and any other—Chicago season.

"Yes," said G. R. Swayze, assistant manager of that dignified temple of art, to The Billboard. "It has been a wonderful starfort. It's been some week, last week, that infinni week, grossed better than $70,000. That knocks everything else the Auditorium has had, having opera, into the cheap discard. Let's see," and Mr. Swayze paused reflectively, "Al Jolson didn't do better than $45,000 on his first week in 'Sinbad.' 'Ben-Hur's' performances never approached even that. But it must be remembered that 'Ben-Hur's' top was $1.50. However, 'Aphrodite' is the great big child that has come to Chicago and set new standards."

Mr. Swayze is not alone a trained and able manager; he is also an optimist. He would like to see the Auditorium make a fortune of money after its season of opera is ended. He is one of the men who do a lot of figuring on operatic overhead.

"I think," he said, "that the Auditorium is showing itself to be a profitable place for big attractions. Or even for attractions not on the scale of magnitude of 'Aphrodite'. For example, 'The Rose of China' was brought from the little La Salle Theater to the Auditorium to finish its engagement. It couldn't be called a big show, could it? Well, it showed to 2,000 to 3,000 people a night. How's that? And I understand that Comstock & Gest, the owners of 'Aphrodite', will bring 'Mecca' to the Auditorium after the run of 'Aphrodite' is finished. 'Mecca', they say, is even bigger than 'Aphrodite'. Both managers and the public are learning that the Auditorium is a good place to put in a show of merit."

Others in the company are: "Chuck" Ross and Mrs. Hobart, and eight good-looking chorus girls.

JACK DEERING, manager of the musical comedy company bearing his name, writes The Billboard, while he is undergoing "repairs," due to an accident, that he tried to step an auto while getting off a street car, but instead the machine stopped him. He emerged from the accident with fractured arm and injured ankle, besides being badly bruised. "NO STOCK; NO RECORDS"

Clever Scheme Being Worked on New York Publishers To Float New Recording Company—Some Fall, But Only a Few

New York, Sept. 24.—A very nifty scheme came to light this week to separate the publishers of music in this town from their coin, using the bindgeon of a threat not to record their numbers if they failed to come thru. A certain company which has been making rolls for player pianos for some years announced to the publishers that they were about to inaugurate a record company. They sent an engaging young man around to the publishers with this information, and when the publisher started to talk about recording his numbers, the young man started to talk money. He informed them that before they could have a number recorded by his firm the publisher would have to take out $1,000 worth of stock in the record company and said that if they didn't they would get no recordings of their numbers.

The young man met with a cold shoulder in most of the places he visited; one member of a small firm threatening to kick him out. But, surprising to relate, three firms, and three of the largest in the business at that, fell for the scheme.

The funny part of the whole business is that the roll concern which is backing the new record firm has a reputation for issuing "joke" royalty statements for mechanical recordings—but so far they have corraled three more or less delveling stock subscribers, and hope for more.

REED MILLER

Using Fisher Number

New York, Sept. 24.—One of the features of the concert programs of Reed Miller, the famous tenor, will be Fred Fisher's latest ballad success, "Your Voice at Twilight." This song was written by Anton Lada and McElbert Moore. Mr. Miller is leaving on an extensive concert tour. Fred Fisher will be pleased to send this number to artists requesting it. Address Fred Fisher, Inc., 224½ West 46th street, this city.

RIVIERA MUSIC COMPANY

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Robert Long, of the Riviera Music Company, has returned from his chautauqua dates and will be seen in vaudeville this season. While doing chautauqua work Mr. Long used two Riviera numbers in his repertoire. He will continue to use "Rose of China," when he again enters vaudeville.

The Riviera people have announced that they will shortly begin an advertising campaign in behalf of "Rose of China," with the same aggressiveness that characterized their pushing of "Deserttland."

BLACK AND HICKMAN WITH W. B. & S.

New York, Sept. 23.—Ben Black and Art Hickman have signed a two-year contract to write music exclusively for Watterson, Berlin & Snyder. Ben Black told a Billboard reporter that the contract would not interfere with his work with the Art Hickman Band, but would necessitate him relinquishing the post of professional manager for Sherman, Clay & Co. He said that in doing this he realized that his relations with the firm had always been of the friendliest, and he left it with the keenest regrets.

FORSTER COMPANY

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Forster Music Publisher, Inc., has announced the purchase of a hit from Sonny Cunha, Hawaiian composer and author of "On the Beach of Waikiki." The new song is the "Hula Blues," which is said to have been a sensation in Hawaii and now getting a good start on the Coast. The bands of the Pacific fleet are said to be playing the number.

CENTRAL MUSIC COMPANY

Chicago, Sept. 25.—The Central Music Company announces the addition to its staff of Maurice Ray, who is representing the company in Denver territory. Mr. Ray has reported that "China Man" and "If You Only Knew" are in the hit class thru the Southwest. Bids from the big houses for both numbers have been received, according to Hal Ehrig, of the company.

LAMBERT IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Ernest A. Lambert, who is now assistant professional manager for the music publishing house of B. D. Nice & Co., of New York, is in Chicago for a two weeks' stay, the guest of Harry Carroll, who is using "Romance," a waltz, as the only published number in his act. Mr. Lambert is working the cabarets and theaters in Chicago and vicinity. "Vond'ring" and "Romance," he said, are leading the Nice catalogue.

AGAINST OBSCENE SONGS

Mrs. Marx E. Obendorfer Leads Crusade To Abolish Suggestiveness

Mrs. Marx E. Obendorfer of Chicago, who is national chairman on music of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and is leading a crusade to abolish suggestive dances and songs and advocates legislation by Congress to bar obscene songs from the mails and all interstate commerce, said last week:

"Parents do not realize the words now being sung by young people as they dance. The nation is being demoralized by cheap, vulgar songs. Publishers are trying to make a jazz and ragtime nation out of the United States. Something is wrong when dance tunes must be called by suggestive names in order to sell them."

Mrs. Obendorfer also said that the General Federation of Women's Clubs would gladly cooperate with the Association of Dancing Masters to eliminate suggestive dancing and for better dance music.

KINNEY CORRECTS SANGER

Oklahoma City, Ok., Sept. 26.

To the Editor:

Permit me, thru the columns of your publication, to correct a Mr. Sanger, who signed an article in your current issue, and under the head of The Friesco Shows, saying that his show will play Cushing, Ok., week of September 27, and the Friesco Shows are the only show to secure a permit to exhibit in Cushing this season.

I beg to advise Mr. Sanger that the records at Cushing will show that at least another carnival preceded the Friesco Shows at Cushing, I being there with the S. W. Brundage Shows, week of May 3 this year.

Why is it that so much "bull" is written every week by some advance agents and publicity promoters for certain shows? People in my line, that of handling concessions, are often humped into a long jump and a poor date, due to the unscrupulous methods used by many agents and publicity promoters in making up their news items for The Billboard.

You must pardon me, Mr. Sanger, for publicly calling your attention to this error of yours, but as I am a regular reader of The Billboard I take for granted that I have a right to have my say in this matter, I knowing full well that you are mistaken and that the papers of Cushing, the city officials, also the manager of the Brundage Shows, will back me up in my assertion.

(Signed) BEN (BALDY) KINNEY.

"WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE MUSIC BUSINESS?"

I want to come out flat-footed and say "Nothing is wrong with the music business." The trouble is the "almighty dollar." This last-named article has been quoted as worth anywhere between 30 and 40 cents, and when it comes to publishing music this same dollar that in the past was visioned at one hundred cents is worth about 22 cents.

Engravers, printers and in fact every worker and every commodity used in publishing music are costing 100 per cent more than a year ago. They are worth it, for these men must live, and the "butcher, baker and candlestick maker" have all raised their prices, as everyone is aware, and, of course, to eat, the printer must pay the prices charged.

Personally, the continued rise in the price of the publishing has hit me an awful wallop, yet I grin and bear it, for I believe "the laborer is worthy of his hire" every time, and it does not seem consistent to pay more for everything else and to expect music to sell at the same price as a year ago. Stop and think—aren't the music publishers the last to raise their prices?

Now, as for music on the stands being "rot," I object to that statement very much. The Stork Co. has three ballads which in the next few weeks are going to 30 cents, for it is absolutely impossible to print music at a profit for less, and they certainly are not "rot."

Now if John Doe pays 30 cents for a song that he considers "rot" I don't blame him for feeling sore, but really whose fault is it? It puts me in mind of a cartoon in a New York newspaper, "Why Do They Do It?" There is a wealth of good songs on the counters for 30 cents that are worth it, and there is no excuse for anyone paying that amount for so-called "rot."

Sincerely,
(Signed) T. F. CORNELL,
Stork Music Pub. Co.

SAYS SOUTHWEST IS O. K.

Blackwell, Ok., Sept. 14, 1920.

To The Billboard:

There has been so much talk around the East and Middle West about conditions existing down in the Oklahoma and Texas musical comedy fields. A few dissatisfied performers, who never make good anywhere, and a few people who style themselves producers (and all they produce is bits which every medicine show has presented on the free outdoor platform), have spread the rumor that this country is bad. We have shown of fifteen people playing to as high as forty-five hundred dollars gross in some towns, a tab. getting from a thousand to twelve hundred a week being an ordinary event. Mr. Barbour, of Muskogee, Ok., has a production, "The Midnight Whirl" show, featuring Biz Bill House, carrying 20 people, and a 60-foot baggage car of scenery, not diamond-dye, but parallels, flat and hanging pieces, and is presenting positively Broadway productions (paying royalty). There are at least twenty other such shows down here. "The Band Box Review," "Rockmore's Co., "Honeymoon, Ltd.," Co.; "The Matinee Girls," "The Broadway Follies," Bert Southern & Co., Almond's Show, "The Mysterious Smith" and Company, Alburtus & Co., Selvin & Co., and others too numerous to mention. The entire trouble with some of the tab. owners that have invaded this field is the actor-producer accumulates a few hundred dollars and without the proper amount of capital tries to put out several companies. A tabloid put out in this territory, that is, one that will get the money, costs on an average of from four to five thousand dollars, and the boys that have the shows down here get the big money. That's the secret of Ensley Barbour's success; he has the capital, he owns the better houses personally and books the best in the towns that he does not own. There have been several small concerns which came and tried to take this territory away from Mr. Barbour, but to sum the entire situation up in a nutshell Mr. Barbour is the Martin Beck, E. F. Albee, Alex. Pantages, Marcus Loew, Harry Weber of the Southwestern musical comedy field, and this much is guaranteed, that artists with ability, personality, and even who respect contracts, can work for Mr. Barbour 52 weeks a year, and in the end will have more clear money for their personal use than if playing small big-time vaudeville. I know, I've played it all, big, small and medium. In closing will say that Ensley Barbour is not a slow-string affair, but a million-dollar proposition. He has seventy consecutive weeks of regular houses, lensing about twenty houses himself, covering about twenty of his own productions. His organization consists of a booking department, scenic studio, press department, wardrobe department, employing a designer of scenation; printing department and producing department, with a real production director at the head. And the Eastern artists do not realize the conditions down here. The average number of shows daily are three.

Some of the towns are one show daily, some two and two towns four on Saturday. Trusting that you will let the public and Eastern performers understand the situation down here, and wishing there were more Ensley Barbours in the show game.

(Signed) ONE WHO KNOWS.

AGAIN 'TIS SONG WRITING

New York, Sept. 18, 1920.

Dear Sir—I read with interest the letters of Ralph M. Howell and Paul M. Specht. Both of these gentlemen have sought to emphasize the point which I have sought to bring out in my letter in The Billboard, which you were kind enough to publish. My point is that songs should not be written for money and good songs cannot be produced that way—they never were and they never will be. I have never written a song for money in my life, no matter what I wanted to write, where I wanted to write it,

MINSTRELSY

COMMUNICATIONS TO CINCINNATI OFFICE.

The 1920-'21 season of the Jefferson Theater, Hamilton, O., opened Monday night, September 20, with Neil O'Brien's Minstrels as the opening attraction. The Jefferson, under the able management of Broomhell & Schwaim, is all dressed up this season, many new improvements having been installed, including an entire new stage, opera chairs and complete furnishings thruout. This marks Mr. O'Brien's ninth annual tour and is said to be far superior to anything yet offered. For quite a number of years Mr. O'Brien has given particular attention to the writing and staging of minstrel acts and features, and in this year's production his experience and original ideas have enabled him to produce what is promised as the highest-class minstrel entertainment ever presented. Mr. O'Brien has written three new acts for this year's performance, a dancing novelty called "Playmates," surpassing the syncopated acts made famous by this organization the past three years; a comedy sketch called "Hopping the Atlantic Ocean," in which Jack Amick is said to be at his best, and a one-act finale in three scenes entitled "Americanization," which is said to be Mr. O'Brien's masterpiece.

Lew Wilson, the "Variety Boy," has also been engaged and he offers an entire new routine of songs, jokes and melodies on the different instruments of which he seems to be the master. In addition to Mr. Wilson, the following artists have been engaged: Davis "Sugarfoot" Gaffney, Jack Amick, Danny Roche, J. Lester Haberkorn, Joseph White, Walter Sherwood, Lea Laird, Steve Berrian, Bobby Gossens, Roy Allen, Bobby Davis, Arthur Watts, Chas. Nellis, Henry Maher, Ray Parsons, Dan Marshall, Chas. Wright, Herbert Glun, Jack Edward Mosser, Edward O'House and Major Nowak, J. H. Delvico is Mr. O'Brien's able musical director, having one of the best minstrel bands and orchestras on tour with a traveling organization. Instrumentalists include Billy Rabbe, Joseph Reilly, Walter Serens, S. V. Downs, Joseph Patrick, Ben Kemmer, Wm. Brown, Harry Hildebrandt, Earl Hurst, George W. Engelhart, Lester Rowan, Henry Watts, H. W. Dalton, Frank Meldrum, E. Doherty and A. H. Robbins.

Wright Armstrong is assistant manager, and incidentally is in charge of the Neil O'Brien show at present.

talent kid minstrel production, opened his annual tour at Chaffee, Mo., to a full house, followed by an excellent week at Jackson. "By Gosh" is at present producing another big show for the Elks' Lodge at Dupont, Ill., using a cast of 250 school children. The celebrated clown has twenty weeks of return engagements booked in the South this fall, which proves the old saying, "Nothing succeeds like success."

Among the welcome visitors to the home office of The Billboard last week was H. S. Butler, boss canvasman. Butler just came down from Northern Ohio, en route South to join Harry K. Main's Famous Georgia Minstrels. Assuming that he dreaded the lengthy journey, we presented Butler with the early forms of the September 25th issue to help minimize the long hours en route. "I had just as well cancel my birth reservation now," remarked Butler as he bade us farewell.

An error slipped into last week's issue regarding the opening of Ed. J. Murray's Big Time Minstrels. The show, as previously stated, was to have opened at Pittsburg, Pa., September 20, but according to Mr. Murray the opening date is set for October 9 at McKeesport. Those who have been engaged include Bert Marshall, Tom Ward, Al Tint, Will Conklin and Tommy Alvin, all of whom have great prestige in the minny South. Harry Hall, Eugene Leigh, Henry Long, Harry Goldie and others comprise the singing contingent. Harry Hall will also act in the capacity of interlocutor.

Rehearsals will soon be under way for the 11th annual production of the Charity Minstrels, presented by Lodge No. 1218, B. P. O. Elks of Sterling, Ill., under the direction of Guerdon E. Bishop, Past Exalted Ruler of the Lodge, and at one time owner of the Bert Shipard Minstrels. Since retiring from the professional Mr. Bishop is conducting a successful printing establishment in Sterling. Competent critics who have heard the Sterling Minstrels state their snappy performance is far above the average home talent production, the singing contingent being especially meritorious. Several well-known performers are members of the Sterling Elks, including Fred Holmes, of Holmes & Wells, Charles Warthin and Earl Howard.

Moreland Brown was made a member of the president's cabinet and intrusted with the duty of working out a financial policy that would make the I. L. C. A. a solvent organization. At present the organization is annually running about $2,000 behind. Forty-five per cent of the members come and go each year.

For the past years the annual dues have been $3. The initiation fee has been $5. But the convention raised the dues to $10 and made the initiation $15. There was strong sentiment among the bureau managers to make the dues $25. These men who a few years ago came to town with fringe on their pants now compare their standing in golf clubs and the dues they pay there with the I. L. C. A. and the dues that are so painlessly extracted and then wonder why all the others who are members, most of whom are mere beginners, can't jope right along with the Chautauqua, and, instead of scratching for bread, work to reduce their gouty fat.

The next big thing that was up for consideration was the committee reports. A few of the half-baked and fearful ones who always pick up The Billboard with fear and trembling, lest some committeeman who has hired them and who has done all the work and guaranteed the lineup against loss may be so dishonest or incompetent as to mark said bright and shining light something below the 100 per cent mark when said luminary always strikes twelve and should be rated perfection—universal perfection, or even 100 plus—and then to have it published in The Billboard, zowie.

It was these same tenderfoot gents who were wont to make war on the committee reports. But give a foot enough rope and he will always hang himself. There was rope enough for most of the half-baked ones who love the law of the jungle rather than the scientific way of doing things. There were many hangings at the convention. Some of the stiffs have not been cut down yet—that is all.

The convention was very tolerant, for it gave practically a free rein to all who wished to demonstrate the injunction that it is not wise to remain silent and be suspicioned of being a fool when one can arise and say something and remove all doubt. The truth of this was fully demonstrated at the convention.

The committee report system was then endorsed by a vote of the convention, and a committee of six was appointed to work it out and see what can be done towards perfecting a system whereby the millennium may be brought to us and all who think they deserve 100 and all the attractions on our lineup list may be shown to be perfect and those on the opposing lists be shown at their proper level. If figures can be so arranged to show degrees of rottenness and if human nature can be all set aside and a cash register system be so installed that will be soulless and still workable, then the I. L. C. A. will try to install such a system.

M. Avery is chairman of this committee.

In the meantime The Billboard will go right on trusting the honesty of the men and women who buy the attractions and who do all the work for a free, gratis, for nothing, and pay for the privilege of doing it. We want the committeemen to mark the attractions as they should be marked and report these to The Billboard, and we will gladly publish them. You do your best to find out just how the audience likes and dislikes the attractions that appear on your Chautauqua course this winter, and we will be only too glad to publish these reports in the future, as we have been doing in the past.

We urge you to do more than that. Buy your attractions only after you have studied these committee reports. We will gladly furnish a booklet with nearly 10,000 reports from other committeemen, together with the towns where these attractions appeared, so that you can see how they were received in these towns. You can see how other men and women with the same interests in telling the truth that actuates you have marked these attractions that are now being presented to your people. Study these reports before you advertise even the attractions that you have bought for the present year. Know for yourselves what you are putting the stamp of your approval on.

Right here we wish to renew our fight for the memorial services or for a continuation and a development of the idea that we should annually pause long enough to pay a few words of tribute to those of our number who have passed on or have fallen in the battle. There are those in our midst who are so selfishly busy making money on the services of their fellowmen that they count it a waste of time to even hesitate long enough to bury the dead. On with the show. There are 2,000 lecturers for the work that 200 will now delve—but out another lecturer. No bullfight was ever less heartless than some of these chautauqua managers with the "special system."

Then there are the tenderhearted who are afraid that they may shed a tear. Ye gods, even snakes shed their skin and here we have some who are so unnatural that they object to shedding even a tear! Heartless brutes they are! They live as tho this is the stone age and act as tho they have hearts of stone.

Then there are those believe that there is no such thing as death. They are so heartless and unsympathetic that they live in a world where people dwell, but they measure all things by themselves. I am still here. Therefore there is no death. Can you beat it?

We can philosophize and dramatize all we want to, but that man or woman does not live who can go to the widow and orphan and dry their tears with the mandlin philosophy that there are no dead. The sooner we quit fooling ourselves with the false philosophy that is alms to dream away the reality of death itself and get down to the hed rock of life and face the fact that we are brothers, soldiers, builders, workers, laborers in a common cause the better it will be for this old sin-sick world of ours.

Those who failed to wait for the memorial services of the I. L. C. A. missed one of the most impressive, wholesome, inspiring and humanly worth while meetings that was ever held by the lyceum and chautauqua association.

Roscoe Gilmore Stott gave a masterful address. He combined the dramatic side of our platform life with the severity of the religious nature that is a fundamental part of our entire structure. He was unusually in earnest, poetic in his diction, dramatic in his delivery and with it all so human and manly and full of brotherly love that all who were present were made to realize that life is a serious thing and that to influence the world for higher ideals and better living is a rare privilege indeed. He presented the ideals of chautauqua as it is and made all see that we live in the hearts of the men and women whom we benefit and help.

Harry Yearsley Mercer sang so soulfully O'Hara's "There Is No Death" that one member of our fraternity was so far carried away with the entirety of that wonderful singer and the message of that beautiful song that he broke forth in applause. No more sincere tribute was ever paid to a singer.

C. Wilson Reed presided at the organ and gave new evidences of his musical worth. Reed is a genius in the realm of music. He puts soul into all that he does. He was the right man for the place.

We wish right now to protest against shoving the memorial service off until the very close. It should be the first thing we do. We hope that next year there will be no reason to side-step this duty and that we may face the fact that we owe something to those who have fallen in the battle as well as to those whom they loved and labored for during the greater part of their natural life.

We wish to again pay attention to the program presented at the big Hippodrome. Wednesday was a big day. We have said before that this same Hippodrome is responsible for much of thinking, is the most pleasing singer we have ever listened to. He ranks with us as one of our greatest artists and John McCormack as rated in his ability to please. He has what few artists possess, that is a fine sense of the oratory of song. He is a vocal orator.

We are glad to reproduce the article that appeared in The Waterloo Times Tribune as follows:

The high water mark in musical artistry was reached Wednesday afternoon when Harry Yearsville Mercer and assisting artists gave their concert. Mr. Mercer is one of the few truly great robust tenors of the day. He was in fine voice and left nothing to be desired. He interprets a story-song so vividly that one becomes so interested in listening to the story

CHAUTAUQUA PAID TRIBUTE

By Miss M. V. Joseph, of M. Witmark & Sons

"I always knew that chautauqua people were regular folks, but I did not know how human they were until I saw how quickly they took me in," says Miss Joseph nt I. L. C. A. convention. "I felt like a rank outsider when I walked into the hotel, and five minutes later I thought I of had always known the people, all of whom radiated warmth and enthusiasm that was good to know. With people like this in the field it is no wonder that the chautauqua movement has come to be one of the most worthwhile aspects of American life, one that I have heard more lecturers say impressed them more greatly than any other one feature of our general educational scheme, for certainly the chautauqua is an education to those who in rural communities and even in the smaller cities have no other way of keeping in touch with the march of ideas. It brings to them the truth that they can get equally well, it is true, from the newspapers and magazines, but which they do not get without the added personal touch of the splendid big people that bring those messages from the chautauqua platform. How big and how splendid they are I did not realize before, having had the pleasure of meeting so many of them. Before the week is out I hope there won't be any one that I won't know."

LYCEUM AND CHAUTAUQUA NOTES

Mutual put it over in great shape at Sturgeon Bay, Wis., and signed them up for another year.

The Northwestern Booking Bureau, St. Paul, reports it is very much in existence, in spite of the fact that, due to a regrettable error, it was omitted from our list of bureaus.

Ray Andrews was elected chairman of the publicity men's organization at the I. L. C. A. convention. Ray is a genuine live wire, and some success as a publicity promoter. His Ellison-White new letters are always welcome visitors.

Rupert Hughes now stars out onto the platform with a new lecture, "The Golden Age of Today." His claim is that all the features of previous golden ages are to be found in America today, altho our critics, with eyes turned backward or across the ocean, do not know it.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yearsley of Bloomington, Ill., after a very successful season for The Co-Operative Chautauqua, which they operate at Bloomington, will sail on October 2, on the Winifredian, for England. They will also visit the battlefields of Europe.

An author at Ottawa, writing before the chautauqua began, upbraided the people for lack of support, and seemed doubtful it would be a success. Latest reports, however, indicate that the assembly there was a big success. Before the sessions closed over 600 season tickets for next year were sold.

"Angel" Lockhart, former editor of Chain Lightning Magazine, and who, his friends claim, was "railroaded" to the Federal penitentiary, is now lecturing, his subject being "The Gray Brotherhood." He is touring the country with motion pictures of the Leavenworth Federal Prison, which picture was made while Lockhart was in the prison, and with his aid.

Tha Gwalea Lady Glee Singers have discovered, in a busy season under the management of R. H. Williams, of Chicago, that America is very different from Wales. They have had the usual experiences of those who follow the circuits, but the blowing down of tents and the terrific thunder storms encountered in the Dakotas were revelations to them of things American.

Mary Agnes Doyle, dramatic reader, will open a studio in the Fine Arts Building, in Chicago, October 1, for classes in voice and diction and alleged cancellation brought about by the musicians' union because the actor had played in another local theater at that time involved in the musicians' strike.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

The actor is alleged to have worked a number of performances before the union took action against him and compelled him to be taken off. The actor immediately filed complaint with the V. M. P. A. for his salary, claiming he was able and willing to work.

Pat Casey, altho no complaint had been filed against the actor by the local theater, so the Billboard is informed, is said to have notified the actor that the theater was justified in closing him for the reason that he had worked in another theater in Chicago which is not considered to be an opposition house.

It is further said that the local theater manager and his booking agent were complaint of the fact that the actor had played other Chicago theaters, therefore it is claimed the actor was not working contrary to contract.

The theatrical colony in Chicago is watching the outcome of the case with unusual interest. It is said that should the V. M. P. A. decide against the actor the impression will prevail that the artist is without redress in making complaints to the V. M. P. A. It is further pointed out in this particular case that altho there has been no complaint made against the actor involved yet the V. M. P. A. has taken on itself some excuse to turn down the artist's claim.

NEW CONWAY ACT

New York, Sept. 22.—The new vaudeville sketch, "The Beautiful Lady," written, cast and produced by E. Harold Conway, publicity director for the Orpheum Circuit, will have its premiere this week at the Harlem Opera House. Heading the cast will be Marion Evansen, who for three years played made with Robert Mantell; the second woman will be Jane Loring, motion picture star, and Mildred Lang will be the third member of the cast. The sketch is of a dramatic nature, depicting developments when two of the girls leave their suburban homes and try city life.

MLLE. SOURET COMING HERE

New York, Sept. 22.—Mlle. Souret, who was acclaimed in Paris recently as the most beautiful woman in all France, has been engaged by the Marinelli office to come to this country. She is now playing the Folies Bergere in Paris. Considerable newspaper space was given Mlle. Souret this summer, both in France and the United States, following a verdict of a jury, deeding her to be France's beauty. She will arrive here next month.

SUN BOOKS CIRCUS ACTS

New York, Sept. 22.—Quite a number of circus acts are being booked over the Gus Sun Circuit. Among the latest arrivals from the circuses are the Three Alecks, Orin Davenport, Fischianni Troupe and the Aerial Rooneys. The Casting Campbells, who are working the fairs, will open November 1 in Cleveland for eight weeks on the Sun Time.

NEW COURTHOPE SKETCH

New York, Sept. 22.—A new vaudeville sketch has been completed by Jane Courthope, who will shortly take the turn out over the big time. Besides Miss Courthope the other members of the cast will be Charles Forrester, Rose Forrester, Grace Hewitt. It is a comedy drama, requiring about twenty-five minutes and will be produced in about two weeks.

LYCEUM AND CHAUTAUQUA COMMITTEE REPORTS

Defense of the Committee Reports as Officially Published in the I. L. C. A. Year Book — President Lybarger States Many Reasons Why the Reports System Should Be a Permanent Part of the I. L. C. A. Work

OBJECTIONS DUE TO LACK OF VISION.

"I have heard many objections urged against the idea of making permanent the system I have in mind, that of having committeemen report to their fellow committeemen the extent to which our attractions pleased the people. But none of them seem valid to me. Practically all of these supposed objections describe conditions which already exist, and have existed, and which nothing but the Committee Report System itself can abolish.

The objections to the system say that the publishing of only a few reports on an attraction does not give a correct estimate of its work. Quite true. No one claims that it does. But if the system is maintained long enough each attraction will have scores and hundreds and even thousands of reports made on it—provided it has the merit to survive in the struggle for platform existence.

They say that it is not enough to have a single committeeman report from a town, that we ought to have an average estimate from at least fifteen individuals in each town, to which I answer that a single report from each of fifteen towns would serve the purpose equally well, and vastly better. And it will not be long until audiences themselves will make one their own reports. The enemies of a system which enables the public to actually know the past record of each attraction are trying to destroy the only system that can make such information possible by holding around it such conditions and requirements as to make it practically impossible to operate.

We are told that an occasional injustice is sure to be done here and there by the publishing of these reports. No doubt of it. But my answer is that for each injustice under the committee report system there are ten injustices under the present system, and all due to the lack of these reports. Even our courts do an occasional injustice. But that is no argument for abolishing them, but only for trying to improve them. Injustice exists everywhere. All we can do is to make it less. And that the committee reports will help mightily to achieve.

"These objectors fail to see the splendid service which these reports have rendered even in so short a time, service well unknown, but meritorious talent—men and women. It makes their merits known to the world. It gives them fitness and adaptability to publish their record in the hands of the men and women who are the buyers of talent—namely, the committeemen themselves.

(To be continued next week)

Large audiences in and out-of-doors and in widely distributed parts of the city continue to hear the messages of United Americans, as delivered by able speakers. Last week the total attendance was 78,675. People in every walk of life are eager to hear the simple, fundamental truths of Americanism and be told of the rights, privileges and duties of citizens. In industrial plants, in clubs, churches and on street corners, these addresses are made, centering upon the sentiment expressed in the slogan of the organization: "We Believe in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule, and the Constitution of the United States."

Vol. XXXII. OCT. 2. No. 40

Editorial Comment

LAST week our Mr. Fred High, in a burst of impetuous zeal, committed The Billboard to the task of organizing the chautauqua talent.

Mr. High thought he was sure of the support of the majority of the editors of The Billboard, but a poll reveals that he reckoned wrongly.

The editors have decided that The Billboard will not attempt to organize the artists and talent in the chautauqua field or any other.

Mr. High is a free agent. If he wants to devote any portion of his leisure, superabundant energy and tremendous capacity for work to the cause that is his affair.

For our part, tho, we believe fully and wish to state in the most positive and open manner that the artists and lecturers of the lyceum world are suffering from conditions, handicaps and evil practices that can be remedied only by unionism. We believe that the proper men to be entrusted with the work are the trained and experienced organizers of a union, chartered by the A. F. of L., and by it specifically clothed with authority to operate in that particular field—The American Artists' Federation, James William FitzPatrick, president, and Harry Mountford, secretary.

Because we believe the work needs doing very much we will support wherever undertaken it, and not because of the hostility or indifference of the bureaus. Our motives will be absolutely untinctured by any desire for surprisals or wish to coerce or compel advertising, recognition or support.

Nothing in this statement is to be construed as discrediting Mr. High. He is nothing if not eager and impatient. He took it for granted that he had the sanction of the majority of the editorial board (and only miscounted by one vote at that), and strenuously and wisely decided to crack away first.

We can vouch for his honesty, sincerity and disinterestedness, and commend his courage and high purpose.

TRIFLERS AND PLAYWRIGHTS

It is commonly supposed that the French theatrical hack surpasses his American colleague in technical dexterity and in the specific sense of the theater. There was a time, undoubtedly, when the comparison was upheld by the facts. Today we have a dozen writers for the stage as coldly and knowingly efficient as Kistemaeckers and Bernstein themselves. Materialists and not the methods of playmaking. The Frenchman may distort the passions, the American avoids them. The former approaches a single situation from an unusual angle, the latter flees from it by as many. The one is apt to be monotonous and violent, the other empty and trivial. A natural consequence of this contrast is that when a single French play comes to us in the mind of a throng of native products it seems far less ignoble and far closer to the central preoccupations of life than it really is.

The immediate situation on our stage illustrates that contrast with a bard and brilliant light. Five new American plays surround a single French one. They are all well enough built; each selects and contains its note with sufficient skill; all are false and vacuous to a degree that lifts the isolated French play into an unmerited luster and turns Mr. Porter Emerson Browne's "The Bad Man" (Comedy Theater) does, indeed, contain the human triangle of the French tradition, but the American broom is apparent in making the husband an unspeakable villain and having acted with both massiveness and grace by Holbrook Blinn, was conceived in an ironic mood. On Charles Frohman's stage a melodrama was attempted. But Mr. Browne took fright and let the action roar to an accustomed end. Mr. Belasco gives a velvety production of "Call the Doctor" (Empire Theater) by Miss Jean Archibald, who has a neat little gift for epigram. Her human situation, unhappily, omits the fundamental element that must have created it and holds the soothing assurance that disillusioned husbands can be turned into arbiters! Same can be said of Miss Rita Johnson Young's "Little Old New York" (Plymouth Theater) sketches the city of 1510 with the depth and imaginative grasp of a newspaper headline and tells the story of a romantic inheritance and an Irish lass masquerading as a boy. The audience dutifully laughs at the distress with which Cornelius Vanderbilt regards John Jacob Astor's speculations in the marsh lands around Gramercy Pond, and is quite properly pleased by the pale, quaint sweetness of Miss Genevieve Tobin in trousers and an Eton jacket. A final depth is reached by Mr. Booth Tarkington in "Poldekin" (Park Theater). This play, calculated to save America from the fury of the Reds, neatly combines—granting its own initial attitude and purpose—economics and the patriotism of a Polyanna. Any respectable mass of Polyanna-ism would permit himself to sink to a comparable depth of fatuity. He might be specious; he would not be "tired." Its mildest display this season of a man, not the feeble specimen of an ill-bred child. It is characteristic of our theater that so able an actor as George Arliss consents to take the title role in this play and in the midst of its dreary imbecilities gives a performance of delicately spiritual iridescence and admirably subtle strength and glow.

From these productions you go to see "The Woman of Bronze" (Frazee Theater), by Henri Kistemaeckers, and you cannot avoid the impression that you have passed from "women made to love" to women filled with people, from the glitter of gaslights into the sunlight and the dusk of earth, from the chatter of cheap pretenses to the vicissitudes that stir one hearts. Not that Kistemaeckers is a good dramatist or his play a good play. It is hectic, strained, theatrical. But these characteristics, perhaps, have not, alas, reached the level on which he is an inferior artist.—LUDWIG LEWISOHN, in "The Nation."

"SO long as there is music there always will be dancing and singing. These three form the holy trinity of happiness. The heart speaks thru them. We should encourage them and their dissemination. Dancing contributes to health, happiness and artistic grace."

The above is in part the plea voiced by Francis Wilson, President Emeritus of the Actors' Equity Association, in response to the opposition of various religious organizations to dancing in any form.

That Mr. Wilson is right in every word he says there is not the least doubt.

Commenting on this question editorially, The Cincinnati Enquirer said:

"Yea, why give the devil all the best of it? Since the birth of music, heavenly maid,' youth has danced, even as the sunbeams and the ripples on the rivers dance. Miriam danced by the shores of the fatal sea which swallowed up the Pharaoh and his hosts. Childhood dances spontaneously, with happy laughter and twinkling feet. We do not think less of Washington and Hamilton and all the grave gentlemen and graceful, conventional dance, under proper conditions, we believe it to be an innocent and helpful diversion."

IF you are a showman and have not sent your contribution to Will J. Farley, secretary of COMA, 620 Chestnut street, St. Louis, Mo., do it today.

The unions are lining up behind you.

Farley, the A. A. of F., I. A. T. S. E. and F. A. M. are preparing to lend their legal departments and every last ounce of their moral support.

COMA will spend its last dollar. But that will not be enough.

The organization needs more money—considerably more money.

Do your part and do it manfully.

"N. E. M.'"—The name Nazimova is correctly pronounced na-zi-mo-va; as in artistic, i as in police, o as in obey.

M. L. H.—We're sorry, M. L. H., to have delayed answering your query. Communicate with the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C.

C. G. S.—London. In America there is no question but that the preferred pronunciation of Celtic is "sel-tik." All lexicographers also give "keltic," but invariably place it second.

G. T.—The word "Shimmy" is derived from the French word, "Chemise," and was originated by the Southern darky, who was unable to master the correct pronunciation. A more detailed definition of the word is being conveyed to you by mail.

Reader—We have no address of either the Music Exposition Shows (formerly Mohr & Reynolds World Expo. Shows) or P. Dittie, whom you claim is connected with the attraction. We suggest that you address a letter in our care and we will advertise same for you.

Van B. K.—(1) "Paddy the Next Best Thing" is an adaptation. It was taken from a novel by Gertrude Page popular in Great Britain, by two English playwrights, viz.: Gayer Mackay and Robert Ord. (2) It has a long and prosperous run in London. (3) It has not found favor in New York. (4) Those who have seen both productions attribute this fact to the personality of Eileen Huban and her conception of the principal role.

T. F. D.—There are two ways of selling a composition, either outright or on a royalty basis. Before submitting your manuscript to a publishing house see that it is in legitimate form. In a great many cases the publisher feels justified in rejecting a composition received otherwise. Yes. The merits of the composition and the probability of its being a salable number rests entirely with the publisher. Further data on this matter can be obtained by communicating with any music publishing concern.

Marriages

ELDER-BURRESS—Carl Elder, known professionally as Carl Erwin, actor-singer-charmer, and Miss Ruth Burress, were married in the parlors of the Catholic Church at Paducah, Ky., August 9.

GARRISON-TERRY—"Sapper" Garrison, for 32 years a bandsman in the U. S. Navy and for 12 years a member of the Denver Post, and Nellie Terry, formerly of the vaude. team of Terry and Terry, were married June 2, it has just been revealed. The couple is living at the Brownleigh Arms Hotel, Denver, which Mrs. Garrison recently purchased.

McCLINTOCK-EVANS—Harry McClintock, a newspaper man, and Mildred Evans, understudy to Margaret Lawrence, of "The Wedding Bells" Company, were married September 22 in St. Paul's Universalist Church, Chicago.

MILLIO-FINELL—Tony Millio, wealthy shoe manufacturer of Baltimore, Md., and Carrie Finnell, soubret of the Gayety Theater (stock burlesque), Philadelphia, Pa., were married in Philadelphia week before last. They will make their home in New York.

NIEBUHR-JOHNSTONE — Walter Niebuhr, head of a motion picture producing company, and Bennett Johnstone, actress, were married at the home of Lucius Henderson, New York City, by Ian Rae. H. C. Niebuhr, a brother of the bridegroom, September 16. Mrs. Niebuhr was formerly Otis Skinner's leading woman in "Kismet," and for the last year and a half has been featured on the Keith Circuit in a sketch called "On the High Seas."

RAMISH-SMITH—Harry Ramish, manager of the J. F. Murphy Shows, and Elizabeth Smith, motion picture artist, were married at Florence, Ala., September 23.

BERLAW-MIDDLETON—Jack Berlaw, principal comedian with "The Bride Shop," and Maud Margaret Middleton, prima donna with the same company, were married on the stage of Havre de Grace Opera House, Havre de Grace, Md., by Rev. H. B. Stewart, September 17. In addition to the company an audience of 600 witnessed the ceremony.

WHITE-TITINE—Jack "Slim" White, vaude. and motion picture artist, and "Frenchy" Titine, a dancer, were married in the East recently. Mr. White is known in private life as Elliott J. Gauffreau.

YOUNG-SWEIGART—H. E. Young secretary of the Dufour & Tilford Shows, and Anna Sweigart, of Harrisburg, Pa., were married at Harrisburg Sunday, September 12. Mrs. Young will join her husband on the show later in the season.

MAGIC AND MAGICIANS

Who is Kermiss? Ask Louis Bing. He knows.

Magical Orotto is playing the Western Vaudeville.

Justin Fox is doing a comedy act over the Fox Time.

Zelo is now busy playing clubs around New York City.

Servais LeRoy is again in New York, comeing from South Africa.

Bill Weinberg is still with Rosini, the Napoleon of Mystery.

What has become of The Great Leon? We have not heard of him lately.

Thurston's show opened September 27. Joe White is back with the show.

Waters is back in New York City after his tour extending over three months.

Joe Dunsinger is so busy filling dates he scarcely has time to collect his salary.

Julius Dresebach opens shortly with his single, billed as "Ten Minutes With Ten Fingers."

LeRoy Talmo and Bosco are back from South America and are arranging a route for the coming season.

Clision Bargess, Julius Dresebach and Jack Donnelly are the three American aces when it comes to handling the cards.

Magicians seen on Broadway last week—Roland Travers, Goldin, Richards, Thurston, Kreiger, Donnelly and others.

Horace Goldin and Carl Rosini are standard acts on the big time circuits and are doing well with their respective turns.

Great Raymond has resumed his English bookings after a holiday in America, and is playing to capacity everywhere.

De Mont is playing and demonstrating tricks at Martiska's American Music Hall, New York, the place that stood the test for over fifty years.

Harry Kellar has completely recovered from his recent illness. He has been spending his time recently tackling the sword fish off Catalina Island.

Carter continues merrily and successfully on his tour of the world, the last place he appeared to our knowledge being Melbourne, Australia.

The editor is in receipt of a French magic publication known as Le Prestidigitateur, which contains some interesting and instructive articles on the art of magic.

Zieka says: "My vanishing automobile is a success over the Western Vaudeville and all my credit goes to Donnelly, who holds all the rights to this effect."

George L. Hall, featuring "Mattao," master mentalist, will reopen in Michigan October 4. He has a new magic and illusion act which promises to be a winner.

With the Rickards at the Fifth Avenue, Donnelly at Proctor's 23rd Street, and Lavoll at the Harlem Opera House magic seems to hold its own in the big city.

The Chicago Conjurers' Club is getting there in great shape now. It has a permanent club room where all visiting magicians can generally find someone to visit and talk with.

Kermiss, the Persian magician, is coming our way soon. He has just arrived with a large company and over a ton of baggage. Special scenery and effects make the act gorgeous.

Who is the magician that played the Halsey Theater, Brooklyn, last week? The act should be billed "The End of a Cycle," as it was so fast it dazed the audience and went over big.

There's a rumor around New York that a certain magician lost $16,000 in Wall street stocks. Sometimes a good magician makes a bad investment, but with his mystic fingers he should try to get it back.

Released last week—a chalk talk book that is a real one. Written by Dr. Harlan Tarbell and published by H. S. Paine. The contents—well, it's just chock full of pictures and, to those interested along the chalk line, you will get your money's worth.

Harry Houdini and Adolph Seeman met in The Billboard office on Mr. Seeman's last visit to New York. They shook hands and immediately declared a magical affinity. What these two did not recall of "days before" in magic is telling stories out of school.

Rufus Steele, who makes Chicago his headquarters, is on a two months' trip to the Pacific Coast, working various Rotary clubs en route. Pretty soft pickings: A free pass, no for baggage, no agents' commissions and no rehearsals.

Magical Irving, the eccentric magician, who is now with the Col. Francis Ferari Shows, is receiving quite a lot of notice in the newspapers. He closes the season October 16 and will then enter vaudeville with his act, "An Honest Living by Fooling the People."

Henri D'Rubio of San Francisco has arranged to republish a new edition of T. Nelson Downs' well-known book, "The Art of Magic." It will be a de luxe edition and should have a big sale, as Downs' is the acknowledged master of coin and other magic.

Louis King retired from the stage last July after being in the magical offering of Ziska and King for twenty-three years. He has nothing but praise for Ziska and some of the qualifications in "veritable artist." Mr. King is now producing magical and illusion spectacles for the Keith Booking Exchange. The first one was "Hippoludson" and is now working. As fast as he can get talent he will launch these acts, says Mr. King. He claims there is no better builder than Jack Donnelley, who is now with him.

The Great Travelutte show was the opening attraction at the Orpheum Theater, Lawton, Ok., and played to big business for eight nights. Dr. Travelutte, known as the Mental Miracle, has a unique entertainment, carries a spectacular production and gives an amazing exhibition of magic and hypnotism.

The Great Petroff, the mystery master, will close his summer season October 1 at Starlight Park, New York City. The season has been a great success. Petroff is now arranging his road show of wonders. The company will play the larger cities of the South and a carload of illusions and magic will be carried.

The Wizard George, well-known magician, was a caller at the home office of The Billboard last week. He is resting at present, due to the illness of two members of his company, but expects to open again shortly. He is at work on a new and clever levitation act that he hopes to perfect for the coming season.

Magic seems to be much more in demand this season than ever before by the public as well as the managers. Vaudeville has taken some, productions a few, lyceum, chautauqua and fraternal fraternities count many more and yet several of them are coining money and fame at the head of their own shows.

Mysterious Reed in "Mysteries of the Mystic World," is having a successful season with the Columbia Floating Theater. Prof. Reed is introducing for the first time on the river the Hindoo fakir rope trick encore act. He has just been awarded contracts over a Southern vaudeville circuit for the coming winter.

George Bradford, agent for P. Kara, "The Man With 1,000 Eyes," was a Chicago visitor last week. He has been in Michigan all summer and will add some new properties to the show. The show is booked solid for the fall and winter season, playing its last year's tent you almost forget the wonderful vocal organ that is giving it to you. Mr. Mercer has a big reputation among those who know in the musical world, and he demonstrated yesterday afternoon that he deserves said reputation. His rendition of O'Hara's "There is No Death" was artistry plus. In fact, you could fairly feel the intenseness thruout the audience and hear their sigh of breathlessness when he closed with a prolonged note at the finale that makes this great song great. He also sang a group of three of Clay Smith's songs that are worth special mention. These songs easily placed this gentleman among the foremost American composers. This group was Mercerized faultlessly, and immediately afterwards some one in the audience started calling for the composer, which was kept up until Mr. Smith stood and bowed in acknowledgment. It is indeed pleasing to find this man at last coming into his own.

MORE I. L. C. A. CONVENTION

C. Wilson Read presided at the piano and displayed rare musicianship. As an accompanist Mr. Read has few superiors. His technique is clean cut and he plays with such commensurate skill and sympathetic precision he must be a great pleasure to the soloist. Good accompanists are almost as rare as the proverbial dodo bird. There are pianists aplenty but few there are who can accompany artistically.

Father R. J. Watt, of England, talked on the theme of "Winning the Peace." He has a fairly good delivery, a forceful way of putting his message over. He has good showmanship.

His message to America is of very doubtful value, for he dilutes the gospel of love with such insidious invitations to bootleggers and home brewers that he sinks into the class of vaudeville and cabaret punsters who appeal to anarchy, disloyalty and the lowest form of conviviality for a little disgustingly cheap applause. His cork screw gag is worn out in the six-a-day houses and has no place on the platform.

Prohibition is a part of our fundamental law in the United States, and such appeals as the reverend makes are neither good morals or good Americanism, and, as we have repeatedly rapped the vaudeville acts for stooping to this low back-alley slush, we feel that to be consistent we should hand out the same criticism even to the anointed.

His message of love should be too high and holy to mix it with humor of such questionable type. He should use clean humor, wholesome fun and uplifting sentiment. We are certain that our English brother could learn a lot in good taste, good Americanism and even better showmanship if he were to study Ada Ward's manner and message and read Ralph Bingham's paper on the province of humor.

If our British brother wants to make war on prohibition he should do so in a legitimate way. There is a place for this. He should fight as Clarence Darrow does—out in the open. When you go to hear Darrow you know you will hear a sincere discussion of a great problem.

Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador to the United States, has just said: "Prohibition has attracted the attention of the governments of the world. This problem is too serious to be treated as a relic of the barroom days when men discussed even salvation in proportion to the booze they guzzled."

In America people are waking up to the fact that breaking of the law at one point is like the leak in the dike, which, if not stopped, quickly sweeps away the whole structure, and all people are engulfed in lawlessness. The issue at stake in sustaining the eighteenth amendment is more vital than the wet and dry issue. It is a question of maintaining the foundations of government. Those who encourage violation of law, whether they be public officials, private citizens, priests or atheists, have no right to complain when the anarchist throws his bomb or the so-called Bolshevist hurls a brick thru the window.

The talk given by Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, who was sent there to represent the National Democratic Committee, was a model of clean cut, clear thinking. He was unanswerable in his arguments. He placed his cause on a high plane and never once stooped down in his work. He reached up at all points and certainly made the League of Nations issue so fundamentally right that to those who heard him it would take more than right thinking to turn one aside—prejudice alone could undo what he bid.

The Republican National Committee fell flatter than a proverbial pancake in its efforts to supply a speaker for Republican day. Ex-Congressman Humphreys was supposed to be headed for the convention, but whether he got cold feet or was too wise to try his powers in that arena is hard to say. Anyway he sent or someone sent the usual political message that it would be impossible for him to appear. Surely be was advertised and the audience was all there.

Dr. L. G. Herbert was rushed into the breach and made a wonderful impression with his lecture, "The Crisis and the Call." His earnest and sincere message won all hearts, and it was the unanimous verdict that all were glad that the political dopester failed to arrive.

We will present some other facts about talent and measures in our next issue.

dramatic art. She will make a specialty of coaching readers, singers and companies in preparation for lyceum and chautauqua. Enid Markley, film star, recently seen in Chicago in "Up in Mabel's Room," is a former pupil of Miss Doyle.

The music publishers in attendance at the I. L. C. A. convention worked so harmoniously together that they decided to make their work a permanent feature of the lyceum and chautauqua movement. C. Wilson Reed, of Jerome H. Remick & Co., was elected president of the music publishers, with Miss M. V. Joseph, of M. Witmark & Sons, as secretary. Harry M. Holbrook, of the Leo Feist Music Co., was made generalissimo, with the duty of furthering plans to better serve the musicians of the lyceum and chautauqua profession.

MARGARET ANGLIN

"THE WOMAN OF BRONZE"

By Paul Kester. (From the French of Kistemaeckers.)

Art is a terrible thing!

The art of getting a rise out of people is a more terrible thing!

But the art which moves people to hysterics is—well, what are you going to do about it?

Here is the exact case.

Margaret Anglin is playing "The Woman of Bronze" at the Frazee Theater. Miss Anglin is an emotional actress. Her emotion is so emotional that it is almost impossible to suppress it. If Miss Anglin says "It is a fine day!" she feels that she must say it so emotionally that if you had the heart of a landlord your spectacles would immediately get misty. There is no reason for tears, but no one can resist. When Miss Anglin turns her back to the audience center stage, emotionally, of course, and lays her lady-like nose, the dainty one she has on longer be checked. Tears pour down your checks. But wait! Miss Anglin, as a good, true and noble wife, is going to lose her husband with a million dollar prize in his sculptor's reach, because he is running after a girl who plays the violin and has a drunken father, you are literally inundated by the roaring surge of tearful sobs which billow all around you.

And if you are a married woman it is plain hell. That's what it is, plain hell! I know, I am shooting!!

Next to me sat a young woman. Around her neck she had a long string of pearlines. She had a lace handkerchief loaded with Coty's "Oreah" and a tender soul. She set herself for a good evening's cry. The minute she sat down she fondled her pearlines with one hand and her handkerchief with the other. The play began. The first act she sniffed and stuffed her handkerchief in her mouth. The second act she sobbed openly and chewed her pearline necklace like a child's strings of Job's tears. In the third act, the last act, her husband left her and she went out into the night with the fiddling hussy, she let a war whoop out of her that put Sitting Bull's to shame. My immediate vicinity! She chewed a gob out of the handkerchief! She bit the necklace apart so that the poor pearlines went bounding, one by one, down the aisle. Being a gentleman I had to help her pick them up. Everyone thought she was with me, which made me sore. Then a great light dawned on me. SHE WORE A WEDDING RING!

What could the poor girl do?

That's the reason "The Woman of Bronze" is hell for a married woman—and the poor fish who sits next to her.

When the show was over and the audience waded thru tears to the street and an ambulance clanged madly down Forty-second street, going towards the Frazee Theater.

Ever since the thought haunts me that perhaps I didn't pick up all the pearlines! Perhaps the poor girl swallowed half the string! Perhaps the doctor so hastily rushing is a medical kit bag on the back of the ambulance as he passed me was searching for a stomach pump!

"A Woman in Bronze" is plain hell for a married woman unless she leaves her pearlines or her teeth safe at home in the top drawer of the bureau before she goes to the Frazee Theater to see Miss Margaret Anglin emoah.—PATTERSON JAMES.

About This Season's New York Productions

THOMAS DIXON Presents

His Drama of the Supreme Crisis in the Life of Abraham Lincoln

"A MAN OF THE PEOPLE"

Staged by Augustin Duncan

If Thomas Dixon's drama was the best play on the subject that could possibly be written it could not succeed in New York, where John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" has been playing for almost a year. Prefer Drinkwater's play to the ranch. That is all there is to it. "A Man of the People" has left New York for the great unknown of the road, but that does not matter. Drinkwater's play will stand up under the opposition of an established success dealing with the same central figure, tho it is totally different in every particular. No play could.

Takes as a play Mr. Dixon's is by long odds the better. It blows not the poetic diction nor idealization of Drinkwater's "Lincoln," but it is more life like. The Drinkwater characterization is a book Lincoln. Dixon's is a something approaching the real thing. The Drinkwater Lincoln is a somber individual with the premonition of his end over him. He has none of the early quality of the Illinois rail splitter, which comes out in the Dixon drama, and which is the most attractive trait. It displays no trace of the ambition which he unquestionably had. Drinkwater's Great Emancipator is a man of gloom overborne by the weight of his job, a figure of somberness and tragedy. Dixon's is a man who is human.

In "A Man of the People" all these points are touched upon sincerely and honestly. It is no great secret that Lincoln wanted to be president the first time that he sought the office, and that he was disappointed when he was defeated by Douglas and he felt that he had to be finished in his way. It is equally well known that pressed by an honest desire to do the job, he accepted the nomination when he was fighting him. The scene between Lincoln and the Republican National Committeemen, with Thaddeus Stevens, as the bitter radical, carrying the fight to the president and being defeated by a method of ridicule, is a masterpiece of dramatic effectiveness. The scene of the play dealing with Lincoln's immortal gentleness toward the afflicted and distressed are particularly good, especially the interview with the mother who has lost two sons. The epilog, with Lincoln standing between the pillars of the Capitol reading his second inaugural address, is so effective a bit of stage craft that it received curtain call after curtain call.

Comparisons between the characterizations of Frank McGlynn and Howard Hall, who in the Lincoln of the Dixon play, are unnecessary. Mr. McGlynn plays the role as it is written and directed by Mr. Drinkwater and does a fine job. Mr. Hall, whose face does not lend itself so easily to the image of the president, is obliged to resort to the artifice of the makeup box to be done as equally excellent job. John C. Hickey, as Thaddens C. Stevens, is uncommonly good. Would there were more women on our stage with voices like Angela McCahill. It is incomparably lovely and has an exquisite artistry behind it. There is a fine assemblage of all sorts of people by the National Committeemen, and a gentleman made up as the editor of The New York Times exemplifies perfectly what people who do not like The Times think the editor of that newspaper must look like.

"A Man of the People" should have a prosperous season on the road. It deserves it.—PATTERSON JAMES.

Edgar J. MacGregor and William Moore Patch Present

"THE SWEETHEART SHOP"

Book and Lyrics by Anne Caldwell. Music by Hugo Felix. Entire Production Under the Stage Direction of Mr. MacGregor. Musical Numbers Staged by Julian Alfred. Scenery by Robert Law Studios.

"The Sweetheart Shop" was a great success in Chicago. Whether they are easy to please out there or we are too effete here to enjoy sweetly-sweet things is a question. However "The Sweetheart Shop" was a popular success in Chicago. While there is nothing new either in the story or its treatment the music is tuneful and there is in the cast a comedy lady named Esther Howard who is effective despite the handicap of a most fearsome futurist wig and none too funny situations. Miss Howard is not pretty and loses no time worrying over that fact. But she has a vigorous sense of comedy, she doesn't scream her points and she dances and disports herself entertainingly. With better material she has the makings of a valuable asset to the musical comedy stage, where funny women are painfully rare. She knows what she is about, she does not pose and she does not laugh at herself. A girl who knows the first rule of comedy playing, which is never to permit an audience to know you know you are funny, deserves success.

Daniel Healy dances gracefully and agreeably, and Una Fleming, as the maid, Peggy, is a genuine joy. She is pretty and unaffected, she can sing tolerably, she dances very well and she has winsomeness. All of which are worth more than being squandered on a hit part. The opening number of the third act, "The Dresden China Belle," which she does with the chorus (which is not at all hard to look at any time during the evening), is the best of the show.

Harry Morton, like all the Mortons, is an indefatigable worker. He is a good dancer and he has no fear of an audience, a heritage of his training in burlesque. It is unfortunate that he conveys the impression of such perfect satisfaction with himself and will laugh at his own actions. In a world where self-approbation is not unusual Mr. Morton's contentment with himself is appalling. Burlesque stars do just about as they please on the stage. There is no restraint on a player's initiative in the burlesque theaters. It is responsible for that institution turning out so many truly excellent performers. But it also has its drawbacks, because the absence of proper stage direction fails to check unpleasant tendencies on the part of featured comedians. Musical comedy needs young men who have the unquestioned talents of Mr. Morton, but high-class audiences prefer that approval should come from them to an artiste and not from an artiste to himself. If Mr. Morton will forget himself completely he will go on steadily, but at present his mannerisms, real or assumed, are a serious drawback to his advancement.—PATTERSON JAMES.

About This Season's New York Productions

SAM H. HARRIS PRESENTS

"WELCOME STRANGER"

By Aaron Hoffman. Staged by Sam Forrest.

There is a story going the rounds of Broadway that instead of "Welcome Stranger" being the handicraft of any one man it is really the composite product of several gentlemen who know all the gags in the world, all the effective stage hits, and all the sure-fire situations ever invented. Whether there is anything in the rumor or not, time will tell, but one thing is certain—all the abovementioned things are in the piece. And the public, or a section of it at least which contributes largely to the support of the theater, eats it up and yowls for more.

There is no disguising the fact that "Welcome Stranger" is a bit of propaganda intended to counteract anti-Semitic feeling. If it is as effective as it is amusing in many places there will not be a Jew-baiter left. The scenes are all laid in a New England town, where there are no Jews and where they do not want any.

A Yiddish drummer has been practically ejected from the sole hotel in the place to the great satisfaction of all the leading citizens, including the Mayor. Enters a stranger, Isidore Solomon, who is going to try to open a dry goods store. Nice chance he has! How he succors a runaway girl, how he takes the village electrical genius who is also the village laugh and gives him the assistance and help his Christian neighbors refuse him, how he exposes the Mayor, who is a crook and a Jew masquerading under the name of a "goy," and how he makes the town over into a live community is set forth with all the speed of a twenty-minute vaudeville act and just about as much plausibility.

George Sidney, who is to be starred in the play, makes it. He plays quietly and effectively, and as he is an actor of long schooling in almost every phase of the show business he knows the value of every "if," "and" and "but." He is never stagey or netory. For this all thanks! The rest of the cast is excellent. Edmund Breese as the stony-hearted Mayor, Ichabod Whitoson, formerly Isaac Woulfson, does a journeyman's job, and David Higgins, as the village inventor, is pleasantly natural.

Of course the story is impossible. It never could happen in New Hampshire or Vermont. Two Jews once tried to make their living by trading with the Yankees across these two States. They died of starvation before they posted Rutland.—PATTERSON JAMES.

About this Season's New York Productions

DAVID BELASCO Presents FRANCES STARR —IN— "ONE"

To a certain class of showgoers the Belasco Theater occupies the same affectionate place in the amusement world that heid a generation ago the Temple of Mirth. Mr. Belasco is to them the producing Homer who never nods. These people enter the showhouse on Forty-fourth street as reverently as Brahmins a holy shrine. Whatever they see inside is both inspired and artistic. The bitterness of the High Priest, which for this cause happens to be the stage entertainment offered by Mr. Belasco, are ineffable. Your cannot have him and serve the theatrical. The hocus-pocus that surrounds "idol worship is present when the goog boons to want the worshipers that the representations are to begin. The lights are lowered slowly to get the desired receptive mood and then the services begin. It is all quite like the bunk gone thru by the clairvoyants whom the police chased off the East Side some years past.

The dreary pastime of sitting thru Edward Knoblock's "One," which for the time belog is occupying the stage of the Belasco, helpless from the beginning to the end, leaves the impression. Certainly no blindfolded, fat trance medium ever let loose such a mess of prepossessing nonsense as that which is seriously offered in "One." The story in a mustard seed is that of twin sisters who have only one soul between them, a kind of psychic "art-and-arf. Neither Pearl nor Ruby, for as are the twins named, is anything but a demilesse spiritual medium. In order to become prosperity and happily they must get into communication with each other, when separated, by gazing into the heart of a red, red rose and calling to the front window: "Are you theyb?" If there is no red rose a red flannel petticoat might do, but to do so one could dream of a rose bush and a flannel petticoat in a Belasco production. Both sisters are in love with the same man. They have been engaged to him for years but they can have a full position. So Poil decides to deed over her half of the soul estate to Ruby, or Ruby does to Poil, it doesn't make any difference about the names, by dying. It would never do to commit suicide, because the twins are "twinsies" and "twinsies" would be unhappy ever after. So Ruby goes on the Belasco stage to speak or act like a real human being. Under the comsel of a satanic old jewelry man, one sees decides she will expose herself to pocamonta sed die and all will be well. Mr. Knoblock overlooked a grand idea when he didn't make the lady go on a McSwiney hunger strike. That would have been intelligent in these protecting days.

There is not a line of sane sound thinking, a bit of real drama, or a vestige of reality in the play. For expressing sentiments not half so loony as those in the piece a man has been recently been extradited from Canada sed put in a mod house. To make time considering seriously such a hopelessly undergraduate attempt at psychological speculation would be even more exhausting than watching the play. The program describes "One" as "A play of immaterial thoughts and a thousand years thru the medium of the theater." If you stop after the fourth word and accent that one you have the real description of the whole affair. Thoughts from Leonardo da Vinci, Bulwer-Lytoo, Sir William Crookes, Camille Flammarion and W. K. Clifford. The only other great philosopher omitted is the well known sod Jostly Jostly Jostlewitz. Mr. Knoblock overlooked a grand idea when he didn't make the lady go on a McSwiney hunger strike. That would have been intelligent in these protecting days.

Frances Starr, as the Pearl, Ruby and Poil, gives a very creditable performance of a very difficult role. Her acting is the only thing in the piece that is worth while. Her voice is one inside is both inspired and artistic. The bitterness of the High Priest, which for this cause happens to be the stage entertainment offered by Mr. Belasco, are ineffable. MAGIC AND MAGICIANS ritory. Mr. Kara has added a chorus of six girls and a big temple scene is featured with Oriental background.

Stilwell, the magician and illusionist, writes that he has just closed a season of ten weeks over the New England Time, playing in connection with pictures, and that he has the time all booked for next season. Stilwell travels by auto. Next season he will carry two acts and will make two-night stands.

T. C. Bonney of Aberdeen, well known as a magician and dentist, is going to contribute heavily to the amateur department in The Sphinx under the guidance of Arthur Spratt of Kansas City. This is an innovation that should be very popular, as it is the amateur that keeps the progress of magic up to expectations.

Walter Baker has finished up all details for this season's act. Walter is one boy that makes magic pay. Every summer you will find him at his summer resort outside of Muskegon, Mich.; takes things easy—regular summer camp, and with the help of the Missus overhauls property, etc., in readiness for the Call of the Road in the fall.

Paul, American magician, and his business manager, J. W. Berry, state it was almost impossible to answer every one of the many replies received from their last ad in The Billboard. A contract has been closed with Jimmie Ring to look after the publicity end of Paul's show. Watch Paul when he opens his big road show.

METROPOLITAN MAGIC

By Clinton Burgess

At the last meeting of the N. C. A. Bro Frank Ducrot, the clever Brooklyn Headquarters' Magician and manager of the Hornmann Magic Company, of this city, demonstrated two unique pieces of apparatus recently imported, one being an all-celluloid clock dial and pointer, beautifully made and weighing but a few ounces, all parts being unbreakable, and a most wonderful piece of workmanship. The other novelty was a pencil case and a red, a white and a blue pencil, all of which bear minute inspection, yet upon any colored pencil being wrapped in paper and securely enclosed in the case the performer can instantly divine the colors of the pencils retained by the volunteer assistant. The N. C. A. headquarters puts its stamp of approval on these truly meritorious articles and cordially invites all bona fide manufacturers of or dealers in magical apparatus to demonstrate some of their wares before its members at its second meeting (held on third Wednesday) of any month.

Chagnon & Company, of 497 Seventh avenue, this city, dealers in French works of every description, have a number of illustrated (paper covered) works in that language on magic and the kindred arts. It is learned, however, that as certain works of this nature were found to treat upon fortune telling, the government has placed a ban upon all publications that might have any reference to this; hence the scarcity in this country of late French works on magic.

Clarence T. Hubbard had a highly interesting article occupying over a column in The Hartford (Conn.) Times of Thursday, September 2, in which he describes the peculiarly constructed fish bowl used by the late Prof. Hartz in his original act known as "Le Chapeau du Diable" (A Devil of a Hat). While Mr. Hubbard states that Hartz produced six of these bowls (which no doubt Hartz was quite capable of doing) it is remembered that when Hartz played Keith's Union Square week of July 30, 1900, over twenty years ago, he produced but one bowl of fish. On this occasion Hartz's hat production consisted of two dozen small vari-colored silk handkerchiefs, two dozen (or thereabouts) large colored silk handkerchiefs, two dozen celluloid goblets, about same number of tin cups, three champagne bottles, hundreds of playing cards, silk streamers, glass lanterns (lighted), a wig, the fish globe with gold fish (wig was the getaway) and a cape containing a canary. Hartz always claimed the cage was the only collapsible articles used by him in his productions, but Mr. Hubbard's reference to the fish bowl would show that Prof. Hartz neglected to mention this.

Prof. Louis Krieger, "The Merry Wizard," returned to New York Saturday, September 9, from Stockbridge, Berkshire County, Mass., and has already played several society engagements and is booking others well ahead.

PUBILLONES CIRCUS

Season To Start With Long Engagement at National Theater, Havana—Acts of High Merit Booked

New York, Sept. 22.—The Pubillones Circus will open its season in Cuba at the National Theater, Havana, when that prominent playhouse throws open its doors for the regular season on October 23. The engagement of the circus at the Nacional will be for thirty or thirty-five weeks. Mme. Geraldine Pubillones, who arrived in New York this week, has booked her entire show thru Frank Wirth, of the Wirth-Blumenfeld offices. It is composed entirely of the best acts obtainable, headed by the Fumona Bedicinie Brothers. Other feature acts that have been booked are: Olympia Devival Company, the Act Beautiful; Axel Mirano, the Flying Torpedo; Famous Cottrell-Powella, equestrians; Eight Pischanni Troupe of acrobats; Pani Fairini and his Comedy Baboons; Billy Lemont Trio, wire artists; Randow Trio, novelty gymnasts and clowns; El Rey Sisters, classic skaters; Peter Taylor's Eight Male Lions; Carletta Contorionist, novelty act; Rolandfero, comedy acrobats; Mirano Brothers, Spanish clowns; Tay and Wife, musical clowns.

The booking, according to Mr. Wirth, represents a gigantic show, several other acts being under consideration to add to this bill, for the Havana engagement only. An order has been placed for a new tent and new canvas with the United States Tent & Awning Company, and the Donohue Lithographing Company is making up a lot of special paper for Pubillones' show. Mme. Pubillones has control of 110 of the 200 advertising boards of Havana and has arranged for the erection of a huge electric sign in front of the Nacional. This house seats 4,500, and tho top for the season will be $25 for box seats.

HOWE'S GREAT LONDON SHOWS

All with the Howe Great London Shows were destined to deep disappointment when they had made arrangements to exchange visits with the John Robinson Shows at Corsicana, Tex. Every one gave a hand to help get the show loaded and train was ready to move at 11:05, but the train crew failed to show up and did not arrive to get the train started until six o'clock the next (Sunday) morning. However, here's howdy from all with this organization to the folks with the Robinson shows.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred DeMara visited at Stuttgart, Ark. Fred spoke very highly of the show.

C. H. Johnson has taken charge of the side-show canvas. He has been associated with Mr. Curran for nine years.

The "old-fashioned" concert has been going over big with the large attendance which remains for the "after show," in which appear Frank DeRoe and Edw. J. Limoges in a Blackface turn; Fred Palmer in a dancing act; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Speight, in a silly Kid sketch, and a wrestling feature by Peter Dematroff and Louis Proyencher.

Business with the "Zaza" Show since Mr. Curran has had the management has been phenomenal.

George W. Ross, the show's detective, arrested two colored alleged picknockets, who had been trailing the show, at Stuttgart. One drew a fine of $100 and costs and thirty days in jail, and the other $50 and costs and thirty days in jail.

Stuttgart, Ark.—Sunday and Monday both very hot, but despite the atmospheric conditions, thousands turned out to witness the parade. Big business in the afternoon and capacity at night.

Fordyce—Another hot day. However, fair business at both performances.

Stempe—The last stand in Arkansas. Arrived late and had a long haul. Had a short parade—it met itself coming back, as the No. 1 hand was back on the lot as the calliope was leaving. Large attendance at both performances.

Nacos, Tex.—First stand in Texas. Short haul and short parade. Business fair at thn matinee, with capacity attendance at night.

Gilmore—Thousands turned out to see thn parade, but very poor business was done there.

Athens—Long haul and parade. Fair attendence in the afternoon, but big business at the evening performance.—EDW. J. LIMOGES.

GENTRY BROS.' PICKUPS

Thn Gentry Bros.' Shows are sure having some turnaway houses since they returned to Texas, also some very hot weather.

Steve Savage continues to pack them in the concert, and Henry Emgard is all smiles, as he has broken all records for the ride-show this season. Bud and Babe Davis left at Tuscon, Ariz., to take over a new theater in that city.

Some circus folks are talking of "the closing stand," but this is not yet in sight with thn show, as it stays out until the middle of December.

To Sail on November 17

New York, Sept. 22.—During a recent call at The Billboard office Alexander J. Lowande stated that the firm of Lowande & Gardner Show Company had been dissolved, and that on August 10 a partnership had been formed between him and Oscar Lowande. The new firm, according to Mr. Lowande, will be known as Lowande Brothers' Circus, and it will sail on November 17 from New York for San Juan, Porto Rico, for a tour of twenty-four weeks as follows: Twelve weeks in Porto Rico, six in San Domingo and six in the Panama Canal zone. All people have been engaged, forty-five in all; twenty-eight performers and a twelve-piece, all-male brass band. The circus will be one ring with two stages under a hundred-foot canopies with two rorfies. No side or pit show will be carried.

SELLS-FLOTO QUARTERS

Put in Shipshape and Buildings Added

The winter quarters of the Sells-Floto Circus at Denver, Col., have undergone a complete process of renovation and two new buildings built. One of the new structures is fifty by twenty-nine feet in dimension and the other fifty by twenty-four feet, the estimated cost of them being in the neighborhood of $10,000. Everything about the place has been put in first-class condition and many improvements added. It is thought the big circus will close its season about the last week in October.

CIRCUS TO BE WELCOMED

Pittsburg, Tex., Sept. 22.—Pittsburg has again been discovered by a big circus in Texas and it was to the Sells-Floto advance that all honor is due. Pittsburg is a pretty little town on the "Katy" and the Cotton Belt railroads at that junction in Camp County in Eastern Texas; paved streets, electric lights and all modern conveniences. The agent found the city clerk, the county judge and practically the most congenial fellow and he proved to be a hard-boiled citizen, as he helped him boost a lot within a stone's throw of the court house and postoffice, and in many other ways showed the hospitality to be found among the citizenship of Camp County, that 3,000 with a rich territory surrounding in all directions. Also there are good towns that are within twelve to thirty miles and a myriad of owners of automobiles that think nothing of coming thirty or forty miles to Pittsburg.

Sells-Floto Circus is the first big show to come to Camp County in 20 years, so the writer is told, and it is a foregone conclusion that the Sells-Floto people will be well treated and will speak a good word for the hospitality that they will find here. Now that the ice again is broken the people here hope to find that the good word has gone abroad and that Pittsburg, Tex., will be on the list of other big shows in the future. A new Mayor and "city marshal" have brought about the change.—FRANCIS WHITE.

UNDER THE MARQUEE

By CIRCUS SOLLY

Marinelia, ring performer, is in his twenty-sixth week with the Sells-Floto Circus.

Joe Martin, the ape, is more famous than some thus have hair on their heads only, says a circus performer of note.

Bob Hanley's former clown on the Yankee Robinson Circus, is reported as now being in the dope business in Kansas City, Mo.

Old Snyder, the big bull with Sells-Floto, is gonn. And "he" is missed by many an old trouper, who looked upon "him" as a"friend."

The Sells-Floto Circus plays New Orleans for two days, October 1 and 2. This is the first large circus to visit the Crescent City this season.

A communication from Oklahoma City, Ok., states that Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey's circus gave two splendid exhibitions there to enormous patronage on September 18.

Karl Korthnia, well-known nito player, who has tronped with the Mighty Haag, Andrew Downie and Sparks' Shows, and with Guy Bros., and Dobbs Bros.' Minstrels, is now located at Hawolie, Me.

Leahy Bros., comedy ring gymnasts, late of Cook Bros.' Circus, joined Deline Bros.' Minstrels at Dover, Me., and are booked solid until next April. They will be with one of the leading white tops next season.

Wonder what "Gov. Hiram Hibinder" and his "Motorized (Gas Horse) Show" have done for themselves and the good of the business this season? It has been nigh onto some long time since the "Gov." has been heard from.

Chester Smith, trump comedian, of Minneapolis, is reported retired from the road for indefinite period. The reason for this is that Mr. Smith has for some time been suffering with a broken arch in her foot, necessitating a rest of undetermined duration.

Harry Rohettns, acrobat with the Yankee Robinson Circus, we hear, made three loops in an airplane while the show was playing Ponce City, Ok., on September 21, and the sensation so impressed him he looks for another opportunity for a flight at every stand.

An error is called to our attention in the Gentry Bros.' Show letter, issue of September 18, in that it was Bob Stiles, of Stiles Bros., instead of "Jack Riley," who fell from a wagon during parade, and that both his arms were broken instead of one as the notes stated.

The Boston Sunday Post of September 12 had an interesting colored photo representing giving an intimate glimpse of the "home life" of Madame Madam St. Cloire and her two children, with the Sells-Floto Circus. Their "home" consists of a secluded corner under the big top.

Joe and Pete Michen, acrobats, acrialists, equilibrists and posturers, who were featured at Old Spanish Fort Park, New Orleans, and attracted favorable comment as a projected attraction at the amateur circus, "Saw Dust Circle," in the Crescent City recently, have joined the Walter L. Main Shows for the balance of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boohonmm have closed a successful engagement with the Jack Hoover Show. Mrs. Bonhomme has purchased the Bartlett Hotel at Bartlett, Kansas, where she will welcome all troupers, and where The Billboard is always on file. Mr. Bonhomme has joined the Howe Great London Shows to do his light and heavy balancing act.

Bert Early, late of clown alley on the Walter L. Main Shows, is said to be now meeting with success working a series of fairs for the publicity department of the hygienic branch of the Southern Branch American Red Cross. It is understood that Bert Lecount, also of the Main Shows, has been engaged to go out as lecturer for the same organization.

Jack Pfeiffenberger, who recently closed with Sells-Floto Circus, since which time he has been resting up at his home in Bellevue, Ky. (near Cincinnati), made a hurried call on The Billboard on Tuesday of last week. Solly was not the office at the time, but, according to interpreted remarks, we gather that Jack has not yet fully decided as to his near future activities.

Reports have it that the Ringling-Barnum Show gave no parade at Wichita, Kan., on September 15, as it is alleged the city officials asked $500 for the privilege. It is further stated that the circus management offered half that amount, but this was not acceptable, and as a result thousands of people gathered along the streets over which the parade was advertised to pass were disappointed.

Fred L. Shafer, late boss canvasman with the Campbell Bros.' & Hutchinson Circus, who spent a week with relatives and friends in Cincinnati, again hit the trail for the Southland on Thursday of last week, his destination being New Orleans, with a stopover at Memphis and a few other points. He stated to Solly that he intends again wintering in Cincy, but is not ready to take up his hibernation so early. He also let it be known that he will be at the head of some department with the B. L. Wallace Greater Shows next season.

Each fall a question has arose—
By word or month, an' asked in prose,
Are Jack Frost nips a circus's foes—
On slippery ice an' chilly snows?
The white top trouper, as he goes
About the lot, the query knows
In big top, menagerie, annex shows—
The correct answer no one knows.
And, now, again, the season throws,
Especially when a big act blows
The trouper's heart in anxious throes—
Ho wonders when "We're goin' to close."

Seth Tracey, trombonist this season with Gentry Bros., has returned to his home in Great Falls, Mont., in order to attend to the wants of his children to school. Incidentally, he has again taken up his profession as a barber. Commencing on Tracey's return the Great Falls Daily Leader includes the following: "Aside from being barbering, Tracey has musical talent, and with his trusty trombone he found opportunity to satisfy his appetite for travel in the circus band. Speaking of appetite, he avers that his appetite kept the show from making any money this season. 'It's surprising what an appetite that outdoor life gives,' he comments."

The following appeared in The Denver Post of September 18: "A number of interest to hundreds of friends, including the stars of the vaudeville and circus world, are just been revealed three months and a half after the event. Nellie Terry, formerly of the vaudeville team of Terry and Romaine, was married to Sam Garrison, of 'Snapper' Garrison, for thirty-two years a circus clown and for fifteen years with The Denver Post. The couple is living at the Stewarkiejo Arms Hotel, which Mrs. Garrison recently purchased. For thirty years Nellie Terry was prominent in vaudeville, while Garrison was one of the most successful of circus laugh makers."

R. W. Brewer, with "Town Talk," Alexandria, La., writes that several hundred former circus men are patients at the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital at Camp Stafford, near Alexandria, were entertained by a concert rendered by Al G. Barnes' Circus Band Friday, September 17, the day that show played in Alexandria. The band played between the two performances. Major W. H. Baldwin who is in charge of the hospital, arranged for all the patients to hear the band, which is composed of twenty-one pieces, headed by Director A. Woeckert. Some of the members of the band were ex-service men themselves and at least a few renewed old acquaintances, as well as meeting many of the wounded men.

When Frank A. Cassidy recently pulled off a for "Paramount Week" he experienced difficulty in obtaining a field in Cleveland large enough for a landing, because of the hills. After two days' search Cassidy found just the spot he wanted, but as it was covered with a growth of clover nearly knee-high he had his double about being able to obtain the owner's consent to the use. Long experience in renting circus lots from farmers had taught him that they are given to valuing such fields on worth the clover's weight in gold. The farmer was taking a nap when Cassidy visited his house on Sunday after which wasn't a good omen either. He awakened and the situation put up to a Hubbing his eyes, he drawled, "If you'll give me half your company's book account and all your railroad stock you can have the field." Cassidy started to protest and was about to bring all his old circus arguments into play when the farmer continued "But if you'll give me a ride in the cornsamed thing you can have the use of the field without cost." The farmer got his ride.

And the boys stand by their chef. "Our Dear Solly—Much has been said and told in many issues of your valued paper regarding cooks on advertising for the Sells-Floto and Robinson Shows, and it is with regret that we, the undersigned, are forced to say that our No. 3 of the same show has a chef that is a CHEF, and when he says simply 'meals in our mouths,' We did not intend to let this good news get out, but account of so much crowing about cooks on the car behind us we simply must say that we would not refer to Harry Houston, our wonderful chef, by calling him a 'cook.' Most of the men on this car are getting so fat that if it goes one more the end of the season we fear that we would not be able to post bills much longer. When all is said and done we are willing to wager that we have a better chef than any other advertising car on earth." And this is followed by these "mandies": G. Ramage, Frank Reed, D. Towles, L. Kelly, H. Bendeman, J. Hart, P. Everett, J. B. King, G. Stoddier, A. Alva, C. McGreevey, R. Rogers, E. Mack, P. Bentley, L. Weber, L. Hilton, H. Dougin, H. Dougin, H. Howard, H. Smith and G. McFadden.

"THINGS I SEE AND HEAR EVERY DAY"

By BILLY EXTON

Was making a move last week between Dallas and Denton and passed through the town of Eddy, Tex. There was a small show set up on a lot just the blocks from the station and as I did not see any billing for same could not get the name of the troupe. But wish to state that it looked to be a real big circus outfit, with a new top and everything in shipshape. Was only a passer-by on the show, but the name was not on any wagon or machine on the lot—that is, the "Sunday" outfit.

Oscar Wiley is at Waco and has charge of the billposting plant, and is a very contended "oldtimer."

J. D. Austin, of the Gentry Shows, was busy in and around Electra, Texas, when we stopped to talk—only says "Hello" and "Goodbye."

Dick Gilmer, well known among circus men, came into Houston while I was there, having just closed with the Gentry Shows, and has another "big" thing up his sleeve, which by this time is being put to practical use and getting results.

Met the Lillenthal Bros. They are large wholesale and retail confectionery dealers and, in reality, are the local show agents and friends of the showmen. They always are on hand to meet the boys, from the local contractor to the twenty-four-hour man, and nothing is left unturned in the way of attention and courtesy. They have a large "Circus Album," in which they have the autographs of almost every circus agent or manager who visits Houston.

At the Majestic Theater in Houston you will find to greet you on the lobby door (Tonky) Rappiport, a friend to all the troupers, whether big or small show, and who also has charge of the billing in the city. And the orchestra, at that same theater, it is in charge of Lloyd C. Finley, and he just makes the performance go over. I dare say that any time that theater has a week bill there will be a crowd to see the bas as great an assortment of jazz musical

...est or a show? If the former, in ...one title implies, interest will ...rease, while if the latter the events may become too common.

Mrs. Amy Ford (Texas Amy), whose address now is Box 474, Miami, Ariz., wants us to thank her friends for their many letters of condolence and sympathy in the recent birth and death of her little daughter.

From Ottawa, O.—Smith Bros.' Wild West closed a successful park season at River View Park, Detroit, and is now playing a few Ohio fairs. The hands on this show include Arizona Smith, brook and trick riding and trick roping; Joe Webb, bronk and trick riding, horse roping; Agnes Webb, trick riding; Mary Smith, straight riding; Calvin Dodge, trick riding. The members were cast in scrrow at Leipsic, O., on September 20, when the show's little bucking horse, "Funeral Wagon," died.—A. S.

Final results of St. Joseph, Mo., Roundup: BULLDOGGING—First, Fred Atkinson; second, Leonard Ward; third, Delbert Bledsoe. STEER ROPING—First, Johnny Mullins; second, Jim Wilkes; third, Delbert Bledsoe. BRONK RIDING WITH SADDLE—First, C. R. Williams; second, Hugh Strickland; third, Oklahoma Curley. STEER RIDING—First, Lawder River Thompson; second, Scapy Williams; third, Oklahoma Curley. BRONK RIDING BAREBACK—First, Scapy Williams; second, Powder River Thompson; third, Hugh Strickland. BULL RIDING—First, Kenneth Maynard, Loyd Saunders and Montana Jack Ray tied for second and third. FANCY ROPING—Chester Byers first and Johnny Judd tied for first and second; third, Montana Jack Ray, Bob Crane and Clancy, Jr., split fourth. California Frank Hafley was a visitor to the roundup the first day, coming from Red Oak, Ia., in an airplane, making fast time and landing at Lake Contrary, just as the show was starting.

Boone's Show Notes—Boone's Circus and Wild West has played to excellent business the past weeks. At present the show consists of ...wagons, two auto trucks, seventy head and fifty-two people. In addition to the show there is a side-show and a "vaharete" after the performance. J. W. Cauble, who has had the paper and billing for the circus this season, has combined with Sam Wells, of Sayre, Okla., in framing a small Wild West and picture show. "Curly" and "Red" Smith have purchased the Walla Bros. Wild West, and will start out about first of September. The Smith Boys have been on the Boone Show for the past eight years. The Boone Show will stay out all winter, playing Southern Oklahoma. Manager Pete Boone has purchased a beautiful tract of land adjoining his home at Ada and north of Ada, Okla., where he intends pulling a real Frontier Roundup in the very near future, and at this writing work is about ready to start on the building of sheds, corral, grand stand and race track.

There can be STATE CHAMPIONSHIPS in bronk riding, trick riding, roping, bulldogging and all other sports of the Frontier order. To have only the world's championship for the hands to go after would hardly be a promising proposition so far as local interest in the various States is concerned, as there would be many who would not even start for the honor, and such contests, held yearly, would bring into the limelight but a very small majority of worthy contestants. There are numerous sections of the country wherein the contestants and public should annually await and fall the final event in their State, to learn who would be the STATE CHAMPIONS. To put it in Rowdy Waddy's presumption that local managers and committees would show more interest in staging and advancing the "home contest" than to only lend their aid to someone to pull the World's Championship contest for the chosen of each season. The WORLD'S event will take its place without any special effort on the staging, as it would necessarily follow. And the winners in the State events could enter for championships in the world's field, that, the main point in order to create interest in this—call-it-Championship—is to have the State or international events, is to make them, and keep them CONTESTS, not mere shows, and the all important matter toward making either the State or international contests official is that an ORGANIZATION be formed, not to comprise a few promoters and managers, but with the local associations and committees in each State as members. Now, much has been said on the Association for Organization subject, but most of it has been along "World's Championship" lines. And, perhaps it is impractive in order to not only retain, but advance, interest, and INTEREST is what brings the money into the box-office, Rowdy Waddy would greatly appreciate letters from local committees, thru their secretaries or other executives, giving their views on the above statements. Address to the Cincinnati office of The Billboard.

From Gordon, Neb.—At the thirty-fifth annual Sheridan County Fair and Roundup held at Gordon September 7-10. Fully 10,000 people passed thru the gates on Thursday. J. B. Montague, of Lusk, Wy., was arena director; Frank L. O'Brien, secretary of the association, announcer. Exhibition riding by Hyrtle Greene, Red Sublett was on the job and made a big hit. Summer Girl did exhibition rope spinning and trick riding. Two hundred Sioux Indians put on a sham battle on Friday afternoon. Curtiss rode the South Dakota horse, Battlefield, in an exhibition ride Thursday, and also put on some exhibition bulldogging. The judges were Tom Gaffney, of Gordon, Neb.; Brownie Hancock, of Lusk, Wy., and Louie Reynolds, of Eagle Nest, N. M. There were twenty-four entries in the bucking contest, sensational by the bareback bucking. Fifteen steer riders and eleven in the bronk ride were each day. New grand stands had been built and were surely needed to handle the crowd. Also the corrals had been remodeled after the Cheyenne corrals and the hands were unanimous in the opinion that they could not be better. Gordon has always had the reputation of treating the boys on the square and they surely lived up to their reputation again this year. Doubtedly was on the ground with his camera and got some very fine snapshots of the show. The order given follows: BUCKING CONTEST—September 8—R. O. Reynolds, Adam Marshall, Jack Whaley. September 9—Loren Clevenger, R. O. Reynolds, Frank Carter and Joe Herrin split third. September 10, Pinto Pete, R. Reynolds, Joe Herrin, Adam Marshall. CONSOLATION BUCKING—Hoffner Purvis, Spotted Bear, Morris Williams. BAREBACK BUCKING: September 8—Harley Purvey, Peter Mervile, Ralph Smith. September 9—Frank Keenan, Little Brook, Harley Purvey. September 10—Grant Keenan, Little Brook, Harley Purvey. WILD HORSE RACE: September 8—Jack Whaley, Lorne Clevenger. September 9—Fred Crow, Kenneth Miller. September 10—Jack Whaley, Joe Sears. STAR RIDING—Red Sublett, Bill Martin, Little Brook. INDIAN CAMP RACE: September 10—Lucy Bird and mother, Spotted Bear, White Bull and Mrs. Walking Elk, Mrs. Big Wolf and Solby Short Dog. SQUAW RACE—Bessie Big Owl, Sade Short Dog, Susie Short. RELAY RACE: September 8, 9, 10 (Three-Day Average)—D. F. Zedicker, Al McGaa, L. E. DuBray.

From Ardmore, Okla., the Ardmore Roundup, staged September 10-18, was a success in every way, good crowds being on hand each of the four days, and the weather was perfect. In the steer roping there were 29 entries, each paying an entrance fee of forty dollars, half of which was added to the purse of $1,000. In addition to this Tom L. Burnett, of Iowa Park, gave five hundred dollars for the winner making the fastest time in the finals, which special purse was won by Andy Burkes, who spilled one loop, which brought home the bacon to the tune of little more than $50. The bucking horses belonged to Jamison Crawford, Jr. There were only five men who went to the finals, and in the finals Tom Ross was the winner, Lonnie Roach, who was just about to finish the season and quit, being hooked on a bronk and steers were need in the steer riding, and had there been any finals the judges would have had to hunt a new crew to give part of the money to. Byron Rogers was arena director, Fog Horn Clancy official announcer, Red Sublett clown, Johnny Mullins, Tommy Grimes and Floyd Sandspoil judges. There were two outstanding special features presented, one being Mrs. Lucille (Mauldin) Burnett, who roped and tied a steer each day, showing that since her retirement from the arena she has lost none of her oldtime excellent form; the other being the work of Old Booger Red (the original), who, at the new 53 years old, mounted a bucking horse last day of the contest and rode the animal with an ease and grace that would be a credit for one his age. Johnny Harrel, Jr., and Buck Garrett were the principals of the local committee, and they proved to be men who put their into the contest game will be a benefit to the sport.

RED OAK ROUNDUP

Chicago, Sept. 21.—"Prairie Lily" Allen was a Chicago visitor this week and gave The Billboard the results of the Roundup in Red Oak, Ia., September 14-16. Miss Allen said that there were 20,000 paid admissions on the Thursday and that sixty-five contestants were entered. The events and winners were as follows, in order given:

BRONK RIDING, $500—Oklahoma Curley and Montana Jack Ray split first and second, Delbert Bledsoe. STEER ROPING (Two Steers), $400—Frank Hafley (1:27), "Scapy" Williams (1:33), Jim Roach (1:49). BULLDOGGING (Two Steers), $400—Slim Mathews (62.2-5), Delbert Bledsoe (63.1-5), Buffalo Daniels (67.2-5). RELAY RACE (Four and a Half Miles)—John Bunton, Harley Purvey, Frank Hafley. HALF-MILE COW HORSE RACE—Harley Purvey, Antwerp, Belgium, Paul.

"Slim" Allen was the official announcer and manager of the competitions. "California Frank" Hafley and Jimmie Francis were other prominent figures in the tourney. Bledsoe and Simmons was hurt during the Roundup and a benefit was given for him. Miss Allen says the "Oklahoma Curley" rode the famous Kiker in front of the grand stand on Friday, and was also taken up and the sum of $200 realized. Lonnie Harvey was the only woman riding wild horses with no saddle or bridle.

ESSIE FAY'S SHOW

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Bill Sherman, who has been with the Essie Fay Show, one of the big features of the Con T. Kennedy Shows, has given The Billboard some sidelights on Essie's part of the entertainment. Bill tells it something like this:

"Essie Fay has a real Wild West and Horse Show combined. She also has one of the cleanest and best entertainments of its kind I ever saw. The show carries twenty-five people and thirty-four horses, and has one of the best layouts of bucking horses that ever was gotten together.

"The principals are Jim and Minnie Carry, Bill Sherman, Sandy Warner, Doc Duncan, Elmer Brooks and Miss Fay. An Eau Claire boy recently came on the show and made a wager of $30 with Doc that he could ride 'Brown Jug.' Well, he didn't. Sandy Warner rides all broncs without stirrups removed. Jim Carry, a real rope and broncs, and Bill Sherman, that's me, you know, have been acting as arena director and ride broncs. Doc Duncan handles the fresh broncs and does a very good act. Elmer Brooks and his school of educated horses and Sandspoil judges. There were two outstanding special features presented, one being Mrs. Lucille (Mauldin) Burnett, who roped and tied a steer each day, showing that since her retirement from the arena she has lost none of her oldtime excellent form; the other being the work of Old Booger Red (the original), who, at the new 53 years old, mounted a bucking horse last day of the contest and rode the animal with an ease and grace that would be a credit for one his age. Johnny Harrel, Jr., and Buck Garrett were the principals of the local committee, and they proved to be men who put their into the contest game will be a benefit to the sport.

FORMER CHAMP VISITS CINCY

Arthur Weinberg, former world's champion speed and long distance skater, was a visitor in Cincinnati last week and paid the offices of The Billboard a pleasant call. Mr. Weinberg is at present with "The Cabaret Girl" Show, but will soon be back in the rink game, where his real interest lies. While in Cincinnati he received acquaintance with Fred Nall, with whom he started his skating career, and the two spent several hours in pleasant reminiscences.

Mr. Weinberg started as a skate boy for Mr. Nall at the Coliseum Rink, Chicago, September 28, 1902. He won his first race on October 8 of that year, receiving a pair of racing skates as a prize. Then he began entering amateur races in a row, quite a record for a beginner. In January 21 of the following year Weinberg met George Scott, "world's champion, to skate the best three out of five races, at the Coliseum. Weinberg won the first three races, thus taking the title. Later he was matched with Howard Fielding for the world's sprint championship, best two out of three. Weinberg won this title also.

Following this, Weinberg skated in various cities, under Fred Nall, until 1904; met Harry Davison in a series of races for the onemile championship and the 5, 10, 15 and 20-mile championship, and retained his title. In 1906 the first all-day race ever held in the United States was staged in the Nall Roller Rink in St. Louis and Weinberg won in this event. Moved over to the Coliseum, St. Louis, in 1907 met Harley Davison and lost the championship title to him, the race being staged at the Jai Alai Rink in St. Louis. Later Weinberg took part in many novelty races in Connecticut, including a race against Chas. Durgetell) Hall in an auto, winning best two out of three, and also a race against a bulldog.

During the balance of the present season Mr. Weinberg intends to visit many of the leading rinks of the country, and he has arranged to represent the company manufacturing the Fred Nall Twin Plate Skates. He inspected the skates while in Cincinnati and expressed unbounded admiration for them.

NEW RINK AT FRANKFORT, IND.

A new roller rink will be opened soon at Frankfort, Ind., under the proprietorship of Chas. Morris and Carl Lawhead, two footing young men who, while new to the rink game, are going into it with a determination to learn and the determination to build up a first-class rink. The building is now being put in first-class shape and as soon as the remodeling and decorating is completed will be opened. It is announced that the rink will be equipped with the new Fred Nall Twin Plate skates, and music will be furnished by a mechanical band.

It will be the aim of Messrs. Morris and Lawhead to give the public everything wanted while in the line of skating acts and attractions, and from the energetic manner in which they are preparing for the season's opening they should make a success of the venture.

MUSIC HALL RINK OPENING

The opening of the winter season of Music Hall Rink, Cincinnati, will take place October 4, when Fred Nall, who has successfully conducted the rink for several years, is again manager and he has an efficient staff of instructors, skate room boys, etc. During the summer Mr. Hoffman managed the rink at Fort Park, Ky., and he states that business was exceedingly good there.

Music Hall Rink has been overhauled and newly decorated and will present an attractive appearance for the opening. One of the innovations patrons will note is an attractive display case in which are shown the new pair of Nall Twin Plate Skates. Fred Nall's office in Hoffman is handling and for which he has expressed great admiration.

WARNER PARK RINK

The Warner Park Rink, Chattanooga, Tenn., closed September 25 for alterations and will reopen about October 15 with all new Fred Nall Twin Plate skates and with many improvements. Mr. Hoffman, manager of the rink, who has managed this rink for four years, has resigned to take charge of the rink at Chilhowee Park, Knoxville, Tenn. The new management will be announced later.

KLESGES IN VAUDEVILLE

Joseph Klesges, of Green Bay, Wis., is going into vaudeville with a fancy skating act commencing October 15, and is already booked for 12 weeks, he writes. He will play the W. V. M. A. time. His former partners, Jack Ellis, will operate a rink at Oshkosh, Wis., this winter, also one at Sheboygan, Wis., Klesges states.

On May 1 of next year Klesges plans to open a rink in a large building in Chicago, a $75,000 building built on the lines of the White City Rink of Chicago.

ROLLER MARATHON PLANNED

Preparations are being made by the Riverview Roosters' Club, of Riverview Rink, Chicago, for a big roller street marathon to be held in the near future, according to The Riverview News, the Rink's little weekly edited by J. A. Forestel. These marathons are held now and then, while the one of last year was somewhat handicapped by snowy weather, it is the purpose of the organization to hold the marathon every year and thereby avoid unfavorable conditions.

TWO FLOORS AT RIVERVIEW

SKATING NOTES

Several of the oldtimers have inquired as to the fate of Jesse Carver, speed and fancy skater. How 'bout it, Ollie?

Stratford Roller Rink, Rochester, Pa., under new management, opened with marked interest being manifested. This popular rink seems to be thriving, as a well-known ad states, "There's a reason."

SOLAR AERIAL COMPANY

Doing Big Business—Lieut. Hamilton Completes Busy Week

Cadillac, Mich., Sept. 24.—Lieutenant Hamilton, of the Solar Aerial Company, of Detroit, Mich., has just finished a busy week at the Great Michigan Northern District Fair here, where his sensational aeroplane stunting was the feature attraction. He had recently made a hop from Kalamazoo, where, under the auspices of Post Kalamazoo, he stunted almost in the downtown streets. Large numbers went up with him for flights and stunts.

The Solar Aerial Company has been carrying hundreds of passengers from the United States and Canada in its aircraft without accident. It is presenting a set of exhibition programs that include illuminated night flying, wing climbing, plane changing, parachute dropping, stunting of all varieties and spectacular aerial battles that have been given at several State Fairs.

The Detroit headquarters of the Solar Aerial Company is now arranging for a tour of the Southern States, Cuba and Central America.

THANKS CAPT. FITZGERALD

New York, Sept. 22.—Captain Charles N. Fitzgerald, the aerialist, has received a letter from John Dwyer, inspector New York Police Department, commending him for his daring work in connection with the Police Field Day games held August 28. The letter says: "On behalf of the Police Department I desire to express to you our sincere appreciation for the success of our recent field day games at the Gravesend Race Track, King's Highway, Brooklyn, on August 28, 1920, in giving an exhibition the like of which it has never been my good fortune to witness. The stunt of standing on the wings of an aeroplane while in the air, and the 'Ride of Death' nerve, but that of thus standing while the aeroplane loops the loop in midair is indeed a phenomenal act of daring. You are certainly to be commended for the daring and nerve displayed in the performance which you gave at our field day games. By direction of Rodman Wanamaker, Special Deputy Police Commissioner; John Dwyer, Inspector." Captain Fitzgerald was recently commissioned a captain in the New York National Guard.

RUTH LAW TO TOUR

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Ruth Law, at the close of her present season, will make a tour around the world, in search of something new in aviation, it is stated here. Miss Law says that she will select an aviator from each country to stage a realistic air battle. Miss Law says that aviation has got to be much better than last season the fairs are looking for the newest and most sensational attractions. It is rumored that a company has been organized, appointing Miss Law to purchase one of the largest German Zeppelins and exhibit it in action at the largest fairs next season. Ruth Law's Flying Circus, including Al Wilson, Ralph Wilson, promises success at all the leading fairs this season.

McLAUGHLIN MEETS DEATH

Famed Stunt Man Succumbs to Injuries Received While Changing Planes

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Harry J. (Tex) McLaughlin, dare-devil aviator, died at the Crouse-Irving Hospital here, Friday, from injuries received last Saturday afternoon when he was struck by the propeller of an airplane during his performance.

McLaughlin died a "good fellow." He had no contract with the State fair officials to fly Saturday. He had been engaged for five days, and for five days he satisfied thousands. Sunday was the day of the auto races and the committee thought the attendance would not be missed. But spectators asked for a flight and the officials asked McLaughlin to fly.

"These people expect me to fly; McLaughlin told a friend before he went up. I won't get paid, except for the advertising I'll get, but I won't disappoint the people, and the folks won't go out of here knocking Tex McLaughlin."

His flying togs were sent for, his machine made ready, and immediately after the end of the last race he was in the air. A Miss Carver, of Canandaigua, with Shirley Short flying the wing walk, was aboard.

High over the field he attempted to do what he had intended to do, but was unable to accomplish—to climb up a rope ladder from one plane to the other. A high wind was blowing, the planes making more than 100 miles an hour.

Falling thrice to grasp the ladder, McLaughlin stood up, swung out on the lower wing and grabbed the ladder dangling from the Short plane in the upper wing. As all knew, he was expected the Curran place to rise, carrying him clear of the whirling propeller. Instead they climb together for one fatal instant—long enough for the ladder to swing him thru the arc of the whirling propeller of the airplane, whirling at the rate of 3,400 revolutions a minute.

It cut thru his body like tissue paper. The tips of the propeller snapped off. Curran, striking horrified in his cockpit of his machine, saw blood spurting from the figure of the man on the ladder.

"But he climbed," said Curran later. "He climbed—broken almost in two, he hung on and climbed. It took a rope and more than one man to do that." Short sensed something was wrong. It would take precious time to return to the fair ground enclosure, so he volplaned to the ground immediately. McLaughlin was dragged out a few feet.

After hurried first aid treatment he was taken to the hospital, leaving physicians claiming the propeller blade had ripped thru the big muscles of his back, torn thru a vertebra, narrowly missed opening a gash in his stomach and let out an immense amount of blood.

Except under his breath, McLaughlin "Tex" was conscious then it all. He talked with his partners and with the Short sisters and cheered him. He joked with the interns on the ambulance. A little rest, he said, and he would be right.

His mother, whom he met at the fair after a long separation, was at his bedside Sunday and was with him when he died.

The body of the aviator was sent to Groton, N. Y., Tuesday morning, where funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the home of his brother, Leon McLaughlin. After his death a local newspaper started a fund for floral tributes, and several hundred dollars was raised in a short time.

Will H. Pickens, of Chicago, manager of McLaughlin, said he was in Syracuse when the San Antonio Express is none other Lois George Wittig, who formerly connected with the big shows.

Pickens said McLaughlin, who was a member of the "Fashions a la Carte," was taken severely ill during the performance at Fantagas. Thru San Antonio, and is now confined to the Surgeons and Physicians' Hospital, and will be here for the next two weeks. Commissioner Low Road Show, playing San Antonio this week, my good friends, Jack Ellis and Ray and visited her and sent out many flowers and luxuries.

KANSAS FREE FAIR

Altho Rain Mars Opening Day, Decided Gain Is Shown in Attendance and Receipts

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 22.—The Kansas Free Fair has broken all its own records during the fair just closed, and, according to concession-ists, exhibitors and general men, it has broken the record of the Western fairs by showing a decided gain in attendance and in revenues.

Despite the fact that the fair opened on Monday with a soaking rain, which really delayed the opening until Tuesday night and kept the Wortham Shows off the lot until the evening of the second day, the fair and the Wortham Shows proved a greater business than was shown in any year of the free fair. The estimated attendance of the fair for the week was 345,000, a gain in attendance over 1919 of ten per cent. The races and Gordon's "Hawaiian Nights" showed a gain in paid admissions of seventeen per cent. The Wortham Shows went over the top of all records with a gain of more than twenty per cent over 1919. Fred Beckman, manager of the Wortham Shows, expressed himself as more than pleased with the Kansas Free Fair, and he was surprised at the splendid gains shown.

The exhibits of live stock and machinery were the largest ever shown in Kansas. Every inch of space that could be used for displaying machinery was occupied, and every stall in the horse and cattle barns and every pen in the swine and sheep barns were filled, and tents were provided for the overflow.

The concessionaires were pleased and spoke for their spots for next year. Every one had business for everyone, and everyone thrived, and there was no trouble to dispose of the week.

ROCHESTER EXPOSITION

Most Successful Ever Held, Despite Rain

The Rochester (N. Y.) Exposition, September 6 to 11, was the most successful in its history, the attendance exceeding 150,000, notwithstanding bad weather.

The gates were opened on Monday morning in a pouring rain, but two hours later the sun was shining, and before nightfall nearly 40,000 people had passed thru the stiles. Then at 7:30 o'clock that evening another deluge came, completely spoiling the night business. Again on Thursday evening and on Saturday evening heavy rains killed the night attendance.

The midway always suffered the greatest from these night rains, but J. M. Sheesley who furnished all the attractions, had a fairly good week, and, before closing on Saturday night, expressed a desire to return in 1921. This was quite gratifying to Secretary Edgar F. Edwards, as it was Sheesley's first year at the Rochester show.

An increased number of exhibits in every department made the show the largest in its history. A start was made this year on the long talked of cattle department, and it attracted such a large attendance from the country district that the management is making plans for an extensive live stock department next year.

The principal outdoor features, other than the Horse Show, were the drills and maneuvers of a picked company of regulars from the Old U. S. Infantry, known as the "White Horse Guards." They were accompanied by the regimental band, known during the war as "Pershing's Own Band."

The big night feature was a dancing spectacle, entitled "The Treasure Box," staged by Mrs. Florence Colebrook Wetmore.

All of the officials are so enthusiastic about the results of the 1920 Exposition that plans are now under way to move to a larger site. The exposition has entirely outgrown its present location, and it would not be surprising if within a year or two the city were to commence the erection of a model exposition plant on a 200-acre farm on the outskirts of the city.

SPECTACULAR PAGEANT

To Be Feature in Southeastern Fair

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 24.—The Atlanta branch of the National Drama League will display at the Southeastern Fair a spectacular pageant with more than 1,000 people in the cast. Mrs. Ulric Atkinson, president of the local branch, has notified the fair association that the league has accepted its invitation to present the pageant, and that Armond Carroll, the author of the "Shakespeare Masque" and of the Columbus Pageant, has written the program for this year's pageant.

The pageant will illustrate Georgia sketches of a historical nature, and will be directed by a New York professional coach.

TENTS FOR EXHIBITS

Riverside, Cal., Sept. 23.—The largest tents in the State have been secured by the Southern California Fair here to hold the displays in the agricultural, horticultural and industrial departments. The fair will be held October 13 to 19, inclusive, and promises to be larger in every department than ever before.

Horse barns have been remodeled, large additions have been made to the cattle barns, and other improvements have been made.

Visitors to the fair will find plenty to interest them, both in the way of educational exhibits and entertainment. Secretary W. W. Van Felt having arranged a well-balanced program.

GRATIFYING SUCCESS

Attained by Northeastern Wisconsin Fair

The Northeastern Wisconsin Fair, which was held at Green Bay-De Pere, Wis., August 30-31-Sept. 1-2, proved to be a wonderful success.

A meeting of the directors was held September 14 for the purpose of checking up the fair, and the results were more than gratifying. Over $2,500 was cleared, and the total receipts were more than $25,000. It is estimated that over 40,000 people attended the fair. The races were more than excellent, and the exhibits far surpassed those of any previous years.

One thing noticed was that the buildings are not large enough. The plant, as now built, represents an investment of better than $60,000. It is expected that another $30,000 will be spent to enlarge the present buildings and the grand stand.

The midway did a big business; in fact, everyone reported it as their largest week of the season.

At the directors' meeting the dates for next year were set for August 29, 30, 31 and September 1. Plans are already under way to make the next year fair bigger than the one this year, altho people in this vicinity can not imagine a better fair. More free attractions will be put on and everything in general made a little better.

KEEPING STEP

With March of Progress, Is Georgia State Fair

One of the leading fairs of the South is the Georgia State Fair, at Macon, of which Harry C. Robert is secretary and general manager. Recently the editor of The Billboard asked Mr. Robert to tell readers something of the coming fair. In response Mr. Robert sent an editorial from The Macon News, entitled "Greater Georgia State Fair," that seems to cover the subject thoroly and intelligently, hence it is reproduced herewith in part, as the entire editorial would occupy more space than is available:

"Keeping step with the march of progress in all lines of endeavor in Georgia, the 1920 Georgia State Fair will eclipse all former exhibitions held here, the high standard of which has made the State Fair an institution of vital importance not only to Georgia, but to the entire South.

"Advance announcements regarding the big exposition, which will open October 31 and continue thru November 6, reflect the constant and steady broadening of its scope. The educational features of the 1920 fair will be on a larger scale than ever before. Thirty thousand dollars in premiums and purses have been offered, an increase of $5,000 over those of the last exhibition. These additional inducements some more agricultural, live stock, poultry and other exhibits will be shown, and that the quality will be greatly increased.

"Many improvements have been made at the grounds at Central City Park. A number of large barns, sufficient to care for all livestock entries, have been built or enlarged, and the space for other exhibits increased and improved in proportion.

"The improvements in the foregoing departments have not been at the expense of the others. It has been announced that $6,000 in purses will be paid witness in the races. There will be six days of racing and three races a day.

"Then there will be Merryland with its myriads of lights, shouting spielers, dazzingly garbed performers, wonders of the world and the riding devices—Joy producers so dear to the hearts of children and grownups alike. The Johnny J. Jones Exposition will return, bringing many new features. And in front of the grand stand there will be five great platform acts daily, all topliners in their classes. Even the musical program will be on a larger and greater scale.

"These are only a few of the many good things that the fair will provide, for arrangements are not complete, and every day some new feature will be added. Julius Orr, president of the association; Harry Robert, general manager; the members of the Georgia Agricultural Society and others working with them are determined to make the 1920 Georgia State Fair the greatest ever held in this part of the country, they are determined to make it an exposition that will set a high mark for others, and there is no doubt that they will be successful."

Tecumseh, Neb., Sept. 23.—The Johnson County Fair Association has decided to revive the annual county fair here after abandoning it for several years. The old fair have been elected and the grounds are being improved. A fair will be held October 11 to 15, with agricultural

HE LOOPED-THE-LOOP STANDING UP ON THE TOP OF PLANE!!

JERSEY RINGEL & HIS AERIAL CIRCUS

LITERALLY DRAGGED THEM OUT OF THEIR SEATS AT THE TENNESSEE STATE FAIR, NASHVILLE, LAST WEEK.

STOP, LOOK AND LISTEN! FAIR MANAGERS, GET THIS:

ON MONDAY AFTERNOON, SEPTEMBER 20th, for the first time in the history of the world, at a public exhibition, RINGEL STOOD UP on the top wing of his plane and LOOPED-THE-LOOP.

Stop and Read That Again---and Think what it means to see a man STAND UP ON THE TOP WING OF A PLANE AND LOOP-THE-LOOP. Ringel originated this, the greatest stunt in aviation. No other aerial acrobat has ever dared to attempt it. Ringel accomplished it for the first time at Chattanooga on Friday, September 17th, three days before his Nashville engagement.

RUSSWURM SAYS:
September 24, 1920.
MR. JOSEPH R. CURTIS, Manager,
Chattanooga, Tennessee:
Dear Mr. Curtis—On behalf of the trustees of the Tennessee State Fair, allow me to express our appreciation of Jersey Ringel and His Aerial Circus, which has been our principal attraction this year.
In the thirty or forty years which I have been connected with the amusement game, I have never witnessed so thrilling an act as that furnished by Ringel, and I sincerely believe that he will be the greatest drawing card in the outdoor show world in the months to come.
I also take pleasure in stating to you that not only was our contract with you observed in every detail, but that you gave us features which you did not promise and which we had no reason to expect. We hope to have this big feature again next year, and you may reserve the dates of the Tennessee State Fair for Ringel and His Circus.
With best wishes, I am,
Yours very truly,
(Signed) J. W. RUSSWURM.
Secretary-Manager Tenn. State Fair.

SECRETARIES!
IF YOU WANT THE OUTDOOR SHOW WORLD'S GREATEST AND MOST SENSATIONAL FEATURE WIRE FOR OPEN TIME AND TERMS NOW---TODAY--- NOT TOMORROW

ROB ROY SAYS:
MR. JOSEPH R. CURTIS, Manager,
Chattanooga, Tennessee:
Dear Joe—You got away yesterday before I had a chance to see you, so I am writing to express my personal appreciation, as well as that of the Tennessee State Fair for the wonderful, thrilling exhibition that you gave us.
As you know, I have had occasion in the past few years to see Locklear, Tinney, Wilson, and all of the other outdoor amusement attractions, both big and little, and I am sincere when I tell you that Ringel so far surpasses the others that there is really no comparison. The rest of them were good, but Ringel makes them look like amateurs. He stands supreme as an outdoor attraction, and I believe that he will be America's greatest sensation next year.
His change from one plane to another is as thrilling as that of other noted aerial acrobats, and his standing on the top of a plane while it loops-the-loop simply takes the breath away from every spectator. He is absolutely the best. What more could be said?
If you want any endorsement of his work, let me know. It will be a pleasure to testify to his great value as a drawing card.
Yours very truly,
(Signed) ROB ROY,
Chairman Amusement Com. Tenn. State Fair.

Ringel also changes planes with or without a rope ladder and performs all the other aerial acrobatics. He does all that the others claim to, and then some.

AMUSEMENTS and PRIVILEGES AT PARKS, PIERS AND BEACHES

WITH ITEMS OF INTEREST TO MUSICIANS

PLEASURE BEACH

Is Leased to Park Men

Park Lately Acquired by City of Bridgeport Is To Be Developed as Amusement Resort

A group of amusement park men, head by Elwood Salsbury, have leased Pleasure Beach from the City of Bridgeport, Conn., for a long term of years. Associated in the venture are Fred W. Pearce of Detroit, Mich.; John A. Miller the familiar Roller Coaster designer, of Chicago; Harry C. Baker of Miller & Baker of Baltimore, Md., and Frank Curney, widely known refreshment concessionaire, of New Haven.

Pleasure Beach is one of the historic amusement park sites of this country. It is situated in the Bridgeport Harbor, a comparatively short distance form the mainland, and has the finest bathing beach between New York and Boston. It was the principal picnic resort of this section of the Long Island Sound country for many years and was finally developed into an exposition park and operated under the name of Steeplechase Island by George Tilyon of Coney Island.

It has been closed to the public for a number of years past and was but lately acquired by the City of Bridgeport for park purposes. In line with the modern trend in City Park development, the Board of Park Commissioners desired that the most efficacious plan of development would be to have a first-class amusement park installed on the property.

Numerous projects from various amusement concessions were considered, and in the end the lease was granted to Salsbury and his associates.

A thoroly modern amusement park will be built on the island between now and the next operating season, and one of the conspicuous features of the improvements will be a large industrial exposition building.

It is estimated that the total cost will run in the neighborhood of one million dollars.

VENICE

Has Shown Phenomenal Growth—Fred Church Talks of Big Coast Resort

New York, Sept. 24.—Fred A. Church, of the firm of Prior & Church, of Venice, Cal., was a caller at The Billboard office one day last week in company with Harry C. Middleton, the general representative of the firm in New York City.

Mr. Church is one of the most prominent amusement men in this country and has a host of friends in the amusement park world. He is at present on a tour of the East looking over the parks and resorts, and especially the Great American Racing Derby rides, of which he is the inventor, patentee and joint owner with Mr. Prior.

While conversing with Mr. Donaldson of The Billboard Mr. Church recited an incident which happened ten years ago and got quite a laugh at the expense of The Billboard representative. In 1910, in company of the late Thos. W. Prior, Mr. Church went to Venice, Cal., then a very small amusement resort, in fact only four years old, and built the big racing coaster known as the "Race Thru the Clouds," from which the firm has grown in pace with the resort until it now has the largest amusement interests on the Pacific Coast. Shortly after the completion of the coaster Mr. Prior, who was conceded to be one of the best publicity purveyors in the amusement game, sent Mr. Donaldson a season pass for the ride, and Mr. Donaldson, in acknowledging receipt of the pasteboard, wrote just a line or two as follows: "Thanks very much for the pass, but where the hell is Venice?"

"This perhaps," said Mr. Church, "illustrates best how Venice has in fourteen years grown from a mass of sand dunes to the Atlantic City of the Pacific Coast and the playground of Los Angeles and the West, catering to from 100,000 to 150,000 people on Sunday and with a permanent population of 30,000.

"In closing of the season at Venice, the resort caters to the pleasure loving public 365 days out of the year, and when the East is gripped in the throes of snow and ice on New Year's Eve our amusement rides and concessions enjoy the patronage of a regular Fourth of July crowd. We built a new single track coaster last spring, which opened on May 10, and up to and including Labor Day we carried a few shy of 600,000 people at 15c, which, I am told, is equal to the business of most of the big coasters in the East."

Mr. Church said it was the intention of his firm to build a number of Racing Derbies wherever the best locations could be secured in the parks of the East this fall and during his trip he is on the lookout for attractive leases and locations.

"The Racing Derby has panned out a marvel," he says. "While only three years old we now have fifteen rides thru the country, two building in Toronto, and Mr. Middleton has just closed for a derby in France and England, and expects to close a number of deals with European parks within a fortnight. It is one of the greatest rides imaginable, having all the thrills and interest of a real horse race and fills the long felt want of the amusement public for something new. If Venice with its perfect weather and climate had the tremendous population of Greater New York to draw from, and the parks and resorts of the East had our climate, what a happy family we amusement people would be.

"I am enjoying every minute of my trip and must say you have in the East and Middle West many beautiful amusement parks and best of all everybody reports the biggest year in history. There is a splendid opportunity for the amusement men of the East to operate in Venice during the winter months and many have already learned of this fact, and Eastern amusement men will always find a hearty welcome from the showmen of the Pacific.

"It may be interesting to note that while the West has largely depended upon the East for new amusements in the past I find that this year 'East is West,' in other words the only three NEW amusements to be found in the Eastern parks and resorts this season originated in Venice, namely: The 'Great American Racing Derby,' 'Noah's Ark' and the 'Pig Slide.'"

LAKEWOOD PARK CLOSES

East Mahanoy Junction, Pa., Sept. 23.—Manager Eckert and his staff of employees, together with the concessioners, held their annual outing and farewell day of the season last week. Everybody was in a jolly mood and enjoyed a thoroly good time.

Wm. Theobald has joined a carnival going South, and Chopney has dropped his concession to join an indoor carnival. Thos. Marcus and Jr. have joined their grandchildren near Allentown. Zeo was taken sick and had to lay off at Mahanoy City instead of going to her home in Baltimore.

Manager Eckert expects to add a shoot-the-chutes to the park next season.

SEEKING ALLEGED BLACKMAILERS

Cleveland, O., Sept. 24.—Detectives are seeking alleged blackmailers who are trying to get $20,000 from the Humphrey family, owners of Euclid Beach Park. A letter was received stating that unless the money was forthcoming a remember of the family would be killed. Police placed a decoy package in the rear of the home of D. S. Humphrey and stationed the police about the place, but no one appeared for the package. The decoy attempt was followed by another letter, continuing the threats. No arrests have yet been made and no harm has come to the park owners.

ATTEMPT TO DEFRAUD FAIR IS DETECTED

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 20.—An effort to defraud the Minnesota State Fair out of nearly $400, which had been paid in for tickets, was revealed yesterday with the conviction on petty larceny charges of thirteen young men who had served during the fair as gatekeepers and ticket-sellers.

According to evidence heard by F. H. Gibbs, justice of the peace of Rose Township, ticket takers returned tickets to relcers instead of depositing them in the boxes, and held out the money when the tickets were sold a second time. The practice was reported to fair headquarters by a visitor who had detected the scheme.

Justice Gibbs ordered fines totaling $700 after confessions had been obtained from all of the young men involved.

PROSPECTS EXCELLENT

For the Mississippi-Alabama Fair

Meridian, Miss., Sept. 24.—All preliminary arrangements for the Mississippi-Alabama Fair have been completed, and Secretary A. M. George announces that prospects are excellent for one of the best fairs ever held. The fair dates this year have been set a little later than in former years, the latter dates being chosen because of the greater chance of having favorable weather.

President Wilson has promised to spend a good part of September in the North and East visiting resorts and lining up attractions for the fair. Secretary George has contracted for some of the best free attractions in the country and promises ample entertainment for the thousands who will attend the fair.

Mr. George states that the annual premium list shows a number of new features and improvements over past efforts of the association. Especially is this true of the race program, which includes fast harness and running events for each day of the fair, under the direction of Col. Charles E. Reed, of Louisville.

AIRPLANES FOR FALL FESTIVAL

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 25.—H. B. Watkins, secretary of the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce, has everything ready for the New Mexico Harvest Festival, to be held here October 7, 8 and 9. Six plans to have two airplanes here, and there will be a great diversity of sports and entertainment features.

Some Eastern Fairs are said to have exhibits at the opening of the world corn show, and exhibits of other lines are also expected to be extensive.

ELABORATE FLOATS FOR ANNUAL WHEAT SHOW

Wichita, Kan., Sept. 24.—In connection with the Golden Jubilee Celebration of the International Wheat Show and Exposition, to be held here this month, there have been planned elaborate parades, and for these events magnificent floats have been constructed. Henry B. Marks, manager, says that this year's show is going to eclipse any heretofore held, from present indications. Exhibits will be numerous and Mr. Marks has arranged a show that will provide something of interest to every visitor every minute of the day.

Special days have been set aside for several cities, and on these days there will be special features, parades, etc., with prizes for winning floats.

TEXAS STATE FAIR

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 25.—With the opening of the Texas State Fair only two weeks away, preparations for the event are virtually complete and Secretary W. H. Stratton is well pleased with the outlook. Fair Park was closed to the public early this month in order to repave the streets and put everything in first-class shape. One of the improvements this year is the inclosing of Gaston Park within the main fair grounds, thus providing considerable additional space. Exposition avenue, which separates the two parks, has been paved for its length thru the grounds, and two new cross streets have been built.

The price of admission remains at 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children, and a general admission price of 25 cents for evenings. Probably the finest and largest lot of exhibits ever shown in the State have been gathered together, and Secretary Stratton also has provided amusement and entertainment galore, and promises that the "biggest fair yet" seems sure of fulfillment.

HOUSTON FAIR DATES CHANGED

Houston, Tex., Sept. 24.—Dates of the Houston Fair and Exposition have been changed from November 6-13 to November 20-28, inclusive. The change was made because the dates first chosen conflicted with those of the Louisiana State Fair and the fair at the Cotton Palace in Waco.

A plan to extend the length of the fair to two weeks was discussed at the last meeting of the directors, but was turned down.

FAIR NOTES

A free fair will be held at Gilmer, Tex., October 26-30, inclusive.

Have you secured that rain insurance for your fair, Mr. Secretary? It's a good investment.

This year is the first time a night fair has been held by the Erie County Fair, Sandusky, O. The fair is on this week.

Just as clothes make the man, so will a new coat (of paint) for the fair buildings increase the prestige of the fair. Try it.

The Colorado Statistical Company has secured the contract for exhibition flights at the Colorado-Wyoming Fair at Lamar, October 5-8.

A county fair is planned for Corsicana, Tex., to be held late in October. It is possible that the fair will be held at the same time as the live stock show, October 26 and 30.

Admission to the Virginia State Fair at Richmond this year will be 75 cents for adults and 40 cents for children, it is announced. One of the fair directors, John T. Anderson, died recently.

Tershing's own band will be one of the attractions at the Armistice Day Celebration in New Orleans by posts of the American Legion, the band going to New Orleans direct from its engagement at the Shreveport Fair.

The Multnomah County Fair, Gresham, Ore., has been enlarged and this year will embrace a manufacturers' and land products show in addition to the usual county fair features. The fair will be held week of October 4.

Williams and Appleman, known to some of their friends as Williams and Lee, have a successful fair season at Stapleton, Neb. They booked independent this year. "The season was much bigger than last year," they write.

A fair will be held at Boonville, Mo., October 14, 15 and 16, under the auspices of the Central Missouri Horticultural Association. A baby show, old folks' reunion and other historical shows will be features of the program.

Due to prevailing conditions, the management of the South Texas Fair, to be held at Yoakum, Tex., October 7 8 and 9, has decided to issue no premium lists. The exhibits this year are expected to be the largest ever seen at Yoakum.

One of the most pleasing features of the Ohio State Fair, which was held at Mt. Vernon, Agriculture, given in front of the grand stand under direction of J. C. Sullivan, so great were the crowds that thousands were unable to see the pageant.

Five days and nights of fun, frolic and education are promised at the Early County Fair, Blakely, Ga., the dates of which are October 19-23. There will be horse races, fireworks and first-class free attractions, as well as the best in the line of exhibits, Secretary L. B. Dryer says.

Vaudeville attractions twice a day, races in the afternoon, fireworks at night and large exhibits of agricultural and live stock products will be features of the Southside Virginia Fair at Petersburg, October 18 to 23. Officers of the fair association are: R. H. Mann, president; H. L. Smith, vice-president; R. Wilfred Ewell, secretary-general manager, and E. B. J. Whitmore, treasurer.

M. E. Melton, secretary of the Texarkana District Fair, advises that because the fair was located under the Texas heading in the fair list many persons are under the impression that no fair will be held at Texarkana, as they looked under the Arkansas heading and failed to find it there. Hence it is noted here that Texarkana is half in Arkansas and half in Texas, and the fair will be held October 19 to 23.

"We are expecting the biggest fair in the history of our section," says Brown Whatley, secretary of the Western Georgia Fair at Lagrange. "Our track has been rebuilt and a new live stock building is now complete. Many improvements have been made on the grounds, and we have booked a great program of amusements, including auto polo and fireworks. Smith's Greater Shows will play our midway."

PIPES

By GASOLINE BILL BAKER

What's this we hear of Shipman and the "wine cellar" at Erie?

Among the demonstrators working the fair at Ottawa, Can., were Bill Bergen and Mickey Dougherty, with retainers.

H. B. Thornton was booked into Knoxville, Tenn., by Doc Robinson, and for a starter did well on lots there with a small show.

Mrs. J. F. Clobery kicks in that she is in Milwaukee and doing fine. She expects to winter in California with Mr. Clobery.

"Shorty" Horn, with pens, was one of the lads going after the mazumma at the Ottawa, Can., fair, as was Doc Fady, purveyor of razor paste.

It is said that when a worthy knight of the torch hits Knoxville, Tenn., they should look up Frank Wineck, as he has very good digs on locations.

Eddie Bedell and Chapman, who have been working the sheet in Canada, jumped into Worcester, Mass., for the "big one." They left September 13 for Maine fairs.

Ohio not only excels in the manufacture of rubber balloons, but this year especially seems well supplied with Presidential "timber"—and of several varieties to choose from.

It used to be the ambition of many to make themselves "big fellows" to the profession. It now seems the people cease to make one's self and stock "big fellows" with the business—publicity.

Among the knights at the Red River County Fair, Clarksville, Tex., were C. H. Tully, pasting out gilms; W. B. Ow (Pat) Rutledge, E. Burke and Ernie Williams, of the leaf. Hear it was a bloomer.

"Old Man" Bradley is not out with Eddie Bedell at the fairs this, the first season he has not worked paper in ten years. Wonder where the ol' hoss is holding out, at some hibernation in the East?

Everybody look over the Letter List each week and send for your mail promptly, giving address far enough ahead for it to be forwarded. When you least expect it there may be a letter advertised for you in that list.

Leland and Lee write from St. Louis that Lady Burdell (Birdie Simms) closed her outdoor season there on September 13. They intend playing the sticks with a five-people company this winter. They add that with Lady Burdell they spent one of the most enjoyable summers of their career (by the way, they have "stood" a number of the said summers). Tom Benton was a visitor to the show recently on his return from the South.

Seen in Detroit: Jack Costello, with spud scrapers; Fred Stone, demonstrating the virtues of "Kelley's" buttons, and Sid Shipman and Jack Robertson, working on the sentimentalities of the musically inclined, with humanitones.

Report from Cleveland has it that Ohio leads the United States in the manufacture of toy rubber balloons the turnout being estimated at about 1,500,000 daily, or from fifty to seventy-five per cent of the entire output of the country, for both domestic and foreign market.

Dr. A. C. Robinson and Frank Haser have doubled and have a storeroom in a fine location in Knoxville, Tenn. They have been working tonic and by-products from a truck to very good results, but the reports had it they were intending to purchase a fine new car.

Dr. E. J. Burke is said to be all smiles since the arrival Monday, September 13, at his home in Houston, Tex., of another "pitchman" for the Merritone Medicine Company. The youngster is a bouncing ten-pounder and they say he is already a good second to the doctor on a spiel.

The following to The Billboard from R. R. (Dick) Garrison: "Tell Gasoline Bill that the Chicago pitchmen are all hiey and happy. There's too many beefs for anybody to list 'em. There's no special news, but he can just give our regards to the whole fraternity, because we ain't mad at nobody."

Word reaches us from Baltimore that Mrs. Doc Wallace (Billy Lorraine) has given up motordrome riding for the balance of the season and is back in the med. game, selling oil and soap in that city. She is working with Doc Harry Cunfield and is doing nicely. She expects to soon start for her home in "Dixieland."

Sorry, Mrs. C., but Bill can't ask thru Pipes for certain ones to write, unless it be in case of a death, sickness or losing sustenance from friends. Write them a letter, care of The Billboard, and they will see it advertised in the Letter List the same week they would see the pipe, which would save a full week in getting an answer.

Joe Froet sure broke into print at Knoxville, Tenn., recently. Joe, according to a newspaper article, worked Knoxville, along with the Harry Lenbeck-Wallace Showe, with whistles, and again, according to said newspaper clipping he must have made a strong hit with some scribe, as he was hoosied up to about a "million grand." Attaboy, Joe, we're for you.

Doc Ricton asks it: Says he is reviling the Lyric Theater, Aurora, Ind., including the movies, from Manager John Albert for a week at $350 rental, and wants to know if any other medicine showman is doing likewise? This reminds us that Ricton has about given up the idea of locating in Cincy this winter, and instead he and the Missus will keep on trouping.

The "Honorable" Dusty Rhodes was one of the paper fraternity (Ohio Woodsman Bill) Fair, taking subs, for the Southern Agriculturist.

We hear of a doctor somewhere in the United States (is that close enough?) who says there have been so many recommenders of his med. he has given up a point where he actually believes himself it will do all he claims for it. Would that some local physicians were as honorable. Many entertain great doubt about their prescriptions, but did you ever hear of one confessing up to it?

Pitchman working on Market street, St. Louis, expounding the merits of soap; in his push an interested listener. To show the purity of his goods, pitchman bites off a generous chunk of the soap and masticates it with evident satisfaction. "Interested listener" seems impressed. Pitchman offers soap for sale. "Interested listener" steps up and asks: "What kind of sandwiches are they?" A few more pipes on this order, please.

Chief Yellow Feather, of herbs and oil fame, motored thru Cincinnati last week on his way to Memphis. Too many pitchmen in Michigan, reported Yellow Feather. Hence he found good, fruitful territory he had just come. He's working single handed. Yellow Feather has some good points on pitching, one of which is that he cannot hold up for the fellow who goes to the Mayors wearing a "thousand-dollar" front, sobbing for a "free reader."

Jack Robertson and Sid Shipman, together with several others of the road, passed thru Cincinnati on Monday of last week, and said hello to Bill over the 'phone from the Central Union Station. They were on their way from Detroit to somewhere in the East. Jack and Sid are pushing whistles, lending their individual and unexcelled efforts to a remunerative fall season, the success of which to be mutually enjoyed because of their—working together.

Earl O'Bryan, erstwhile hustling dispenser of sodoer, has changed his act, after a very good season in Ohio last year, and now is telling the virtues of Chinese lilies to the natives with a small framed up skit, consisting of oil paintings of kneeling Japanese maidens in' everything, as a backdrop and slide finis to the credibile outfit. Earl blew into Cincy last week for a few days' stay and departed Thursday for the fair at Troy, O., with a like event at Eaton to follow.

Billy and Eva McClintock, still hitting the trail in North Carolina, recently visited the Sparks Circus, where they met numerous old friends, including Horry Mills and Fred Leslie. They add: "Harvey met many med. men lately. Met one a few days ago, who practically claimed he was the top note in the medicine business"—the only one to get money in South Carolina this season. Things don't look so bright down this way—tobacco "way below last year—altho we can't kick, as business so far has been very satisfactory with us."

Mark A. Steele infos. from Enid, Okla.: "Was just talking to W. J. (Dad) Jackson, of soap and grease fame, who delivered a wonderful spiel on the busiest corner of this city. Without a doubt he is not only one of the oldest, but one of the best—14 years old—still hard at it and gets the coin. Dwight Wilcox, of med. fame, was seen operating in these parts, as was Slim Hunter, with scopes and look-backs. Doc Hazel motored thru town—still dispensing medicine and prospering. Our sheet crew hasn't 'starved' here yet, and have the prospects for a good week."

The Merritone Medicine Company has opened its street attractions for the season, with its initial stand at Houston, Tex., where it is putting on regular concerts and playing to large audiences, while the sales are reported already past the usual average. Dr. Burke has been successful in landing some unusually good spots, and the prices and colors never has the Merritone business begun the season under so flattering prospects. The past season was very satisfactory. W. M. Bowen, an oldtimer in the newspaper and advertising game, has been engaged to handle the publicity end for the company.

Several weeks ago we noted that J. Frank Hatfield was selling Kleanzit Wrapper and advertising on "Re-Cut-Me" in the South. With the appearance of J. Frank last week in Cincinnati and vicinity we found that he is extending operations to nearly all daily paper cities thront the Central South below the Ohio River, also handling his remedy with a druggist in each city. He was concluding with one of the largest chains of drug stores in the Queen City arrangements for the handling of the remedy last week. From Gincy he departed on a nearby line that carries him thru Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and then east into Florida.

The following from George B. Frazer, at the time in Omaha: "On my way to the Coast I stopped for a few days in Chicago, visiting a few of the boys. Met Jack Fanion, Dr. J. C. Miles), of oil fame, and a 'big-time' medicine man, who is certainly doing big business here. Here in Omaha met Dr. Schneider and Warwick, working from a big car and getting the money. Said they had been here a year, with the exception of a couple months this summer down on the road. It simply shows that clean medicine pays. I believe in working to a crowd on the street, as the one thought they have brains, instead of trying them like 'boobs.' I am practicing a newcomer in this business, but I believe I have the right idea."

Notes of the George Miller Medicine Show have it that the show has made good all summer and is playing week stands in Pennsylvania with the following people: Doc Miller, lecturer; G. M. Milleru, manager; "Happy Sam," orchestra director; Faust Sisters, singers and dancers; George Mack, blackface comedian; George and Hattie Snyder, sketch team; Evelida Faust, soubret; Roy Bunket, novelties; "Babe Elwick," comedy; Mrs. Elwick, concessions; Longermecker, concessions; Madison Boyce, boss canvasman; George Marks, stage manager and producer. The show has been traveling in one limousine and two trucks, with Harriet Faust and D. P. and Palmer Longhead, drivers, respectively. The company closes its season in a few weeks.

Just one thing that Gasoline Bill has to contend with: Some time ago a knight shot a pipe that could easily have been an incorrect and damaging statement—if written by some other person than himself. In the pipe his name was spelled one way and the signature was spelled one way and written over it spelled otherwise. With the supposition that every man should know how to spell his own name at first trial, what would be your (anybody's) conclusion? Anyway, the lad failed to see it published and wants to know the whys and wherefores. But, this time he signs it with a typewriter, and we will therefore hold the news if it contains nothing similar in a proper manner. It might be all right, and again it might be all wrong.

During our confab with J. Frank Haithcox at The Billboard office last week, numerous points of pitchdom were discussed, one of which has often appealed to us as worth mentioning, and that is: The number of knights, formerly big money getters, possessors of wonderful ability, personality and all that is needed to do big things, who are now seemingly content to put over propositions of but medium caliber. Is it that they have lost no small amount of self-confidence, or that they think their personal appearance has lost a part of its commanding prestige? We can recall several instances, specially, from an appearance standpoint, could easily be Never Sweats, but whose "experience has taught them various and proper systems," and would still be "big fellows" if they would but stop dreaming of the days that have past, or what they might do, and with the adapting of present-day methods make use of their excellent qualities, and get busy.

Pat Dalton says he will have to shoot this one to Pipes—adds that it is "no pipe": While in Caldwell, Texas, a few weeks back, when told him to not pass up a town (Alma), and he was on his route he stopped off there, which looked the worst he ever saw. Finding a dollar left by some gamblers, he decided to donate three bucks (the reader) to the public fund. Having but thirty bells in his keister, he chalked up the pavements, "Free Show" for seven-thirty, at which time, with no one in sight, he lit his torch and set down and dreamily played some tunes on the old banjo. To his utter surprise, after a few minutes, there was a big push in front of him and he had busy selling the thirty bells right off the feet. Says he told you he had some "stock" in his trunk at the depot and started in that direction, when he noticed a crowd of whom he sold one each at a dollar and a half. Pat concludes with: "And it wasn't a good day for hearing either."

From Lansing, Mich.: The members of the Dr. C. Stell and Dr. A. Robinson Medicine Co. were entertained and given a special chicken and corn dinner on the lot, September 11, by Sam Wanagaman and Mr. and Mrs. John Stell. The entire company, which has been together thru a very successful season, certainly appreciated the efforts of these popular members, and then consisted of stewed chicken, roasted corn on the cob, roasted potatoes, green peas, cold, sliced tomatoes; sliced peaches with cream, watermelon, cantaloupe, ice cream and coffee. Miss Carley is the last word in cooking. The roster comprises Dr. C. Stell, lecturer; Dr. A. Robinson, comedian; physician; Johnny Freer, stage manager and producing comedian; J. B. Robbins, comedian and pianist; John Gissen, novelties; Henry Thomas, musical specialties; May Catley, comedienne and pianist; Mrs. Chas. Stell, vocalist; Mrs. A. Robinson, characters.—J. B. R. Yes, and along with the above came a dandy photo of that said chicken-cora (and fixin's) spread, under one of those good old turpaulins as a dinner from tent in the pore and open; as an annex to the cookhouse tent, and with nine smiling members of the show, each with an ear of corn or a leg of a "gump" in their hands (yeh, both hands), and seated around a table covered with pure white linen and good eats galore. Boys, that's the life, eh?

From Dr. Geo. M. Reed: "I took in the Ohio State Fair last week, and will now get back to work. My wife and I had a fine time all week. I met Al Isaacs, selling jewelry for Mr. Arnold, who had the jewelry concession. H. F. Kelsey and wife, with can openers, are in the city, also W. H. Spencer, with soiled. Prof. Gilbert Thayer left for Indianapolis, after four weeks in Columbus with his hook, and did well. Williams, the calculator man, left for Youngstown, O., after six weeks' excellent business in Columbus. I read where Dr. Herb. Becker says if pitchmen would only tell one another the truth about towns that are open and about the readers. Yes, Dr., but it seems some think it a big thing to steer one another wrong. The meanest man in the world is a pitchman that will send another pitchman in to a closed territory—when he knows it is closed. I do not worthy of being called a pitchman. I try to keep posted and believe I have the reputation of telling the boys straight, and very few of the knights who come to Columbus that do not hunt me up to find out about towns. I can tell them about any town in Ohio, and the most of the towns from Indianapolis to Philadelphia, on the P. R. R., or from Harrisburg to Baltimore. I can't understand why one pitchman would want to steer another wrong. What does it get him? And many a time the pitchman that got a wrong steer is in need of money badly. I know it was the case with me three years ago. I had been stuck, and was down and out, and asked a pitchman in Pittsburg where I could work and get a few dollars. He says: 'I will tell you just the town,' and I went there—spent my last dollar for car fare—found the man who sent me had been there the Saturday before and had a stake down. But as luck had it I met a man I had known a year ago. He took me into another town where I got a little money. I think if the boys would all tell one another right we would make more money, also have more open towns and cheaper towns. So, boys, let's type-write to help each other all we can, and, any time you are in Columbus come to see me; you are always welcome at my home, and can always depend on me telling you straight. I am informed by Dr. W. H. Spencer, that his young friend, Dr. Otto Hunter, who has been holding down Baltimore with his herbs and chaulers for the past year, is still on the job, also that he intends to get married this month."

WORLD'S FAIR SHOWS

Rock Falls, Ill., Sept. 22.—In about two weeks the World's Fair Shows will close the most successful season of their career and the equipment will be stored for the winter in some city close to Chicago. "The Sunny South" did not appeal to Manager Dodson this season.

Business at Davenport, last week, was not up to expectation, but it was far from a blooner. Four shows in two months seemed to be just about enough for the amusement loving public of that city and vicinity.

George Bennett and wife, who have had the "Honeymoon Trail" all season, left at Davenport to join the Zeidman & Pollie Shows in the South.

E. H. Taylor now has the "Honeymoon Trail," and supplied a complete new outfit, ready to open, in one hour and five minutes.

West Chicago is the next stand, under the auspices of the American Legion.—W. J. RHOE.

AERIALISTS' GOOD SEASON

New York, Sept. 23.—The Three Aerial Martins have had a very successful season, opening in Fall River, Mass. Decoration Day and have played a long list of dates from the South. Pat Dalton will give more weeks of fair dates before returning to New York. The Billboard is informed that for the season of 1920-'21 the Aerial Martins, casting set, will be operated together with the New Jersey Holding Company and also the Three Aerial Blondins. These two acts will be placed under the direction of A. "Blondin Marsh, general manager, and all acts will be booked from the home office, P. O. Box 154, Weehawken, N. J.

A CORRECTION

Chicago, Sept. 22.—The "Over the Falls" attraction with Wortham's World's Greatest Shows showed dynamic speed on the opening day at the Minnesota State Fair—in 31 seconds, he sustained the splendid sum of $1,000.32 in the one jay alone. In the last issue of The Billboard an error occurred which made it read that this sum was taken in on the week's stand.

What the "Falls" around besides the first day we don't know, but we think it was plenty, judging from the splendid start. Bill Rodgers, manager of the attractions, has written E. J. Kilmartin saying: "Has all the outcome like Labor Day business in Minnesota? I imagine it was the biggest day any of the 'Over the Falls' ever had."

H. T. FREED EXPOSITION DOING WELL IN ILLINOIS

Under Auspices of the American Legion, Engagement at Galena Draws Excellent Patronage and Monmouth Starts Satisfactorily—Advance Booking December Dates in the South

Fyeed Exposition, under the auspices of the Herman Fickhorn Post, American Legion, was held on Main street, Galena, streets to a highly growing attendance and patronage.

A 200-mile run over the C., B. & Q. Railroad brought the Exposition's special train to Monmouth, Ill., Sunday evening, and Trainmaster John White soon had everything moved to the Downer Circus grounds for the week engagement here, under auspices of the Marion H. Fletcher Post No. 136, American Legion, with Franz Ahlstrand, one of the best publicity directors this scribe has ever been associated with. Realizing that carnival festivities are conducive to attracting new members, the Legion has erected an official tent, wherein exercise men may sign up. The opening here at Monmouth was all that could be desired.

H. T. Freed's Exposition at present includes Charles Parmer's Athletic Arena, with Frank Ford and Frank Burns as headliners; Doc Hunt's Circus Side-Show, with commendable attractions, including glassblowers, tattooers, snake charmers, several new novelty illusions, marionettes and Punch and Judy; "Ferocious Bedouin" Show, with "soldiers of all nations," displaying silver wax models, dressed in correctly bright uniforms; "Underground Chinatown" display; "Zeida," sponsor Daisy "Honeymoon Trail," managed by Oscar Craig and "Red" Wilson, with Jack Freed is regarded as a masterminded builder and connoisseur of costly and elaborate "safety first" pleasure rides, this caravan has some of the largest, best and most expensive "tops of joy" to be operated on the road. "The Show of Merit" is the motto, and the biggest asset and most effective "boost" is the published announcement that none of those so-called "girl shows" are to be seen on a H. T. Freed Exposition midway, an always genteel and respectable place where the entire family can visit without any "indigo blue" feeling thereafter.

The business staff: H. T. Freed, manager; Charles F. Wetmuff, general agent; L. E. Dube, assistant manager; George W. Funt, secretary; H. E. (Pinch) Wheeler, press agent; Henry Rose, stage agent; Doc Blanchard, superintendent; John White, trainmaster; Louis Stone, concession manager, and John Tangi, "restaurant" manager.

Mr. Dube has returned from a visit to home folks in Texas, so Mr. Freed, relieved of doubtful duty, left for a business trip to St. Louis, accompanied by Charles Wetmuff, on his way South to close up some of the final December dates. The next stand is Canton, Ill., where the new Monkey Circus joins, also several concessioners.—PUNCH WHEELER.

JOHN T. McCASLIN SHOWS

John T. McCaslin's Pavilion Shows are now playing their fair dates with success and the members all seem happy. New shows and concessions are being added to the lineup, Little Roberta continues holding the crowds with her iron-jaw act, it being the free attraction. She has also put together one of the best snake shows that ever played fair dates. Andy Thumser made so much money that he recently paid his home a visit a la fast. The Peerless Shows hold contracts for the furnishing of attractions at the Illinois State Fair. The White Hill and Belaire Fairs yet to play and then South for the winter.—BOWEN.

UNIVERSAL'S NEW LAMP

New York, Sept. 23.—The Universal Electric Lamp Company, of Broad street, Newark, N. J., are putting out a new electric lamp that overcomes many of the faults and drawbacks of the ordinary makes. This lamp not only has unusual strength, which overcomes the vibration incident to what lamps must encounter with all traveling shows, or where they are fastened insecurely, but it also has many other features.

The "Raolite," as it is called, gives an unusually brilliant white light. It also reduces current fully 50 per cent.

BLESSINGER FINISHES

Chicago, Sept. 21.—E. G. Blessinger, general agent the A. T. Mansfield Shows, finished his season with that organization in Hastings, Mich., September 17. He was a Chicago visitor this week. Mr. Blessinger said he will go on a fishing trip for a week and then return to his home in Muncie, Ind. He will then begin preparing for the winter tour of an indoor circus in which he will be interested with Mr. Mulholland. The show will carry four cars.

Mr. Blessinger said the Mulholland Shows have done a satisfactory business during the season in Hartford, Mich., October 2, and go into winter quarters.

PATTERSON & KLINE SHOWS

Have Excellent Results at First Series of Fairs—Nebraska State Fair a Big One

The Patterson & Kline Shows' first fair of the season was at Broken Bow, Neb., where all shows and rides realized big receipts and the concessions all did big. Then came Pierce, Neb., at which fair business was more than satisfactory, considering the population and weather. Next came the big Nebraska State Fair at Lincoln.

Everything was ready at Lincoln for the grand opening Labor Day morning, and this date proved the largest opening day for the fair at Lincoln. Many pleasant visits were exchanged during the four days' stay at the fair of the Selig-Polyin Cirens. This was the second visit of the Patterson & Kline Shows to Lincoln. Speedy Bauers, assisted by his brother, Howard Bauers, and Miss Hazel, got top money with the motordrome, with Johnny Hatfield's Athletic Show second, and Bert Cash's "Musical Comedy" running the rides a close race for third honors. The "Whip," on the week, grossed over last season, beating the "Midnight Follies," and Herbert Smart's 150-ft. Twenty-in-one broke records. Winter Jaap made three pit shows of his usual 20th Century set of canvas, on account of space, and all three shows did big business, as did the "Dog and Pony" and "Smiles" Shows. Col. Moss' Wild West had an overflow waiting for the "next show." John Anghie had 34 concessions, making 70 furnished by Manager Kline. Herbert Jenkins, second man ahead, was kept busy contracting for seven juice stands.

The next stop was the Dawson County Fair at Lexington, which ranks as the second largest county fair in Nebraska, and with plenty of people, all with plenty of money to spend, at the close of this six-day engagement, the P. & K. Shows closed the first series of their fair dates with wonderful business.

At this writing the shows are en route to a still date at Paola, Kan., but it is being the caravan's "home town," a big night play is looked forward to, the Paola being one of the streets surrounding the square.

After Paola, the shows start their final string of fairs, which open with Nowata, Okla., then thru the oil belt of Oklahoma and Texas. With contracts up in the last week in November and Harry Norss still stepping for more, it looks like a winter in the "Sunny California" climate for this organization.

Mrs. Abner K. Kline is in Kansas City, at the bedside of her sister, Mrs. James Patterson of the Great Patterson Shows, who was recently operated upon. All are looking for the "bright smile" of the midway to rejuin at Paola.—AL W. BAILEY.

WORLD AT HOME SHOWS

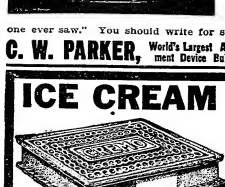
Chillicothe, O., Sept. 23.—The annual Fall Festival conducted by the merchants and farmers of this vicinity has been a big success. This event, staged for the first time since the war, has attracted more people to the city than in former years, and all promoters have benefited handsomely by the show. Merchants and exhibitors housed their products beneath long stretches of canvas, which lined the main thorofare, the streets having been turned over to the festival committee to stage the festivities. Free acts and band concerts were numerous, and the World at Home Shows supplied the attraction.

From present indications this date, as far as the shows are concerned, will come up to several fair engagements in midway receipts, as the attractions are being operated from morning until late at night, and the lanes of "wonderful" are always inhabited. William B. Evans, manager of Porter's Frank Amusement, has purchased a beautiful "Scaplane," which arrived in Chillicothe. With this addition to the lineup of riding devices, eight big rides will be presented at the Eastern Division Tennessee Fair at Knoxville, next week.—J. WILKINSON CROWTHER.

CLARK WITH HYATT

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Paul L. Clark, formerly general agent of the Russell Bros.' Shows, is now field manager for Hyatt's Booking Exchange. Larry Hyatt, who returned less than forty weeks of exclusive info time, told The Billboard that Mr. Clark is doing splendid work, and that he is increasing the time wonderfully.

"SUPERIOR MODEL" CARRY-US-ALLS



even discount the beautiful "SPECIAL MODELS" that have proven so popular in past years. SUPERIOR Model Carry-Us-Alls are the last word in perfection, studded with hundreds of special bevel-edge French Plate Mirrors and a multitude of electric lights. C. A. Wortham says of his new SUPERIOR model: "People from the East, West, North and South, as well as myself, all say it is the most beautiful electrically-lighted machine any one ever saw." RUBIN & CHERRY SHOWS

Started on String of Ten Consecutive Fairs

It's a little hard to realize that but a few weeks more and the big thirty-car Rubin & Cherry Shows will be stored away in winter quarters.

The shows started in their fair season with the Erie (Pa.) Exposition, being a jump of 400 miles, and right back over the same territory to Norristown, Pa., playing Norristown as a still week, and then opened their ten straight fairs with Wilmington, Del., on Labor Day. Erie, Pa., has a beautiful exposition grounds, but notwithstanding that the shows, rides and concessions were not laid out to the best advantage the show's gross receipts were bigger than any other season for that fair. The secretary informed the writer of a number of changes made next year in the general plan of locations. Norristown, under auspices of the Woodmen, was big, niftie the long jump and rain gave only four days' play. Wilmington, Del., was not quite up to the standard of State fairs. It was the stand last week end the caravan paid a visit to Reading was far in excess of any fair played last season. There were a number of visitors from Philadelphia during the date at Norristown. Philadelphia was the home of many encounters Gimberg in his earlier days, before he located at Montgomery, Ala., and each evening he entertained friends and relatives. Mr. Gimberg and his family drove to Philly almost every day in their new car.

Another long run to Roanoke, Va., where the shows are playing the fair this week. Because of a disabled engine, Friday at 10 a. m. Monday when the train pulled in. Trainmaster Sheppard had the train switched alongside the fair grounds and the "boys" worked hard nearly all night, so that Saturday, Sunday's Day, Josie Nagata's five rides opened at 10 a.m., and by noon, when the children commenced to come out, the ride alone had paid for itself. With good weather it looks like everybody will have a wonderful week.

The show is now carrying twenty-two paid attractions and about 120 concessions. Lynchburg (Va.) Fair for the week of September 27.—FRANK S. REED, Secy.

GREATER SHEESLEY SHOWS

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 22.—Yesterday (Tuesday) was the official opening of the Great Allentown Fair here, the the preceding Monday found the entire grounds ready for the first of the big crowds, as advertised. The Greater Sheesley Shows occupied the midway.

A goodly-sized crowd found its way into the grounds on Monday, where the midway attractions became the center of interest. Tuesday was children's day, bringing thousands of the future men and women of America, and their possible "helpmates" out to the grounds. It was a big day for the midway shows, the various exhibits and the free acts on the infield, altho the grandstand was not jammed, by any means, as was the case in other years, dominated; they whose fancies have not yet trended to sports. However, the band, barricaded circle of the infield is due to be well peopled, and the grand stand well filled, with the reserve seats practically taken from Wednesday to Saturday, on which latter day the auto races will be staged.

With the Greater Sheesley Shows now in Captain Brown's Submarine Show, opened with the caravan for the first time here at Allentown. It is proving a popular attraction, demonstrating the workings of the under water craft and the deep sea divers. Joseph Kulesus and Leila Indiana have joined "Brother Johnny" in the Hawaiian show, making the personnel of that outfit one that can offer the best in Hawaiian music and dancing. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barrett, concessioners, left for a week or ten days to see the home folks at Providence, R. I. Young "Johnny" Sheesley has relinquished his claim of ownership of ponies, and horses in deference to the priority of his second semester of 1920 at Notre Dame academy. Johnny left last week to resume his studies there. Frank Haines is now special on the Sheesley Motordrome, pretty clever, we say, and being well inspired by the experts, Olive Stager and Captain Hartley.—WILLIAM A. HAPP.

COREY GREATER SHOWS

The Corey Greater Shows played to excellent business at the Old Home Week celebration at Hoboken, N. J., good patronage being accorded all attractions and concessions. Carnival follows Haledon and the first days of the engagement give promise of a good stand. Several more concessions joined here, bringing the lineup of these up to forty-five. Paterson, N. J., is the next stop, and then a long jump to the Oakland, Cal., Fair.

"Smiling" Ben LaChapelle, who has four concessions with the show, has pinned his order for a white for spring delivery. John Gillice, of the advance, was taken suddenly ill with indigestion, and was sent home by general hoodoo pilot at Paterson. Harry Heliar, of the Acme Amusement Co., was a visitor at Haledon, and assisted that city has been his banner season. Other visitors were Ralph Pearson, of the Benson Shows, also J. King and H. W. Stanley. All complimented Mr. Corey on the appearance of his show. "Babyface" Nelson was the recipient of many gifts on the occasion of her first birthday anniversary. She is the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Henry, owners of the big Ell wheel, and the granddaughter of "Mat" Sullivan, the "Sheiker." The show will be augmented for the fair season and everybody is anxiously awaiting the start southward.—C. S. E.

DeVELL ASKS AID

The veteran showman, E. W. DeVell, whose address is care of the Poor Farm, Albany, Ga., writes that he is passing thru a bad sick spell and has an appetite for some things which he cannot obtain without funds, and would appreciate a few small contributions from showfolks.

CARNIVAL CARAVANS

By ALI BABA

"Missing Link"—an organization.

Detrimental—lack of co-operation.

"Which is 'Who'?" Ed Owens and Merle Kinsel.

"Balling the Jack"—several times recounting the doughnuts.

If money could "talk" some people's veracity would lose its prestige.

Many a man has been a loser because of his doubting and condemning a well-intended tip or suggestion.

When the bunch all go to their staterooms on Saturday night "broke," do the drivers take the wagons to the "flats"?

The newlyweds, Harry K. and Mrs. Devore, are playing fair dates in Kentucky with Chinese basket's and some other concessions.

From the present outlook, caravanites will sure try to do some "clean loading" in cash this winter, economy of space being an important factor.

The fall season again gives promise of making up for a lot of earlier lad months this year. Good business is reported from nearly all the fair engagements.

Frank J. Hingman was recent new arrival on the Smith Greater United Shows, and will take charge of George W. Howard's twenty-foot-long blanket wheel.

W. S. Cherry has entered wholeheartedly into the bazaar business, and there are very good prospects of the W. S. Cherry Bazaar Co. doing big things this fall and winter.

Rumor has it that Johnny Hays and "Talking Tom" Terrill have joined hands for a winter venture in the Southland, either a carnival or a wild West. Let's hear more about it.

Reports have it that Beatrice Dungan has contracted her balloon ascension as a free attraction at 50 second-story buildings, and she reports successfully finished her fair engagements in Kansas.

J. (Wilkie) Marbourg, who came, after a short visit to his home in Cincinnati, was last week preparing to start toward Dallas, Tex. He intended rejoining the Worthman Shows later at some point in the South.

Art Hill and wife (Mary) are now with the Majestic Exposition Shows. Art is with Capt. Eddy's Dog Circus, while the Missus is passing out the pasteboards at the ferris wheel. They joined the show several weeks ago.

A. E. Kullman, concessioner with the former Peace Exposition Shows, now the Martinez & Holcomb Shows, says Chinese baskets are sure going strong this season, and reports a big week at Lawrenceburg, Ind., for this novelty.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie O. Donogue were to leave Boston on September 25, by boat, for Jacksonville, Fla., for the winter months. Jimmie says he is feeling much better, but needs a good rest after his recent illness.

Word reaches us that the Johnny J. Kline offices will furnish all the attractions for the "Old Home Week" celebration at West New York, N. J., October 11-17, the location of the festivities being on the city playgrounds.

The Hoss-Hays United Shows want to know who has the record for marriages this season. One of the Reds, with that caravan writes: "We have had five, and we know of another fellow thinking of soon traveling in 'double harness.'" Boy, page Mr. Ventzell.

Hazel Rocco, former agent for the Zarra Monarch Shows, who deserted the racket to open a hooking office in the Gayety Theater Building, New York City, is visiting her husband, Ross W. Rocco, on the Campbell United Shows.

We are informed that Capt. W. K. Bernard, animal trainer with the Col. Francis Ferari Shows, and Kittie Francisous, a performer in the circus side-show with the same caravan, were married on September 8 at Oswego, N. Y.

Ira J. Watkins, presenting riders, male and female, had the honor of grossing more business at the Indiana State Fair than ever registered by any motordrome. Ira is a hustler, and his attraction of merit has been going big at the State Fairs.

Ben Rockford, concessioner, was a caller at The Billboard, Cincinnati, last week. Said he had the exclusive on Chinese baskets and blankets at the Moose celebration in Hamilton, O., and was in town to get a quick response to an order of stock.

'Tis said to be a fact: Concessioner told local doings committee that he would give them $200 for all concessions, and contracts were about to be signed when there shown up on the scene another roadman who told the committeemen (in broken English) he would give them $1,000 for ten wheels. And yet there are those who wonder why some committees ask so much for space at a "two-by-four" celebration.

C. P. Green, concessioner, suddenly popped into the Billyboy office in the Queen City last week announcing that he was then with North-Pole dates and was on his way "down South where the cotton blossoms grow," with a few stops in North Carolina, for the tobacco season.

Harry Renhen, of concession fame, with the Keystone Exposition Shows, had a little hard luck with the new auto he purchased recently, when he had a slight mishap with a trolley car in Richmond, Va. He and the Mrs. being shaken up and a banged up fender on the auto are said to be the result of the incident.

Happy Hi Hubbard postcards: "Aimee opened big business here (Dover, Del.). Fifty cents admission, with reserves at twenty-five cents extra. Private boxes (something new, under canvas, in the shows) later in the season. And here's Ali's wishes that the spirit of Buddha be ever with them.

Billy Sidell says: "Tell them to be sure to clean the location before they move, and pave the way for an easy entrance to those who follow their trail." Billy knows whereof he speaks, as he has quit the business and resides in a town in which a carnival played some time ago, and several complaints appeared in the local papers regarding the disgraceful manner in which the show left the lot on departure.

Harry Fogel, the well-known minstrel show manager, is slowly recovering from a very serious operation at the Research Hospital, Kansas City, Mo., where he has been confined for several weeks. Mrs. Fogel informs us that Harry expected to leave the hospital by September 25, and would appreciate hearing from his last carnival friends at his permanent address, 624 Nebraska avenue, Kansas City, Kan.

George Emanuel, who, with Mrs. Emanuel, is again playing independent dates with their concession (his answer), returned on a two days' business trip to their home in Cincinnati last week. They are now playing fairs and had just finished the event at Milford, Ind.; Gas City, Ind., being their next engagement. George said that never in his long experience has he seen so many concessioners as this season.

A. D.—Sorry, but Ali cannot ask thru the column for certain person or persons to write you, for which there is a very good reason. Would advise you write the party mentioned, care of the Billboard, and his name will appear in the Letter List, or use the "Personal" column (at very small cost) in the Classified Advertising Section. Exception to this rule in case of a death, sickness, or need of assistance.

E. L. (Dad) Richards and Edward T. Bolan, concessioners, rambled into Cincy last week on their way South. Richards, who last spring swung a new concession, which he claims a success, has been operating the greater part of the summer at Columbus and Hamilton, O. Bolan has been working various concessions thru the Middle West. Said they were goin' down there to see that the folks picked the cotton properly.

Frank M. Brown, who has been out of the carnival business since 1918, when he was on the advance of the Parker Shows, and has been in the auto truck game for some time, migrated from Ranger, Tex., oil fields to El Paso to manage his company's branch office in that city. Frank writes that he has been appointed manager of amusements for a big military and manufacturers' exhibition to be staged there by the Chamber of Commerce October 4-9.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. (Dad) Straley have been making independent fair dates with their concessions, including soft drinks, cigaret shooting gallery and kewpie wheel. They report an excellent week at Gaiax, Va., and worked at Johnson City, Tenn., last week, with Rome, Ga., to follow. "Dad" opines that it is easier to pass thru life with a few worries and nice profits than to wrangle with the cares of a caravan manager, and the ledger balancing on the right side—sometimes.

In a recent issue of an exclusive movie weekly publication the following was contained in an article adverse to carnival interests—the first Ali has noticed to speak so openly in an article of this nature: "Determined effort is being made by the Better Business Bureaus of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World to weed out the parasite and dishonest, fly-by-night merchants. As yet no concerted effort has been initiated for the something of the more dangerous carnival company."

The editors of some small town papers admit that the people must have outdoor amusement (along with their patronizing the local merchants), but intimate that the communities should have parks for this purpose. Wonder how much it costs to operate a small town park, with a band, shows, rides and other attractions—and where the continued patronage required for its upkeep would come from, and how long it would be before the natives would yell for a "new administration"?

Al S. Cole, of the World at Home Shows, has been establishing some records in the promotion field. Al holds the honors of promoting the largest automobile contest in Hamilton, Ont., and Flint, Mich., that has ever been successfully put over in those cities by any carnival agent. Al claims that his promotion in Flint, Mich., where the World at Home Shows will return next year, the coming week will eclipse all previous efforts. Go to it, Al; it's the hustler that gets the results.

Reports reached us last week that the Rubin & Cohen Shows played to the biggest business in the history of the organization at Reading (Pa.) Fair, and right on the heels of this came another, by Ali's "wireless," that while in that city Shelt Grayce, a member, invested about ten grand in diamonds. Frank Reed, secretary for the shows, was exhibiting a fine diamond and the Mrs. Reed, Grayce and even the old veteran, Adolf Seeman, now sports a 2½-karat solitaire, and one of the most beautiful ever seen.

A duo of erstwhile carnivalites, consisting of Thos. Alton, formerly general agent the Metropolitan Shows, now general representative Kibble's Comic Tom Show, and F. W. Egner, formerly with Tom Fox's Exposition Shows, spent a couple hours at The Billboard office September 23 while in Cincinnati on business. Egner (last reported as agent with Ringling Bros' Brown Minstrels and after attaching to a few details "has to leave town to do one nite stand like position with Virginia Lewis & Company, a one-night musical comedy organization.

The fifteen-in-one show, under the management of Capt. W. K. Sawyer, with Gold Medal Shows, is said to be a fine collection of attractions, the same including Miss Flame, doing Dagma" Illusion; Madam Iris, the Lady of Mystery; Marcco, Jr., Wonder Man; "Atlanta," Circle lady—out of the ordinary; "Stella" and "Leopina," Eye Level award illusion; "Fire King," Jonkay Boy, Frank Fox, Human Human; Cosso, holds three baseballs in his mouth; three Alton, Human Human; Jos. Dale and his workers, and Capt. Sawyer, in handcuff and bottles, ropes, Chinese and cabinet escapes, and his sword replacement act. Berle Haskins has the front, with E. Willfong selling tickets.

The Billboard is originating another news department, under the heading of "BAZAAR-LAND." Under this head notes of interest bearing on "Indoor Circuses," "Indoor Carnivals," "Museums," "Bazaars," etc., will appear weekly. News of this nature has heretofore been published in the regular carnival columns, but the growing popularity of this branch of amusements, especially during the winter season, as well as the augmented number of events of this kind being staged, and the prospects of them becoming general thruout the country, makes it necessary that "Bazaarland" have its own special representation in The Billboard. It starts in this issue and will be enlarged upon in issues to follow.

"Mr. Pessimist"—All can give you a list comprising many, many exhibitions and riding devices with carnivals—mechanical, electrical, educational, interesting, purely moral, of high entertainment value—well worth the price charged to enjoy them. To mention the in this column would be to advertise certain cases, as many might be missed in the shuffle, but without any such intent here's just a couple—for your approval: How many kiddies and grownups would die of old age, without seeing a deep-sea diver? Would it be worth it if were not for Capt. Louis Socobo's exhibition? How about the beautiful LaRose Electric Fountain? These are old standbys, and there are many newer ones, and more coming—granting that we need them.

Beverly White tells it: "Daredevil" Campbell, the aviator, and Fred C. Beckmann, manager Worthman's Wild West Shows, met last New Year week, when the company was in Phoenix, Ariz. There the flyer was the guest of the shows. Whether or not he was bluffing when he offered to take Beckmann up at the close of the Topeka Fair is a question. When he offered the trip at Topeka Mr. Beckmann accepted. The aviator and showman went about 2,000 feet above the race track. These flights were accompanied by the Bustle (or spins) and nose dives to within a few hundred feet of the ground and then circled to make a perfect landing with the carnival manager. Thousands watched the ride, and as Mr. Buckman stepped from the machine he was photographed by a newspaper man on the grounds.

Have you noticed that in the majority of cases it is either a merchant or "conscientious" worker for the "community's welfare" who never sees merit in any carnival attraction in statements in local papers? All claims there is real merit and entertainment in many attractions with carnivals, altho he admits there should be many more of them, and the outdoor pleasure-seeking public looks at it in the same light. And he who would "condemn a whole piece of machinery because a few wheels need fixing" loses the force of his argument with those of "purchasing" interest, who would not so openly expose their prejudice, but instead would encourage the replacing of worn out "parts" where they are needed. In other words, a large majority of the people, everywhere, need and seek wholesome outdoor recreation, and of the carnival variety, and if the attractions are clean they will have them, regardless of unjust opposition.

Alyne Potter, prima donna with Wortham World's Best Shows, is a mighty tickled woman. Mrs. W. E. Groff, wife of the concessioner, has decided to name her little daughter after the singer. Now the lady and the mother vie with each other in taking care of the little one. Another little one on the show that is the ward of all the "family" is the daughter of Dan Meggs and wife. It is said the little one, only five months old, has developed a hearty laugh that can be heard across the midway. By the way, the "boys" on Wortham Shows never forget Tony Thanez, who was born on the twenty-second day of September. Last year Tony received a handsome gold chain. This season he was surprised when a Hutchison, Kan., jeweler walked in and measured his finger for a handsome ring, bearing the design of the B. P. O. Elks. And again, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hinkins gave their boys a visit this summer. The trio spent two weeks with their parents on the show. To give them a touch of real show life Tom started them at the business in a businesslike way. They were ticket-takers at different shows.

A few "Do You Remembers?":

When Reckless Russell and "Cotton Top" Hatcher had a carnival?

When Ed Heaston showed Brownsville, Tex., opening Xmas day?

When Dana Thompson had his carnival, and did the dive?

When Sig. Frisco was doing his aerial free act?

When Hi Wallace was a high diver?

When J. Ryan was doing his slide for life, and missed—he backsted in Cushing, Ok.?

When Joe Maloney, with only an arm and a leg on one side, was his high dive with the Ed Heaston Shows? (Maloney now has a newsstand in Cincinnati—Alh)

When Al Gragnik was a balloon rider, and was credited with the first "double jump" in Stockton, Cal.?

When Nat Reiss showed Angel Camp, Cal., and the train he used?

When Danville and Kasper had the Lone Star Carnival Co.?

When "Slim" May almost was a carnival manager in Arizona?

When "Jersey" had a cookhouse?

When Chas. Martin first framed the Frisco Shows, and how many were on the trick?

When Gronke had to wait on the Fire Department to take him off the church steeple, where his chute landed him—Morgan, Tex.?

When Geo. Proctor and "The Twins" had a carnival?

And many more of the old bunch—but those were the happy days, eh?

WORTHAM'S WORLD'S BEST

At the Kansas State Fair

Concluding a long run from the Topeka (Kan.) Free Fair, the big Clarence A. Wortham World's Best Shows rolled into the State Fair grounds at Hutchinson before dark Sunday, and at once began unloading. The grounds were thronged when the shows arrived, and the sight of trains feeding them to the big reservation was watched with interest until late at night.

Monday morning found the big caravan in the last stages of preparation, and Monday evening everything was ready to open. The trains brought extra cars, which were provided for the transportation of Col. Meagr' Wild West Show, which was added at Topeka. Two of the cars carried a fine bunch of "outlaw" horses, while a passenger coach was provided for the cowmen and rough riders.

The Kansas State Fair opened under the most auspicious circumstances. Everything here last year was on hand this season, but it was almost lost with the annihers of other new attractions added. One of these is "Over the Falls," Dan Meggs, monager of the ride, proved himself some promoter. He saw a flywheel on a manual tractor spinning around and a happy thought hit him—why was it not to the mutual interest of the tractor man and himself to show how the tractor could be used in emergency? Dan took the tractor man into the idea, and the little machine was installed to furnish power to run "Over the Falls." And Dan at once set about overhauling his regular engine.

The visit of the shows was a kind of "homecoming" to Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bergman and Mrs. Harry Brown, concessioners. Hutchinson is Mrs. Brown's home. Last year the Bergmans were with the Wortham Shows. So the two visitors and "home folk" enjoyed a pleasant week with the big company.—BEVERLY WHITE.

GREATER ALAMO SHOWS

One of the most unusual sights ever seen on a carnival lot was witnessed on Monday at Vancouver, when a crowd of children and grown-ups braved a continual, heavy rain to attend the Vancouver, B. C., fair, and practically insisted that the various Greater Alamo Shows' attractions open and provide amusement for the visitors. Through the day and evening rain fell in great quantities. It was Children's Day and they did not let the rain spoil their pleasure. Show after show opened and then the whip and Ferris wheel. Thru the downpour the kiddies and elders rode and treked from attraction to attraction, eager to spend their money for amusement. Portlanders have nothing on Vancouverites when it comes to enjoying outdoor amusements while rain falls in torrents.

It has been arranged that the Greater Alamo should exhibit in Vancouver during the three pre-fair days. Rain prevented this and also prevented opening on the first days of the exhibition. Wednesday was the scheduled big day. Business was entirely suspended and arrangements had been made to care for a greater crowd than one year ago. Tuesday night the heavens opened and at night a heavy rain was still falling, with no signs of abatement.

Rain has been a constant visitor with the Greater Alamo since the fair dates started at Centralia, Wash. The Washington State Fair at Yakima follows Vancouver, with the Oregon State Fair at Salem next. General Agent Harry F. Hofer is expected on the show daily and will announce the four California dates that follow Albany, Oregon, on the route to the Arizona State Fair at Phoenix. General Manager H. M. Waugh continues to improve rapidly and now personally directs company details. The airplane, recently secured by Waugh & Hofer, was sold to an aero company.—O. M. CASEY.

GLOTH GREATER SHOWS

After a successful two weeks' stand at Ambridge, Pa., Gloth's Greater Shows moved overland to Rochester, Pa., where despite bad weather conditions the entire show opened on Monday night.

The new ride, the "Seaplane," which joined at Ambridge, is making a big hit with the people of Rochester. The Athletic Show, under the management of Steve Fassen, is a drawing card and many fine matches are pulled with the local "champions." Frank Yeomans is manufacturing more ice in this town and is certainly pleasing the folks of this town with his troupe of fancy figure skaters. John Smith, in charge of the carousel, met with an accident while repairing the lighting system. He is now recovered. Robert Gloth has had some fine spots booked around Pittsburg, and is confident these stands will produce big results.—KID FOX.

JOHN FRANCIS SHOWS

The John Francis Shows played their first week in Oklahoma at Nowata, and if all spots to follow in the State are as good the members of this caravan have a good fall season ahead of them.

Needless to the preceding week, was very good, considering weather conditions. Bartlesville, Ok., follows Nowata under the auspices of the American Legion. Two new shows joined at Nowata and "Babe" Francis, late of the Veal Bros. Shows, has joined with two concessions. The lineup of concessions consists of Billie Richards, with six; H. W. McDaniels, four; George Atkins, four; Joe Rigley, Harry Crown, Ed Snapp and "Bloody" Tutt, one each.—H. W. S.

FIELDS GREATER SHOWS

The J. C. Fields Greater Shows played Odell, Ill., on Monday and Tuesday, and on Thursday, Friday and Saturday exhibited at Lexington, Ill., all in the same week. This made four separate celebrations for the show in two weeks. At Odell all the concessions ran out of stock. Lexington was also good, as was the show's stand at Ashland, Ill. Cowtver, with dolls, and Watts, with pitch-till-you-win, both of the Clifton-Kelley Shows, joined at Odell. This caravan will play a few more dates in Illinois, then a long jump South.—J. J. FRANK.

HARRY H. HARGRAVE, who has the Submarine Show and Hawaiian Show on Worthan's World's Best Shows, left the shows at Topeka, Kan., Sunday, September 19, and ran into Kansas City for the day, leaving here Monday night, September 20, to rejoin the shows at Hutchinson, their next stand, and where they showed for the big Hutchinson Fair the week of September 20, playing Oklahoma City week of September 27 and then Muskogee. Mr. Hargrave, who was in the city to obtain Hawaiian singers and dancers, was a very welcome caller at the Kansas City Office of The Billboard. He is very enthusiastic about this Worthan Show, saying he had been with them four years and during that time they had been constantly making improvements and new features until now its title, "World's Best Show," is well deserved.

AL G. BARNES made a brief trip to K. C. last week spending September 17 "in one midst." Mr. Barnes came here for the purpose of purchasing some more new wagons from the Heggs Wagon Co., the "circus wagon builders," whose reputation for the best is well known to the show world. Everyone enjoys Mr. Barnes' visits, and we are always glad to see him.

MR. SINOTT, of the Yankee Robinson Shows, was another Kansas City visitor, putting in a busy day here September 14, buying wagons, cages and equipment for the shows for next season. He also bought a camel from the Swope Park Zoo and shipped it to the shows playing at Abilene, Kan.

PAULINE HUNTLEY, the beautiful Kansas City girl connected with the "Follies De Vogue" at Electric Park, this summer, immediately at the close of the season, was taken to Saint Josepha Hospital, suffering from intestinal trouble, and there an operation was performed which confined Miss Huntley to the hospital for three weeks. She is now convalescing nicely and has been removed to her home, 1221 E. East Tenth street and here her devoted mother is giving her every attention. But Miss Huntley wishes to ask her friends in the city to come to see her, and those outside the doors to her bear from them. Will probably spend the winter here and not go back to vaudeville as she planned.

F. B. WILLIAMS, who managed the ferris wheel at Electric Park this past summer, has just secured full ownership of the hotel at 725 Main street, now known as the Williams Hotel and plans to spend the winter here. Mr. Williams says his hotel caters particularly to showfolk, as he is an oldtime showman, having been with some of the "big ones," carnival companies. Look up Mr. Williams when in K. C.

J. L. KOONTZ became a benedict Thursday, September 16, marrying on that day in Kansas City at the Court House Miss Leonora A. Becker, a Kansas City girl, but a non-professional. Mr. Koontz is a singer in vaudeville and also has been with some of the carnival companies. He says he is leaving the stage permanently, and is employed here now. Mr. Koontz was professionally known as John Malsat, and his address is care of the Kansas City Office of The Billboard. Hearty good wishes, Mr. and Mrs. Koontz.

THE SONORA GRAND OPERA COMPANY, playing at the Grand Theater the week of September 27, in operatic repertoire, made the performances of Monday and Tuesday nights, "Rigoletto" and "Il Trovatore," respectively. "Rigoletto" performance, the proceeds of the entire house for these two nights being donated to the sufferers in the Italian earthquake. H. Siefert Smith, manager of this company, arranged the benefit, and it is due to his able management that the affair had the success it merited. The Dubinsky Bros. are the new owners of the Grand and doing everything to please the patrons.

J. K. SHERLOCK is again treasurer of the Grand Opera House. Mr. Sherlock is one of the best known and most popular theatrical men in this city and has been connected with the theaters here for longer than we care to mention. We first knew him in the days of Old Gillis Theater when the Al Woods melodramas held full away. Later he was with the Grand Opera House. We are glad to welcome him back.

SCHNITZ SEYMOUR and his "Midnight Follies" commenced a season of musical comedy at the Gillis Theater Sunday, September 19. Everything was in readiness and went off well. Mr. Seymour had the Gillis completely cleaned and painted. It looks spick and span now, and Kansas Citians who said the Gillis could not come back are surprised at the class of shows Mr. Seymour is offering. We are wishing Mr. Seymour luck and good will in his new venture.

CYRUS JACOBS AND BEN PORTMAN, manager and assistant manager of the Globe Theater, popular home of popular vaudeville, have just announced a very interesting change in their future program. Commencing Thursday night, September 23, only Paramount feature pictures will be shown. All short reels will be thrown out, and these feature five-reel pictures running 52 minutes will be presented. This change in pictures will in no way interfere with the regular vaudeville bills of six acts.

THEATRICAL CIRCLES in Kansas City were treated to a sensation last week when an Oklahoman named Harry Smedley breezed into town and announced that he had all the money in the world and was going to organize the best and fastest tab. show ever. He engaged Tex Gillis, a well-known blackface comedian, before coming to town and immediately got the agents here busy planning his show. Everything moves swimmingly for about four days. About fifteen people were engaged, rehearsals taking place, etc., but when the show was ready to move the discovery was made that "all the money in the world" had diminished so rapidly that there was none left to lift the wardrobe, pay the urgent or buy the tickets, and the start was postponed from Saturday morning to night, then to Sunday morning and finally Sunday night, when the people began to "smell a rat," deserted, and the said Smedley left without his show.

HALL-ROBY SHOWS

After an all summer's grind thru the Northwest States the Hall-Roby Shows are back in Kansas, headed South. The Northwest was not as good as in former years. However, the management says they have a goodly sum on the right side of the ledger and it did the work. "Kick" coming. Several old showmen joined at Bancroft, Neb. Among them were Link Crossman, with three concessions, and George Westerman with two. While at Carthage, S. D., Mrs. Westerman received news of the death of her mother at Henderson, Ky., and immediately left to attend the funeral. She rejoined the show at Remsen, Ia.

J. H. Roby visited the Brundage Shows at Council Bluffs, Ia., a nice, clean outfit, says J. H. During the Centerville, S. D., engagement Messrs. Hall and Roby sold their swing to Messrs. Bark and Sallis, of Graceville, Minn. The "Cabaret" outfit was also sold to the same parties.

It begins now to look as tho the Wild West was a reality for next season. While at Carthage, S. D., Hall and Roby purchased six head of wild horses, which have been shipped to winter quarters. Genesee Agent Doc Hall caught the show on the run from Omaha to Kansas, shook hands all around and he heard the call of the South, said goodby and was gone.

Chief Johnnie Butler, full-blooded Sioux Indian, has joined the Athletic Show. The Chief attracts a great deal of attention from the natives when he appears in his full Indian regalia and war paint. The Chief's wife also will be connected with the show, meeting lady wrestlers. Show folks are coming and going so fast that it is almost impossible to get the names of arrivals and departures. Doc Hall is everybody's friend and is "the office and register."

The management has announced that the season will last for a few weeks yet, but no long winter tour will be made this year.—JUANITA HINSON.

GREAT PATTERSON SHOWS

Go Big at Taylorville, Ill.

Taylorville, Ill., Sept. 23.—The Great Patterson Shows are furnishing the attractions here for the Royal Order of Moose Fall Festival. Business thus far has been the greatest ever done in Taylorville by the Patterson Shows, which speaks a lot, as this is the twelfth time James Patterson has entertained Taylorville people with his attractions.

Mr. Patterson returned today from Kansas City. He reports the operation on Mrs. Patterson a success, and that she will soon be out again. The band, directed by Prof. E. D. Stroud, has done some notable extras in Taylorville. By special request of prominent citizens a big concert was given Sunday afternoon in a large steel auditorium in the City Park, where the shows are located. Today the band acted as an escort in a funeral procession, the deceased being Mayor Thomas J. Downey, an intimate friend of Mr. Patterson. Mayor Downey was known as a great friend to all showmen and was a bandmaster for several years. Harry C. Mohr's Circus Exposition Shows being located at Bulpitt, only seven miles distant, people on both shows have exchanged visits. Among those of the Patterson Shows at Bulpitt were E. V. Yeoust, Eddie Hall, Kid Evans, George Kitchen, J. Grinnell and Carl Cox, and from the Mohr Shows here were Harry C. Mohr, Chas. Powell, Jack Irwin and W. C. Brown.

Carl Cox, treasurer, came near losing his mascot, "Camelia." The terrier ate a bad "playmate" for the cub lions, but was rescued in the nick of time.

"Tom," one of the big bulls, drank too much water Sunday, that happened to contain a quantity of soda potash. Keeper George Kitchen gave the sick one a dose of medicine (one-half gallon of castor oil) and had it did the work. This dose cost "Jim" Patterson $1.00. Jim Barbre, boss hostler, attended a family reunion here. His daughter, Mrs. Trimble, of Cheyenne, Wyo., who he had not seen for 15 years, was at the home of Jim's wealthy uncle, John Barbre. "Kid," Evans, cookhouse, talked several hours over old times with Jack Irwin, of the Mohr Shows. They were on the Patterson Shows two years ago. Ruben La Monte, who with his wife does the "rube" acts on the shows, won a ball player on the Taylorville, Eastern Illinois League, team in 1905. He says he came near cousins the teams hitched to the band wagon to make a "run." He and his wife ride in an old rickety buggy behind an old skate, and they pulled in ahead of the band, which caused a commotion. Grinnell's boxing midgets continue to be the big noise in the circus side-show. V. J. Yeoust entertained forty-five small people at the show Tuesday evening.—CYRUS D. SIMPSON.

CENTRAL STATES EXPOSITION

The Central States Exposition exhibited under the auspices of members of the City Council at Calhoun, Ga. The "City Fathers" guaranteed a special location at the fair grounds, adjoining the fair grounds, which are right in the city. On Saturday evening an unsolicited testimonial was presented to Mr. Finfold, endorsing the attractions and the people connected with the organization. The auditorium, which has been under repair at Chattanooga, is ready for delivery and telegraph instructions have been sent for delivery to be made at once. The private car is specially designed, as it will accommodate the executive staff, and has been renovated for occupation. In all six cars will be added, which will increase the equipment to ten cars.

Fairs will now be in line after Covington, Ga., week of September 20, and everybody is looking forward to a very successful close, as the cotton crop is of the best, and the people have the "necessary" to spend. The new canvas front and the replica that lost during the storm at Somerset has arrived, and the new spreads look good on the midway. Mr. Keenger was a visitor and reports good business.—MARTIN.

CHINA FLOODS

Chicago, Sept. 22.—A. F. Sheahan, of the Ataint-a Novelty Company, shows The Billboard a communication this week stating that floods in China had played havoc with the shipment of dolls, as well as other commodities commonly shipped to the United States. Mr. Sheahan feared and believed, he said, that the delay will not be of long duration.

W. S. CHERRY BAZAAR AND EXPOSITION COMPANY

Organization Being Launched for Promotion and Production of Mostly Indoor Events—Season Booked Until April, 1921—Opens Near Cincinnati—Second Company a Possibility

W. S. Cherry will this season launch the W. S. Cherry Bazaar and Exposition Co., to promote bazaars, indoor circuses, fashion shows and expositions.

Mr. Cherry has for several seasons contemplated entering the indoor game upon a large scale, and he has the reputation that when he does a thing it must be done right or not at all. The organization under Mr. Cherry's management will be the most complete, in every detail, ever attempted, according to information furnished, and his long association with the amusement-loving public has shown him what the people want, and no expense will be spared to furnish it for them. He has surrounded himself with a capable staff of assistants, who have had years of experience in their respective branches. Two special cars are to be carried to transport the paraphernalia, which is most elaborate, according to those who have visited the spacious quarters, where carpenters and painters are at work, under the direction of W. H. Stevens, concession manager, building booths and making beautiful designs for decorating purposes. It is further announced that thousands of dollars' worth of bunting has been purchased, as the company intends carrying everything complete, also that as the company owns all its concessions, with the most reliable agents procurable, only the best merchandise will be disposed of on any concession.

Joseph Miller, secretary and treasurer, who has been at the New York office of the company since it opened, has transferred to the Cincinnati office, where he will handle his part of the business until the opening. Harry E. Bonnell will be in charge of promotions, with four assistants. Betty Jordon, popular and accomplished soprano soloist, has been engaged for the season, in addition to five free acts. An orchestra of nine pieces, each member a soloist, with as a feature Spanish music by Latins exclusively. All time has been booked solid until April, 1921, thru the Middle West and South.

The season opens for the present organization the first of October, near Cincinnati, and from the present outlook the W. S. Cherry Co. is a success from the start.

Reports also have it that Mr. Cherry is in receipt of many requests for engagements and that it would not be surprising if a "number two" company would be organized in the very near future.

KANE PROMOTING EVENT

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—James P. Kane, well and favorably known as a promoter of high-class events, is in charge of the promotions for the big carnival being held on the main streets of South Philadelphia, in aid of the building fund of St. Alojsius Catholic Church, 26th and Tasker street. The location of the carnival grounds is ideal, occupying an entire city block between Morris and Tasker street on 26th street. There are twenty-five concessions in charge of members of the committee appointed by the members of the parish. One of the big features of the carnival are the baby parades held on Saturday, September 17, for the infants under one year of age, and on Saturday, September 25, for the youngsters between one and three years of age. A big Queen contest is being promoted by Mr. Kane. The crowning of the Queen will be held on next Saturday evening, the closing night of the event.

This will be Mr. Kane's last outdoor event of the season, as he intends to spend the next several weeks in getting ready for the indoor bazaar season. Mr. Kane has tried out a new scheme this season in several of his outdoor affairs, in having the concessions handled by committees of the organizations for whom the events have been promoted, and has found the method very successful. The same method will be used in several of the indoor events to be promoted during the coming winter.—SLIM.

Tommy Hayes and Co. were the free attraction. Sixty-two concessions played the event. Mrs. Campbell had a remunerative program promotion on the show.

PASS CITY CARNIVAL

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 24.—Return of peace to Mexico forms one of the principal reasons for the big celebration to be held in this city under the name of the International Exposition, Military Carnival and Buyers' Week, October 4 to 8, inclusive. Invitations have been issued to the governors of neighborhood States, as well as to the president of Mexico and governors of the Mexican border States, to attend the celebration.

A military carnival at Fort Bliss, preceded by a spectacular military parade in the downtown streets, will occupy the first two days of the exposition. A program of military events, including a night illuminated military show, is being arranged by Brig. Gen. R. L. Howze, commander at Fort Bliss. On the remaining four days the exposition proper, to be held at Liberty Hall and in the city streets adjoining, will be the center of attraction. There will be a cotton carnival, a poultry and rabbit show, and exhibits from the mining industry, agriculture, manufactures, jobbing houses, retail merchants, educational institutions and Southwestern Fairs. The Mexican exhibit will be a special attraction.

Amusements will be a leading feature. There will be concerts by local bands, military bands from Fort Bliss and Mexican military bands. Big vaudeville acts will be secured. The "Overland Trail" will be a street filled with the choicest amusements. Everybody in El Paso and Juarez is working for the success of the exposition.

H. W. CAMPBELL SHOWS

Ardmore, Ok., Sept. 22.—The H. W. Campbell United Shows are playing a carnival date this week after the first string of fairs, Oklahoma, last week, was a real "red letter" stand. In fact, reports from the show, rides and concessions show that last week was the biggest success of the season; more gross business than any two other weeks, and that is saying a great deal, as Campbell's United has had some wonderful big business this season. In addition, Mr. Campbell's race horses ran in first money each day. They are now playing other fairs on the Oklahoma Circuit, "Uncle" Jim Conklin, Paddy and a few other concessions left to join the Famous Broadway Shows at Altoona, Pa. General Agent Harry Potter is visiting the show this week and has contracts for some of the best spots in Texas, which will carry this organization up to Xmas. Star, the famous talker, is now making openings at Charlie Williams' Big Show. Earl's Side-Show joined Jack Orck with a nice lineup of attractions. After the loss in the recent fire, the band boys took fine in their new suits, "Whitey" Austin, the top money show, is getting a close race with Vernon's Motordrome. The Steins children have left for school. Many new concessions joined this week, making 65 in all. Tom, the lot man, has his hands full, as these folks, desiring everyone satisfactory; however, the lot looks fine. Owing to the writer's health he is leaving for Los Angeles, after the Ft. Worth date. His engagement with the Campbell Shows has been very agreeable.—HARRY LaBREQUE.

"RANDOM RAMBLES"

By WILLIAM JUDKINS HEWITT

Gypsies on a carnival lot equal trouble continuously.

A carnival is something one does not expect for the price of admission.

The reason many get no place is because they stick to the same old rut season after season.

W. H. Middleton suggests this title for a carnival, "Amusements on the Lot." Yes, verily; just one is far better than many now in use.

We will now "bill" and build the shows. The latter is no good unless you do the former. What use has one for a razor if he lets a barber shave him?

A prominent concessionaire said recently: "I would rather have my pan game then to own a whole carnival organization." We replied: "And they call themselves SHOWMEN."

The only way out is to raise the standard. There are some things on the lots and under canvases that have no more right to be termed "amusements" than a circular saw has use for rubber teeth.

Ed Wynn has a musical comedy called "Ed Wynn's Carnival." We suggest that men and women of the outdoor show world see this show. This is one "carnival" that no towns or cities will be "closed" to.

George H. Hamilton, former carnival, park, Wild West and exposition showman, is one of the factors in the motion picture business now. His card reads: "Monkey Business. "Son of Tarzan"—office, "11th Tree." Quite novel we should say.

Now is the time to make preparations for the getting of attractions for season 1921. Do it while your show is in motion. Not when the season is over, and surely you will not wait until a few weeks before the next one is to open. Now is the time—not then.

W. C. Fleming is a real general agent. Many want to know how he does it. That's easy. He studies conditions surrounding his business and governs his activities accordingly. He knows his business and attends to it. That's all there is to it in a "nutshell."

C. Frank Stillman, the designer and chief of construction of Columbia Park, North Bergen, N. J., has had enough offers to build parks since he finished this one to keep him busy for at least twenty years. So you see, it did not hurt Mr. Stillman to build a good park, which Columbia is.

John Wendler, the hustling selling agent of the Allan Herschell Company, Inc., of North Tonawanda, N. Y., was in New York recently looking for "wild merry-go-round horses." After looking at the orders for carousels he had on his books there's no wonder he said "wild merry-go-round horses."

Carnival Owners and Managers—You are not fooling anyone but yourselves by not publishing your routes. If the location of a show of any kind is really wanted it can be obtained. What's the secret—you ask? Ah, that's the secret. You can not hide a train of cars, George, big boy.

Nellie Revelle was not forgotten by the outdoor showmen. Think of it, about two-thirds of the money collected for her fund came from the outdoor show folks. Nellie Revelle will not be forgotten by those of the lots, as she is affectionately known to them as "Nell o' the Lots." May the divine one hasten her return to health is the wish of all emphatically.

C. P. Farrington, the circus general agent, tells this one: "I was up in Nova Scotia this summer and called on a Mayor to see about a license for a circus. Instead of talking to his honor a noise was heard which was of an unusual sound to the officers, so everyone ran out of the office to see what was going on. Investigation proved that a force pailing had fallen off and the owner of the property was nailing it back. Further inquiry brought the information that this was the first nail that had been driven in the town in 81 years. I then again asked the Mayor what he said the fee per day would be, and he said $200." There was a big laugh coming over me, so I immediately ran to the hotel and checked out "without even as much as saying 'so long'."

"What? A carnival? Get out of my office." There will be a day when this will be the reception: "Do you represent a carnival? Come right in; take that chair; have a good cigar. What are your very lowest terms to play our city? Am glad you came. The city Council has been trying for several years to get you to play our city, as you know, Mr. General Agent."

Charles Andress, of Great Bend, Kan., has learned the art of real living. After circusing, doing magic and other things in show business in general, he returned to a farm to reap the reward of an ideal he had harbored in his mind during all the trials and tribulations and successes of his varied career "on and off the lots." A farm, real estate and U. S. bonds are his assets in plenty. Good luck to you, C. A., farmer-showman, Great Bend, Kan.

Ethel Robinson, E. F. Carrutters and Fred M. Barnes—May we solicit your co-operation in putting over one concession, known as "The Street CHAUTAUQUA"? The writer will be pleased to submit the original plan as submitted to the Liberty Loan Committee in New York, which was heartily endorsed by Coy Emerson, of the Chase National Bank, who was at the time head of the Liberty Loan Publicity Bureau.

ZEIDMAN & POLLIE SHOWS

Playing Fine String of Southern Fairs

The Zeidman & Pollie Exposition Shows are touring the South with their second annual tour and are now exhibiting at the East Tennessee Fair at Sweetwater. The shows are doing a very fine business, as it is the largest organization that has ever been seen at this fair. The shows arrived on Sunday from Maryville, Tenn., where they finished a very big week's business under the auspices of the American Legion. This was one of the so-called "closed" towns, but the Legion had no difficulties in placing the shows on lots. The people were well patronized. Every business house in Maryville closed on Tuesday afternoon for Coy Emerson, of the Chase National Bank, who was at the time head of the Liberty Loan Publicity Bureau.

From here the Zeidman & Pollie Exposition goes to the People's Agricultural Fair at Salisbury, N. C., with the Northeast Georgia Fair, at Gainesville, Ga.; the North Georgia Fair, at Rome; Early County Fair, Blakely, Ga., and the Colquitt County Fair, Moultrie, Ga., to follow.

While playing Knoxville, Tenn., Colonel Littleton had an operation on his eye performed, which greatly benefited him. The Colonel has now fully recovered his eyesight and is able to resume his performances with his Society Horse Show, featuring "Lady Pancho."

General Agent Felix Blei visited the Exposition Shows in Knoxville, and reported that the season is booked solid, with all railroad contracts made. He left for Rome, Ga., to help advertise the fair at that place, and also the other fairs that are to be played by this organization.—ROLLAND.

CANADIAN VICTORY SHOWS

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 23.—Victor L. Neiss, owner and general manager the Canadian Victory Shows, has had our vice pleasure and satisfaction of playing a number of fair dates which have proved the best "season" since our existence the past season.

The shows have played a very successful tour thru the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, under the direction of Mr. Neiss, who has had twenty-nine years' experience in the show business.

It is announced that next season Mr. Neiss will have an all-wagon-front show, and has already contracted for a twenty-car train, and a large circus will be one of the big features. For the winter Mr. Neiss will, as in other years, establish his office at 55 Yonge Street Arcade, this city.

A GIRL TO THE KINGS

Belated news reached The Billboard that a niece was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jas. J. King at the Mercy Hospital, Tiffin, O., on August 23. Mother and baby are both reported doing nicely. Mr. and Mrs. King are well known concessionaers and when the little one arrived were playing the fair at Tiffin. During the winter and spring seasons they had their own caravan, the King Amusement Company, in the Southern Atlantic Coast States.

SAN FRANCISCO

By STUART B. DUNBAR
605 Pantages Theater Bldg.

San Francisco's proposed all night movie theater received its death blow when representatives of a number of prominent welfare and social organizations appeared before the Board of Supervisors at their meeting last Monday and filed formal protests against the venture. The protests were based on the ground that the operation of such a show house constituted a menace to the public morals. It had been planned to operate the theater for the benefit of showfolk and others whose occupations precluded their attending the theaters during the regular hours.

Tiny and James Brennan (The Two Tiny Tots) visited The Billboard office and announced that they have just secured a long route from Levy & Ackerman, which will keep them busy throughout the winter months. While working at Richmond, September 19, Tiny Brennan injured her ankle during her dance number. However, she expects to be at work in a week or ten days. The Brennans send regards to all folks. Their permanent address is care of The Billboard's San Francisco office.

For Young writes that he is doing well with Sam Grilla's minstrels. He is producing "The Return of the Unknown Recruits," the big hit of the second part of the olio.

Charles H. Wilkinson, "Lumber Jack Charlie," was a Billboard visitor during the week, following a successful engagement at the California State Fair in Sacramento. Wilkinson stopped the show closing night at Sacramento when he sang with the band, and took bow after bow. He will sing at the Fresno County Fair, after visiting in San Francisco for a few days.

Dale Alton writes from Los Angeles for word of her sister, Theda Alton, whom she believes to be in or near San Francisco. Miss Dixie has important news for her sister and would like to hear from her.

A movement has been launched here among the chorus girls to boost for Harding for president. Hee Wilsome, one of the leading feminine figures of the Morosco Theater of 1920, which opened at the Columbia Theater on the night of September 20, is one of the leaders in the movement and has offered the services of the women of her company to the Republican State Central Committee.

Two Orpheum and two Hippodrome acts entertained the convalescent soldiers at the Letterman General Hospital recently. The entertainment was conducted under the auspices of Adolph Dobring, stage director, and Mr. McSweeney, musical director. Numbers on the program included Haig, in "playtime," and Sidney Phillips in songs and stories from the Orpheum, and Clifton and Dahl, Joe Cuffman and Isabelle Carroll, from the Hippodrome.

Boomerang Bill, who has been with vaudeville actors and actresses playing Pantages Circuit will be returned to his residence as money paid out, owing to the recent raise in railroad rates, by a corresponding raise in salary.

She received Great ap plause here, whether true or not, was the cause of jubilation among showfolk, as it is taken that it may mean that other circuits will follow Pantages' example.

Emma Hair, featured on last week's Orpheum bill, has evolved a new dance, entitled "The Coyote Love," which she has in store for San Francisco by storm. The dance, it is said, is peculiarly adaptable to the ballroom, and society here has taken it to its heart.

Clay M. Greene, the playwright, has been placed in charge of the dramatic department just opened by The Journal of Commerce. The paper has been issued for years exclusively to commercial and shipping news.

"Joy Gems" scored at the opening Sunday, September 19, at the Casino Theater. Madie Du Frasne and Elizabeth Morgan open with a clever tap dance, in which they show off the famous Will King poses.

A. C. Boucher was a visitor at The Billboard office during the week and reported good business. The Boucher Shows are playing a clean-up at Sacramento, Boucher declared.

Another Billboard visitor was F. J. Matthews, special agent for Ringling Bros. Combined Shows, who is in San Francisco for a few days. Brown's show closes at Ladd, Id., on October 2 and will then proceed south by way of Nevada and Arizona.

W. F. (Bo) Callicott dropped into The Billboard office during the week to announce his safe arrival from Australia and that he is several months. Callicott says that he saw "Tarter and Tilford" while in Australia, and that he is doing well. The majority of shows, tho, Callicott says, are broke and are playing to "cold water." If a real crowd center is in evidence, he says, 29, write to me now or later. Address W. H. SHEPPARD, 412 Race St., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

BABCOCK' GREATER SHOWS

The F. W. Babcock Greater Shows made their first stand in California at Stockton, playing under the auspices of the Moose and doing a very large business. The shows received a fine recommendation as to their cleanliness (there being no so-called "girl shows" in the lineup) from the Moose to the Joaquin County Fair, now being held at Stockton, and the organization is playing this date to excellent attendance. The fair is giving the best exhibits ever presented, all departments being taxed to the limit, and the races and special features are especially attractive.

F. W. Babcock, owner, and his family are with the shows. Mr. Babcock is so well pleased with his reception and patronage in this State that he intends keeping the show out all winter. Chas. F. Haley is manager, C. E. Carlisle secretary and the writer press agent.—H. G. SHEAFER.

and my songs have always been accepted in vaudeville houses and also in the public libraries, yet whenever I sought to approach any of the so-called publishers in and around Broadway I have always been treated with both contempt and disrespect and always receive the same reply—we have our own staff of writers and we won't take anything from outside writers. Yet by teachers in schools and librarians songs and poetical works are given the most serious attention. The writing of songs is the work of a qualified poet, one who has shown exceptional skill in this line, and let me say here regarding the so-called "writer and collaboration song writer that the man who can not write a song without having one, two, three or four people to help him out has no business to try to do work of this kind. Suppose Shakespeare, Milton, Longfellow, Eliza Wheeler Wilcox, Florence Perry and other writers had called on the aid of three or four people to get something done, would their work be of any value? And what I have written five to six hundred songs and several volumes of poetry, as well as stories and plays, I have never required the assistance of anyone to do this work, because, as I have said, the man who can not write a song without the assistance of half a dozen others has no right to even try to do work of this kind, and it's just this staff writing business that has ruined the music publishing business. The people don't want this junk because it has no literary value and songs should not be published or written unless they have some literary value and are the work of one who has shown himself or herself to be a qualified poet. Of course I am aware that the efforts of these poets will do no good, as the poor author has not the money, the time and the inclination to do his songs on the market, and unless he can get someone to publish them, and it's ten very likely that he can, his work will not get before the public and the market will continue to be flooded with the junk of the staff writers, and the music business will be absolutely demoralized and ruined. I have written new words to all the old war and patriotic songs except "The Star Spangled Banner," which I have set to new music. I have followed in the lines of Foster, Burns, Moore, Longfellow, Poe and Edgar Allan Poe. I have written more school, church and folk songs than anybody any other man that ever lived. I wrote over twenty-five songs on the great war. I have written several hundred popular songs as well as a large number of fine standard ballads the equal of any ballad that ever been written, yet if I went down with any of my songs on Broadway they would say, "We have our own staff of writers and we don't take anything from outside." Yet if you can get out of the so-called publishing business and actually insulted and abused you would be very lucky indeed. I feel sorry for those people as far as getting his work published. He can not even retain his self-respect as a poet, as a lover or a man, and if anyone doubts in any way what I have said I am in a position to convince them that every word is true. I am in a position to give to the public the list of the famous collaborated school patriotic and folk songs that have ever come from the hands of any author, as well as popular songs and standard ballads. Yet I could enlist the aid of some reliable person who has a desire and a love for what is good, what is nice and what is beautiful in music. As a poet and composer I consider life's work as done, and if there is anyone who desires to help me to get this work out I would be glad to have them at my home where they are, either publisher, singer or musician. I have enough work for all and there is room for all those who wish to assist. And now at the end of my letter let me thank The Billboard for the assistance it has given me in publishing my work, and I feel I will succeed in getting my work before the public I shall give unlimited praise to the one medium the obscure author and poet has, The Billboard.

Thanking you for giving your valuable space to my letter in your issue of September 30, I am, Yours very truly,
NATHAN D. LEWIS.

JOHNNY J. JONES' EXPO.

Again at Tennessee State Fair—Attendance Records Being Broken

All records for attendance at the Tennessee State Fair at Nashville will be distanced by many thousand. There was a street car strike on at Nashville, but that did not keep the men removed their positions.

Johnny J. Jones' Exposition has outgrown the old midway space on the Tennessee State Fair grounds, and is now compelled to erect its "Joy plaza" on the infield of the race track, which is reached by a subway. Wednesday Governor Roberts was to honored guest and the writer had the pleasure of escorting him and his staff thru the various attractions. Also the acting, with Rob Roy as leading, many comely fair secretaries visited the Jones Exposition. Other attendants included included Col. James L. Dent, manager Alabama State Fair; Mr. Steiner, newly appointed manager Tampa (South Florida) Fair; R. M. Striplin, manager Southeastern Exposition, Atlanta; Senor Pistolino, manager Pensacola (Fla.) Fair; Harry Sudekum, who controls nearly every theater in Nashville; "Out" Bill Bailey, who put Klaw & Erlanger on the theatrical map; Frank Perkins and Harold Morris, concessionaires; Mr. Adams, partner of "Patrick Issy Murphy" Fireside, and his staff of "cheer" and "waiters" arrived in Nashville Monday. Patrick Regan is now manager of Johnny J. Jones' "Neptune's Daughters." Mrs. Ethel Levin has arrived on a visit. Mrs. Earl Potter, who has been visiting her parents, has returned to Nashville. Eddie Vaughn and daughter, Ruth, have returned to their St. Louis home. As to the Southern trip of this organization, doubts are dispelled, as Manager Fuller, Memphis; Dent, Birmingham; Striplin, Atlanta; Meecey, Fleming, Savannah, and Dr. Hennifounde, Jacksonville, all predict record-breaking attendance at their different expositions.

"Mr. Cupid" is still at work. He "prosecuted" another couple last week and they had "sentence for life" meted out to them. The guilty couple were Mr. Harry Hall and Mabel Mack's Comedy Mule Circus, Frank Close, of Guthrie, Okla., and Miss Joseph Marlowe, of Las Vegas, N. M. Mr. Dunn and Miss Mack acted as best man and bridesmaid. It was a public wedding during a performance of the Mule Circus.—ED R. SALTER.

JAMES M. BENSON SHOWS

Mount Airy, N. C., Sept. 23.—The James M. Benson Shows played a successful week at Chesterfield, Va., Mt. Airy, N. C., and this week is 10-in-1 show, and a big week. Mr. Robbins stayed the Chesterfield, Va., the circus is there when the town burned down. The circus lost an evening performance, as Mr. Robbins ordered all his men to help the people, the natives put fire out. That is why Mr. Robbins is so popular in Chesterfield. He was busy all day Monday shaking hands with the populace. Dover, Del., was the next stop. The Benson Shows were the first to play Dover this year.

The writer is at present in Mount Airy, N. C., making arrangements for the arrival of the shows, and it looks to him like another "red" week. He arrived here Monday, September 20, and, from all indications, the fair this year will be the biggest ever held in Mount Airy, and the officials are counting on making it a real educational exhibition. Over $5,000 is being offered in premiums in the fair secretary's office, and many other premiums are going in the art and needle work department and others. The Benson Shows will furnish all attractions on the midway and will have ten shows and four rides for the amusement of the fair visitors. They have enlarged the lead to twenty cars. The fair season starts here for the shows and continues for fourteen weeks.—HARRY R. MORRIS.

PLANS MATURING RAPIDLY

For Annual Banquet and Ball of Showmen's League of America

Chicago, Sept. 23.—The plans for the big Banquet and Ball, to be given in December by the Showmen's League of America, are maturing rapidly. Edward P. Neumann, general chairman, has already secured bids from the various hotels, and will have all his data ready to present to the members at the next meeting of the league. Everyone is enthusiastic about the new date for the banquet and ball, and predictions are freely made that this year will see the largest and best affair ever given by the league, and a good deal has been expressed as to whether the famous Gold Room would be large enough to take care of the crowd. Chairman Neumann will have the tickets ready for distribution within a week, and urges that all get in reservations early as possible. This will avoid any disappointments caused by a last-minute rush.

The various committees are now being made up, and the list will be published as soon as possible. In the meantime all the members are requested to start boosting for the ball, and the best way to boost is to write E. P. Neumann, 231 North Desplaines street, Chicago, and tell him how many tickets you will want.

The growth of the League is systematic and steady. At a special meeting held September 21 the applications of persons for membership were passed on favorably as follows: Roland O. Kupps, John Hartman, Otto Siegrist, Harry B. Danville, William C. Hippman, Charles F. Torrens, Harry McDuffy, Edward Kemp, Sergeanmnn, Max Sanders, Gus Schaefer and John T. Statesman.

MILLER BROS.' SHOWS

Johnson City, Tenn., Sept. 24.—Miller Bros.' Shows played the fair at Galax, Va., last week, which event proved the best one given during the automobile contest, handled by Frank Mayshall, at the Bluefield (W. Va.) Fair, Sept. 20-24, not very successful.

This week finds the shows in Johnson City, located in the heart of town, and, up to midnight last night, all shows and rides have had extraordinary big patronage, and the concessions are doing big business. This is positively the first time the Miller Shows have been the city limits of Johnson City since 1911. Rome, Ga., is the stand for next week, with the other fairs in Georgia to follow, also two big celebrations in Florida. W. H. (Red) Stumps is still special agent behind Jack Oliver and the Joining Fine Work. General Agent Oliver has both this show and the Great American Shows booked up to the last of November. This organization plays both the Winder and the Cartersville, Ga., fairs. At present the midway comprises twelve shows, four rides, 20 concessions, white and colored bands and one free act, Charles Lorenz, on ball game King, still wears "that smile" which denotes big business. Manager Dunlap, managing Dixie Minstrels, tells 'em he must have a larger tent, as he is keeping the entire list of attractions, while Joe Turner, who has the Athletic Show, is giving George a run for his money. Sam Herle, in charge of the concessions raking in the shekels, as does O'Hardy's Animal Show and Mrs. Miller's Cafe. Mr. and Mrs. Jack have been enlarged. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. (Dad) Strange are now with the show, with their concessions.—SNOWBALL.

ZARRA MONARCH SHOWS

China Grove, N. C., Sept. 24.—This week finds the Zarra Greater Monarch Show in China Grove, located in the center of the town. All attractions and concessions opened Monday night to good business, and this week is the big banner week of the season at Bessemer City, N. C., Zarra's Milestone's getting top money. Patrick Moyer's "Cabaret" Show also did good business, as did Geo. Grupe's Garden of Allah, the Tenen-Lane Snake Show and Dixie Athletic Show.

Mrs. Zarra and Mrs. Moyer took a flight in an airplane one day last week, and were playing the streets of Hickory, N. C. Mrs. Fred Shaffer is visiting friends in New York City for two weeks. During the engagement in Bessemer City Geo. Grupe and Thelma Sike were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. A large supper was served after the performances for the folks in the Office. Mr. Zarra's fete seem to be just starting. Next the caravan plays Drakes Branch, Va.—SLIM.

DUFOUR & TILFORD SHOWS

Sparrows Point, Md., Sept. 23.—This week, a return engagement for the Dufour & Tilford Shows, is proving even better than the visit early in the season. The lot is crowded every afternoon and night and all shows, rides and concessions are doing fine.

The show has already played three fairs to good business. Despite the rain at Manassas (Va.) Fair, the attendance grew each day. Rockville, Md., and West Chester, Pa., fairs proved exceptionally good.

The staff of the show comprises the following: Lew Dufour, manager; Wm. Rose, treasurer; York Rosen, legal adjuster; H. E. Young, secretary; Jas. F. Wilson, press agent; C. H. Thomas, special agent; C. A. Holbrook, trainmaster; Harry Steward, electrician; Tony Gloria, musical director.

Among the attractions carried with the organization are the following: Anthony Lowlie' Hewitt Spillman curtain; Dufour & Tilford's Ferris wheel, Phillips & Hamilton's "Thru the Fair," James Kelly's Ocean Wave, J. Leonard Rex's Society Circus Side-Show, Thomas McGurk's Commodore Tom, Educated Pony, Manager Ross.' Sideshows, Hollwick's Jungleland, Joe Simson's Palace of Illusions, Dave Black's "Hazel" Show and Spark's Athletic Arena.

There are three shows to join at Fredericksburg. Jolly May and Roy Bard will also join.

Among the concessioners are Eddy Drill and Tom Rose, with five; Raphael & Phillips, six; J. F. Wilson, four; Nathan Magrin, one; Mrs. O. E. Rich, one; Joseph Yasome, two; Ross Henwood, one; Mrs. Vic Seigler, two; James Kelly, one; John P. Nugent, one; Wm. Browne, one.

There are several concessions joining at Fredericksburg, Va.

The show starts its string of nine Southern fairs at Fredericksburg, Va., September 27, and concludes the season at Kingstree, S. C., November 20.

SMITH'S GREATER UNITED

Meyersdale, Pa., Sept. 24.—After a long and tiresome trip the Smith Greater United Shows arrived in Meyersdale from Pennsboro, W. Va., where they played the fair at that place to a good week's business.

The members of this caravan have organized an "Outdoor Sports Club," and are weekly putting on foot races, shot putting, vaulting, hammer throwing, horse racing, etc. Manager "Brownie" Smith takes his exercise before breakfast to give him a good appetite. Big Jolly Bob (Chambers) keeps the bunch laughing and acts as referee. A feature of a recent "meet" was a ladies' foot race, which had five entrees. Martha Kurtz, Mrs. Geo. Howard, Mrs. O. L. Hawkins, Mrs. Otis Bogard and Anna Patol. Mrs. Martha Kurtz won the honors.

MAJESTIC EXPOSITION SHOWS

There have been several new arrivals on the Majestic Exposition Shows, also attractions added, inclusive of which is a "White," K. P. Curles, formerly a member of this organization, has joined to take charge of the caravan, and with his customary hustle much improvement is evident.

Two more teams of horses have also been added, and Mr. Manager Curles is having wagons built and enlarging the show to five more cars. The Majestic Exposition Shows will remain out until late in November, and will then go into a park in the South for the winter.

BISHOP UNITED SHOWS

The Bishop United Shows arrived in St. Johns, Kan., after a very successful week at the Great Bend (Kan.) Fair, and are at this writing getting ready for another good engagement. The shows have only played one blower since opening at El Paso, Tex., the first week week in March, and from the spots General Agent Roy F. Stephens has booked for now looks as the both the spring, summer and fall tours would close a success, from every standpoint. The management intends continuing on the road thruout the winter. The lineup now comprises eight shows, three riding devices and thirty-five concessions. W. Bishop just returned from Colorado, where he purchased a No. 10 Eli wheel.—P. G.

SHOWMEN, IT'S YOUR FIGHT

Do Your Part in Aiding COMA To Combat Exorbitant Railroad Rates

Showmen and Car Owners:

COMA now has complaints filed in Texas, Kansas, Arkansas and Missouri. No matter where you are, write or wire today a complaint to each Commission about the awful rates the Entz, Frisco, Cotton Belt, R. I. and T. P. are charging ($310 minimum and up).

The Texas Commission is to give us a hearing shortly; but we cannot do this if we could not see why COMA was kicking when Ringling Bros., John Robinson, Reed, Southwestern and Gentry Bros. were paying the rates asked without complaint.

I. C. C. will give us a hearing as soon as we file our brief against such railroads as are charging more than the Administration rates plus the increase granted by the I. C. C. This requires a real attorney, such as Judge Hanshaw, who is a railroad attorney, and has never lost a case before the I. C. C. The case will cost for a starter, together with expenses, COMA needs at once at least $2,500, and, as we have no guarantee beyond that December, the Freight Committee, of which I am chairman, decided to ask all owners of shows to send at once as $5 per car to

WILL J. FARLEY, Secy. COMA, care The Billboard, St. Louis, Mo.

This was suggested by C. A. Wortham, who has sent in $450 for 90 cars; one other showman who does not want his name mentioned, $200, and Rice & Dorman, $210. You all know a lot of showmen will not kick in with a cent, but do your part immediately; also send in name of any railroad charging more than Administration rates plus the increase granted by the I. C. C., so our brief then will be complete.

COMA was in Washington and rates have been accepted by all railroads in the State except by Katy and Frisco, which have taken Rule 7, which reads that air runs must be approved by operating department and show moved at convenience of carrier. They refuse to handle special. The Commission has wired me to come at once and file a complaint so this rule may be changed at once. Now, don't stall. Send in the money. Write or wire the complaints to various Commissions in each State, and send dope on railroads that are charging over the limit.

Remember, COMA has no money on hand.

W. H. RICE.

SARGENT—John William, founder of the Society of American Magicians and for the past three years private secretary to Hundini, died September 24 in St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, after an operation. He was 67 years old and lived at 2231 Bilstar avenue, Bronx.

STEERS—Margie, wife of Carl Bayard Steers, died September 20 at St. Mary's Sanatorium, San Antonio, Tex., where she had been sent a short time ago for treatment of tuberculosis. Mrs. Steers was a well-known character woman in the West and South, being associated with various stock and repertoire companies. She also had appeared in vaudeville, playing in a dramatic sketch with her husband called "When the Clock Struck Twelve," which gained for them considerable favorable comment. She was a devoted wife and mother. She is survived by her husband and six-year-old son, who was practicing for the blow when after the interment, which was at Boerne, Tex., Mr. Steers and his son returned to their home at Birch Tree, Mo.

STRALEY—Frank T., owner and operator of a soft drink stand in Louisville, Ky., was shot and killed by a hold-up bandit on the front porch of his home in that city, September 22. The bandit, who had been given the funeral cost $2,000, covered with blood, in his hand.

WOODSWORTH — Wm. B., Alaska theater man, was burned to death in a gas boat explosion off Ketchikan, Alaska, September 9, according to word received by Seattle, Wash., relatives. He was a portable motion picture outfit and a launch, Woodsworth had been spending the season giving entertainments in the cannery towns of Southeastern Alaska. It was while on one of these trips that he met his death. Because of his being a bachelor and a great sinner, his visits to the lonely mining camps were always popular events among the scourdoubs. Mr. Woodsworth took the first show company that ever visited the interior of Alaska over the Southeastern Alaska in the winter of 1906. The show made a big hit with the miners of the Eben new camp of Fairbanks, and proved financially profitable to the promoter. He was unmarried and a native of Indiana, where surviving relatives reside. Woodsworth spent the winter months in Seattle, shipping at the Frye Hotel.

ZINDELL—Richard E., hero of the World War and young vitalist, died in a French hospital October 31, 1918. The body has just been returned to his home. Mr. Zindel was only 23 years of age. He was born in Boston and at an early age began the study of the arts. He later studied in foreign countries and appeared in concerts in this country.

to the discouragement and loss of profit of the plaintiff.

Upon the settlement of the order, counsel for both parties urged a speedy trial, and I consented to hear the case out of its regular turn when it might be reached on the equity calendar. I have since heard the case and all proofs which have been submitted by both litigants. The contract provided, among other things:

"You agree throughout the term hereof that you shall not render your services, nor will you appear publicly, for any other firm or corporation, whether moving pictures or otherwise, without one written consent first had and obtained, and you should attempt to appear for any other management or in moving pictures, we shall have the right to apply to any court having competent jurisdiction for an injunction restraining your appearance, and you agree, for the purpose of such a breach, that your services are extraordinary and unique, and you can be restrained by the Court of Equity."

"We have the right to the use of your services in any theaters wherein we shall give Sunday concerts, and you shall appear and play in such concerts upon notice from us, given two (2) days' notice prior thereto of our desire to have you appear and naming the place of the letter was sufficient notice, even the argument was conducted in speaking the month that service was to commence." I was undoubtedly the intention of the writer to exercise the option specified in the contract, and this I think he did. Gladhill v. Scharlach, 49 Barb. 551, Butts v. Bryant, 31 N. Y. 45.

I am particularly impressed on the trial with the plaintiff's proof as to the performance of the defendants being unique and unusual. I saw the performance of the defendants and there obtained a view which colonized with that which has been expressed on the trial. The witnesses who testified, altho many of them are engaged as musicians, they might be said to be friendly to the plaintiff were credible witnesses men who were sufficiently expert to express an opinion on the performance. I find their reasons are sufficient for my following them as a guide to the conclusion that I have reached that this service is unusual and unique.

The last objection raised by counsel for the defendants is that the service contemplated Sunday performances, and therefore the contract is illegal. But the contract provides the right to the use of the services of the defendants. In any theater where they may give Sunday concerts. I can not assume that the plaintiff will violate the criminal law and give performances during the ensuing year where the law forbids it. I do not think the contract should be voided because of the presence of this requirement in the contract. The show might travel and the defendants might perform in other communities and States where Sunday concerts are permissible, and, therefore, the defendants would be obliged to perform as contracted, and, therefore, I agree, for the purpose of such a breach, that your services are extraordinary and unique, and you can be restrained by the Court of Equity.

"We have the right to the use of your services in any theaters wherein we shall give Sunday concerts, and you shall appear and play in such concerts upon notice from us, given two (2) days' notice prior thereto of our desire to have you appear and naming the place

U. S. Circuit Judge.

A. E. A. WILL HOLD MEETINGS TO DISCUSS "EQUITY SHOP"

It has also been proposed that similar meetings shall be held in Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia, and our president, John Emerson, has kindly offered to attend.

"It has been the custom of the Actors' Equity Association to make any drastic move without a thorough investigation. The three meetings many of our members will doubtless make many valuable suggestions. These meetings will also have a tendency to promote comradeship and good feeling.

"FRANK GILLMORE,

twenty-three thousand bottles of perfume were distributed to the ladies.

The season at Columbia Park opened June 19. J. Henry Allen booked all the acts for this park and will probably do the booking next season. Starlight Park, located in The Bronx, opened May 1 and will wind up its third successful season October 9. Michael Kleinmann will conduct a skee-ball tournament Thursday and Friday and an "old timers" day has been engaged for the closing celebration.

It is rumored that a change in management is made in the directorate of Starlight Park at a meeting held this past week. Col. Wm. C. McConnell, a banker, of Shamokin, Pa., has added to the board, it is reported, and additional changes are pending.

her the best of plays, for she will bring to them intelligence, skill and the ability to build characters. Everyone who sees her performance in this piece will be sure to see her do something really worth while, and it is to be hoped that they won't have to wait too long.—GORDON WHYTE.

EXCERPTS FROM THE NEW YORK DAILIES

Times: "—an incredibly cheap and clumsy piece of work. Ten-twenty-and-thirty-cent theatrical machinery—redeemed only by the skilful and singularly eloquent playing of Miss Brady."

Tribune: "—a play of little humor, but small grace and less purpose."

Mail: "—crudely carpentered and a little ridiculous when it tries hardest to be serious."

"The Passing Show of 1919" will close its engagement at Chicago on October 9 and take to the road for the balance of the season.

"Pitter-Patter" opens at the Longacre Theater, New York, September 28. Boston says it likes the piece, which is a musical version of "Caught in the Rain."

Stanley Forde has been added to the cast of "Jim Jam Jems," the new John Cort revue. Forde takes the place of Harry Fodor. The piece is slated to come to the Cort Theater, New York, September 27, but it may not arrive until later.

DONALD CALTHROP PRODUCING "THE

Donald Calthrop takes possession of the Comedy, Aldwych, this coming Thursday, and is busy rehearsing a new and original play in three acts of Mr. Calthrop's by Algernon Blackwood and Bertram Forsyth. Blackwood will be remembered by an adaptation of his book, "The Starlight Express," which was produced at the Kingsway Theater some years back. "The Crossing" is not a modern play, but deals with modern life concerning the upper middle classes. Irene Rorke, Mary Barton, Marjory Gordon, Margaret Murray, Mercia Cameron, Herbert Harben and Herbert Marshall will support Mr. Calthrop, who will also act as his own producer.

LEONARD RAYNE HERE ON A VISIT

This well-known actor, who controls the theatrical destinies of South Africa, is in England for a visit, and has brought with him his leading woman, Freda Godfrey, of whom he speaks in the highest terms. So unique is a position does Miss Godfrey hold in South Africa that Rayne is desirous of her making her bow before a London audience, and for that purpose he is actually negotiating for a West End house, and as he is stated to be this side for the next six months there should be ample opportunities to achieve the end.

"ON OUR SELECTION" FLOPS

Bert Baller has experienced the sensation of playing in London, the center of the Englishman's "Home," but in so doing it cost him and his partner, Grant, a pile of money, as they have not taken in cash. The piece, whilst being crude, might have gotten over if it had not adopted the London consumption, and the fact that he had not a single actor with a West End "name" of any not high him any. The rent of the Lyric stood him $1,500 a week, so he, by say nothing of the cast and advertising. Truly it is a big speculation, and putting the "Ill" in it.

SOLBORN EMPIRE SCENE FOR "LONE MAGGIE"

The other Sunday night the Solborn Empire was set as the scene for this film, which is being produced by Mr. Grantlie, who has come down from far off California to do so. As Sunday evening was started also for the production of the "crown workers" and the small-part folk, much tendition was felt on their part as to being able to get away by 8:30 that night, accordingly, a deputation waited on him, and explained the situation. Grantlie agreed with their desire to organize themselves for mutual protection and put the matter in a nutshell thru their work expeditiously he would help them all to get back home at a good hour, and the crowd was dismissed promptly at 8, and as the Rehearsal Theater was only six minutes walk the cast flocked down there and swamped the building.

LETTER LIST

Mail Forwarding Service of The Billboard

Free, prompt and far-famed, the Billboard stands alone as a safe and sure medium thru which professional people may have their mail addressed. Thousands of performers and showfolk now receive their mail thru this highly efficient department.

Mail is sometimes lost and mixups result because performers do not write plainly, do not give correct address or forget to give an address at all when writing for advertised mail. Others send letters and write address and name on near postage stamp that it is obliterated in cancelation by the postoffice stamping machines. In such cases and where such letters bear no return address the letter can only be forwarded to the Dead Letter Office. Help The Billboard handle your mail by complying with the following:

Write for mail when it is FIRST advertised. The following is the key to the letter list:

Cincinnati..........(No Stars)
New York........One Star (*)
Chicago........Two Stars ()
St. Louis....Three Stars ()
San Francisco..............(S)

If your name appears in the Letter List with stars before it write to the office holding the mail, which you will know by the method outlined above. Keep the Mail Forwarding Department supplied with your route and mail will be forwarded without the necessity of advertising it. Postage is required only for packages—letter service is absolutely free.

Mail is held but 30 days, and can not be recovered after it goes to the Dead Letter Office.

Mail advertised in this issue was uncalled for up to last Sunday noon. All requests for mail must be signed by the party to whom mail is addressed.

PARCEL POST

ACTORS, ACTRESSES AND ARTISTS

who elect to make their permanent address in care of The Billboard may, of course, choose any of our branch offices, i. e., New York, Chicago, St. Louis or San Francisco, but are advised, if they are en route, to consider the home office carefully.

CINCINNATI IS BUT THIRTY-ONE MILES FROM THE GEOGRAPHICAL CENTER OF POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA, and it follows naturally that less delay will ensue in the handling and forwarding of your mail.

We want our service to continue to be, as it always has been, the very best and promptest, and, therefore, we recommend "PERMANENT ADDRESS, CARE OF THE BILLBOARD, CINCINNATI."

It is unnecessary in writing for mail to use a self-addressed and stamped envelope—A POSTAL CARD WILL DO. Give your route far enough ahead to permit your mail to reach you. Write names of towns, dates and signature plainly.

LETTERS ARE HELD THIRTY DAYS ONLY, after which, if no address has been obtained, they are sent to the Dead Letter Office. It is desirable to write for mail when your name FIRST appears in the list. Address your postal to "Mail Forwarding Service, The Billboard."

WILLIAM POWER DEAD

Famous Trainer and Owner of Power's Elephants Dies at Age of 55

New York, Sept. 25.—William Power, widely known because of his connections with circuses and similar amusement enterprises, died in Seton Hospital, Spuyten Duyvil, last night at the age of 55. He is survived by a widow, a brother, Thomas Power, manager of the Kilties Band, and one sister, who lives at Mr. Power's birthplace, Belleville, Ontario, Canada. Mr. Power was known as one of America's foremost animal trainers and his elephants had appeared at the New York Hippodrome every season except one since the opening of the big playhouse under the Thompson & Dundy management in 1905. One of Power's famous elephants was to stop a herd of elephants stampeding several years ago.

BERT SILVER LEAVES ROAD

Greenville, Mich., Sept. 22.—Bert Silver, after fifty years as a showman, during which time he operated companies consisting of from four to fifty people, has retired from the road show business. He has just closed a suite of Silvers Park at Crystal Lake, Mich., including hotel, cottages, theater, stands, grounds, etc., to a syndicate of capitalists which will build this beautiful spot into one of the finest resorts in Michigan.

The residence of the Silver family is now in this city, where they have a beautiful home and the only theater in the city, the Silver Family Theater, running vaudeville and feature pictures. The Silver Family lays claim to be the first to put out a company on a truck show, carrying fourteen first-class circus acts, to keep it set and return with it and have satisfactory profits.

Mr. Silver's reason for taking his show off the road is attributed to poor health and he has attained sufficient finances to justify his retirement from the road business. The firm title in Greenville is Bert Silver & Sons.

FRIEDMAN'S SHOWS

White Bluff, Tenn., Sept. 24.—The Friedman United Shows are showing to nice business here this week for the White Bluff Free Fair. McEwen, Tenn., next week, is looked forward to as a very remunerative engagement, as there has been no show there for several years. Then comes the Waverly (Tenn.) Fair, where a new two-abreast Herschell-Spillman carousel joins the lineup of attractions. This carousel carries five shows and eighteen concessions.

The Sunshine Dixie Minstrels are having a big week here. Bert Shane's One-Ring Circus is also enjoying good business. Leo Friedman just purchased a new racer, which is being used by the agents, W. C. Bunyard and Cecil C. Rice, and from the lineup of fairs and good spots booked into Arkansas it has proven a fine investment. Grace Dulmage's Musical Comedy Show, with Doc King on the front, always gets in on the top money. The personnel of the staff follows: Leo Friedman, owner and manager; Grace Friedman, treasurer; Cecil Icgel, adjuster; W. C. Bunyard, general agent; "Red" Hill, lot and tentmaster; Jack Miller, electrician.—W. C. B.

JOSEPH CRAMER ROBBED

Six bandits stopped Joseph Cramer, 45, of 79 Third avenue, as he was walking with his wife from a visit to friends, near Sidney-third street and the East Drive in Central Park, New York City, Friday, September 24. When he defended himself with his cane they took it away from him and beat him until he was unconscious.

While part of the band stopped Mrs. Cramer's cries for help others took from Cramer $105 in cash, a $75 ruby ring, a $125 watch and $60 and an $80 watch and chain. Before Policeman Burgess came they escaped.

Cramer is well known in the circus field, being an elastic-skin side-show attraction.

ALL-AMERICAN SHOWS

Fulton, Ky., Sept. 24.—The All-American Shows are now playing Fulton on a lot located one block from the heart of the city. Altho this is the first season for the All-American Shows, it is growing fast and will soon be among the best known caravans.

The lineup was increased here by the arrival of Captain Cooke, with his Wild Animal Show; "Red" Harrigan, pitch-till-win game, Rockstook house, Allen's doughnut machine, Robinson's rolldown, "Frenchy" Muse, with his root beer, and S. L. Sheek's ball game. L. C. Staley has contracted his Allan Herschell carousel and Big Bill wheel to join after the exposition at Evansville, Ind. Mr. Allen is going to send his Parker carry-us-all to the factory to be overhauled. Mr. Allen has purchased the interest of his former partner, J. H. Freeman, and is now sole owner of the All-American Shows. Capt. Cook has received two new banners from the Beverly Company, of Louisville.

The lineup of this organization consists of Allen's three-abreast carry-us-all, Dorktown Follies, Marvin's Mechanical Cowboy's Wild Animal Show, platform show; thirty-five concessions. The new staff comprises Kirk Allen, owner and manager; Agnes Allen, secretary and treasurer; D. M. Brown, general agent; Capt. D. V. Cooke, lot superintendent; Harry Cooke, trainmaster; "Slim" Chonbet, superintendent of canvas and stock.

"Shorty" McWilliams joined Capt. Cooke's show here. The advance car of the Campbell, Bailey & Hutchinson Circus was here Wednesday, and the members visited the midway. The next stand for this caravan is Halls, Tenn., then Sardis, Miss., the first stand in the "Delta Country," where the shows will play on Thanksgiving, and then make a big jump into South Carolina for the winter.—HARRY COOKS.

FALSE

Ringling Brothers Not Cutting Show

A story published last week in a cheap and irresponsible weekly held it that Ringling Bros. were cutting down their shows, reducing the number of acts and generally lowering expenses preparatory to the tour of the South.

There is not a word of truth in the story. The South is very prosperous and Messrs. Ringling expect even better business in that region than elsewhere and are carrying every feature, act and appurtenance that they carried on tour with.

There have been a few changes in railroad connections due to accidents and other causes, but there have been fewer this season than ever before.

As a matter of fact the show enters the South not weaker but actually stronger in many ways than it has been of late, and it is running much smoother and better.

FRISCO AND KATY HEARING SET FOR OCTOBER 12

A rehearing before the Corporation Commission at Oklahoma City, Okla., caused by the refusal of the Frisco and Katy railroads to accept the commission's order for reduced rates charged for moving shows, has been set for October 12. Judge Henshaw has been retained as counsel by COMA.

The commission refused to approve the Frisco charge of $22 per mile, plus to Oklahoma City, which the Ringlings paid under protest.

SMITH LIKES POSITION

Elgin, Ill., Sept. 22.—Fletcher Smith, now press representative for the Walter L. Main Shows, writes W. A. Atkins, veteran showman of this city, that he is very much pleased with his new position, and that the treatment accorded him on the Main Shows by the members and his new employer is truly gratifying. Smith further says states that the show is doing good business in the South, with everything running smoothly, and Mr. Smith can be found at the front door every day of the Main Circus.

HOSS-HAY UNITED SHOWS

The Hoss-Hay United Shows are playing Massillon, O., for the week of September 20 to good business. This show had a lucky break with the weather man all season, with hit one exception.

General Agent "Talking Tom" Terrill is booking the caravan in good spots, and Alliance, O., uptown on the streets, and Mt. Vernon, O., also on the streets, which follow, are being booked forward to with much anticipation. The stands are booked for the first two weeks in October, Orrville, O., follows Massillon.

The "Whip" with six new tops, purchased in the spring, still present a new and bright appearance, as does the outfit in general. There is no thought on the part of the management of closing the show in the near future, and doubtless the tour will continue rather late this season. The lineup consists of eight shows, three rides and thirty-five concessions. Prof. Wallace's All-American Band of twelve pieces provides the musical programs.—ART.
